Seeing Others Suffer. 800,000 Futile Men. Short Skirts, Bare Back. Dr. Lowell On Drink

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SOME find happiness in the misery of others. Crowds gathered to see traitors punished in Queen Elizabeth's day, miserable creatures were hanged by the neck, cut down living, and submitted to shameful indescribable mutilation.

COTTON MATHER told his flock that in heaven the blessed were made more blissful by permission to look down into hell and see friends, neighbors and relations writhing in the fire.

WE HAVE improved morally, but even now, in Florida, California, or on the French Riviera, men like to read about cold weather elsewhere. Yesterday they could read of 38 degrees below zero in Utah, where sheep died in flocks, frozen stiff, farmers unable to reach them.

WHEN we realize that "absolute zero," a temperature hundreds of degrees below zero, exists throughout space just outside of our thin atmosphere, only 500 miles deep, and that heat inconceivable is just below our feet, we should be grateful.

Nothing is more marvelous than nature's regulation of the earth's temperature except the regulation of our bodily heat, varying not even ONE degree on the equator or at the North Pole.

We are fearfully and wonderfully made and so is our old earth. Those that do not praise the Lord are ungrateful.

IT IS important to have tools, more important to understand using them. China is about to dismiss 1,000,000 men from her various armies, wondering how to pay them back wages, and employ them at work better for the country than brigandage.

CHINA keeps an army of 800,000 men, biggest in the world. Japan, or any nation that understands war, with one quarter as many men, could conquer the Chinese army. That is no reflection on Chinese courage, which equals that of any nation. It is a matter of military science.

HENCE the importance of developing military specialists here, enlarging West Point and Annapolis, and employing in public works engineers produced by military schools. The Panama Canal proves the constructive capacity of our Army. The Navy is as good.

MODERN war is chiefly engineering. The dashing commander of a cavalry regiment would be replaced by a man like Lindbergh or Rickenbacker leading an airplane flotilla. Another Napoleon would need, first of all, a force of chemists

Napoleon could not have imagined that, when, in Egypt, having brought many scientists from France, he ordered, "Donkeys and scientists in the center," when the fighting began, wishing to protect science and baggage.

PARIS says women, this summer, will wear skirts as short as ever, but "less on their backs."

The day when ladies startled the opera by uncovering half of the spine has gone by. "All of the spine is beautiful," says the modern dressmaker. Quite true, if you don't include in the spine the little curled os coccyx, all that is left, says science, of what used to be a tail.

BUT why uncover everything! Can women not realize that imagination is more important than mere display? In courtship, a sigh might mean more than a thousand words, and a little lace around the neck more than a whole string of vertebrae.

PRESIDENT LOWELL of Harvard deplores prohibition's results, likening them to the evils of reconstruction days. He recalls that when the evils of reconstruction became plain, President Hayes, wisely, decided to "withdraw those laws, although to enforce them was his clear constitutional obligation."

DEALING with thousands of young men under prohibition, Dr. Lowell's opinions must be respected. The most ardent prohibition enthusiast, Dr. Lowell calls the present enforcement of the law "vexatious, demoralizing and inefficient." He says in his Atlantic Monthly article, "As every one knows, the law is not enforced, and as time goes on it seems to be less and less effective."

SUCH men as Dr. Lowell of Harvard, Dr. Abbott, able educator at the head of Lawrenceville School, and others that know prohibition's effects on boys and young men, should be consulted on laws that affect the rising generation.

W. R. Hearst, who offers $25,000 for the best plan to establish true temperance and discourage bootlegging and crime born of bootlegging, might obtain valuable suggestions from educators generally, from heads of universities to high school principals.

GERMAN monarchists, amounting to little in the republic, celebrated the former Kaiser's birthday, but the German people paid no attention to it.

Germans are well educated, thanks to a marvelous school system, fifty years' influence of the Social Democratic party. Good brains, and they know that Germany will get more from her philosophers, scientists, industrialists, good mechanics and popular vote than from any Hohenzollern family.

THE Interstate Commerce Commission permits the New York Central to combine its 11,000-mile railroad system into one big railroad. Permission is given "conditionally," but it will go through.

SUCH combinations are for the public good, reducing waste in overhead charges, for which the people must pay, increasing resources for better building.

Competition is wasteful and no longer means lower prices. If the public is not intelligent enough to watch great public combinations, it would not know enough to protect itself against secret combinations.

HOOVER WILLING TO SEE SMITH AT MIAMI

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—The question that has been agitating all Miami for 24 hours—whether Al Smith is going to call on Herbert Hoover—was partially answered today by the President-elect himself.

"By all means, I shall be glad if Gov. Smith has the time to call," said Mr. Hoover in response to a question. "I should be most happy to see him."

While this statement was made to newspaper correspondents, it was not followed up, so far as is known, by any direct or personal invitation to the Democratic presidential candidate.

UP TO SMITH

The statement rather leaves it up to ex-Gov. Smith. He is in Miami on a vacation, staying some miles away from Mr. Hoover's retreat on Belle Isle, off the beach.

News of the President-elect's statement was communicated to ex-Gov. Smith by newspapermen, but he did not commit himself.

"Look here," he said somewhat brusquely, "I'm down here on a vacation and you fellows ought to give me a chance. Of course, I'm interested in the statement, but I have none to make."

In light of the developments, it was thought very likely that the former Governor will pay his re-

Typewriter Smiths In Divorce Court

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—A husband and wife court battle that may rival the Stillman case was promised today with the filing of divorce and counter divorce suits by George Ed Smith, millionaire typewriter king, and his wife, Mary Smith. The suing husband charges his wife with 17 acts of misconduct, while she in turn accuses him of infidelity with a "tall slim blonde," whom she names as a Miss Helen C. Meade.

China Promises Aid For Kidnaped Priest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—American Minister MacMurray at Peking advised the State Department today that Foreign Minister Wang at Nanking had promised to take immediate action to effect the release of the Rev. Edward Young, the American Catholic missionary, kidnaped by Communists at Nananfu and held for $10,000 ransom.

TRAIL GIRL IN FOILED SAFE RAID

Safe crackers, one of them believed to be a woman, after hours of work gave up without attaining their goal, $3,000 in two safes in the F. W. Woolworth five and ten-cent store, 101 East Ohio street.

Both safes were found battered and partialy wrecked, but with the money compartments intact, when employes opened the store for business today. The robbers had evidently spent many hours during the week-end in their unsuccessful job. An imprint, believed to be that of a woman's gloved hand, was found on one of the safes.

MISS CASH RECEIPTS

The safecrackers missed Saturday's receipts, all in cash, by only the thickness of an inner steel door guarding the compartment in which the cash had been placed. The knob of the combination to this door as well as of the outer door had been broken off by a heavy sledge hammer. It is thought that at this period of their operations the band was frightened away just when it was near gaining a rich reword for its efforts. Sledge hammers were used to wreck the combinations of the outer doors of both safes.

Entrance to the store, a two-story building, was gained from the roof. Footprints found show the safecrackers made their way along the roof to a skylight, forced open the skylight and then let themselves down through it to the loft. They then used the elevator shaft to gain entrance into the store.

SEE HAND OF WOMAN

Detectives found footprints on the roof and also in the store. Some fingerprints were also found and also indications that at least one of those in the band wore gloves. It was the imprint of the gloved hand, unusually small, which led the detectives to believe that a woman may have been implicated in the robbery. Both footprints and fingerprints have been photographed.

Arthur C. Churchill, manager of the store, said that the attempted robbery was discovered by George Brandt and Clifford Cutler, assistant managers, when they opened the store for business today.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Jenny Dolly, one of the Dolly sisters, American dancing team, underwent an operation for appendicitis today. The operation was reported successful.

FORMER NANCY MILLER MOTHER OF BABY PRINCESS

PARIS, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Doctor Gosavi, who attended Devi Sharmishta, the former Nancy Miller, of Seattle, at the birth of her daughter, today informed International News Service that "both mother and daughter were doing very well."

The baby was born at about 9 o'clock Saturday night but the event was not disclosed here until today.

Tukojirao Holkar, former Maharajah of Indore, and husband of the American girl who turned Hindu to become his bride, is at his chateau in St. Germain, near Paris, where the baby was born.

The former maharajah and his legal advisors were faced with the problem of naming the child before Wednesday.

The former Miss Miller was wed to the Hindu noble in a two-day ceremony at Barwahi, Indore, on March 17, 1928. The wedding was carried out in sumptuous Oriental splendor and was attended by all the nobility of Indore.

The American-born bride had first to forego Christianity and take up the Hindu faith. The marriage aroused comment all over the world.

The former Maharajah is believed to be fabulously wealthy. He abdicated in favor of his son, Prince Yeshwant, in February, 1926, after the British government had ordered the disarming of his troops.

BLIMP WILL LAND HERE ON ROOF

The first attempt in Pittsburgh of an aircraft to alight on the top of a building will be made tomorrow.

Weather permitting, V. R. Jacobs, assistant manager of aeronautics for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, O., will try to land the baby blimp Pilgrim on the roof of the Chamber of Commerce building between 11 and 12 o'clock.

Jacobs is flying from Akron to address members of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club in the Chamber of Commerce.

He will discuss the future of rigid aircraft development, including plans of his company to build two large airships for the United States Navy. He has made an exhaustive study of lighter-than-air craft, particularly the Zeppelin type of airship.

"Pilgrim," the world's smallest airship of the blimp type was here during the 1928 balloon races.

A. H. Leslie Very Ill at Mercer

A. H. Leslie, superintendent of the Allegheny county workhouse, and brother of Senator Max Leslie, is reported in a serious condition in Mercer Sanitarium, Mecer, Pa. Superintendent Leslie, it is said, suffered a severe nervous breakdown some weeks ago and it was decided to send him to the sanitarium in the hoe that a complete rest would restore his health.

CRIPPLED GIRL'S DEPORTATION FIGHT LOST

Miss Mary Hornyak, 26, of 153 Pius street, crippled Hungarian girl, whom the Department of Labor has declared a public charge, will be deported this week despite the long and earnest fight by friends to keep her here.

Mary Hornyak

Thursday morning she will be separated from her 63-year-old mother and taken by an immigration service officer to New York, where she will be placed aboard the steamship Amsterdam, sailing Saturday for Rotterdam. From there the girl will proceed to her native country. The immigration officer and Miss Hornyak will be accompanied to New York by Mrs. John M. Phillips, civic and club leader, who has befriended the girl and led in the efforts made to stop her deportation.

Miss Hornyak will not return penniless, as members of a Hungarian congregation in Hazelwood presented her a purse of $200. In Hungary she will join relatives, who have been advised of her coming.

When the order for Miss Hornyak's deportation before the Christmas holidays was issued, Mrs. Phillips kept the wires hot between Pittsburgh and Washington for a postponement and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis personally notified William H. Marshall, immigration inspector in charge of the Pittsburgh district, to stay the deportation order long enough to enable her mother to accompany her. Later, however, the mother decided to stay here.

Records of the immigration office show that Miss Hornyak has been a public charge in four hospitals since coming to Pittsburgh.

ARBUCKLES CO. DISSOLVES

Arbuckles & Co., one of the oldest wholesale grocery distributors in Pittsburgh, is retiring from business on February 1. The recent death of William A. Jamison, senior member of the firm, was given as the reason for the discontinuance.

The company was established October 4, 1859, and became the largest distributor of coffee in this territory. The office business grew to such an extent that it was transferred to New York and the Pittsburgh organization continued as a distributor of groceries.

James Flood, who died in 1927, was an active figure in the development of this Pittsburgh institution, serving 60 years. A large part of this time he was manager.

The coffee business handled by Arbuckle Brothers in New York is not affiliated with the Pittsburgh organization and will not be affected by the local company's action.

25 Hurt in Wreck At Chicago Station

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—More than 25 persons were reported injured here today when a Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific suburban train crashed into a bumper in the La Salle street station. Passengers standing in aisles were hurled to the floor. Many were reported trampled in the rush to exits. The engine was wrecked. Slippery rails and failure of brakes to hold were blamed for the crash.

NEW YORK PAYS SEA HEROES HOMAGE

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN, International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Amid the blare of bands, the cheers of thousands lining the sidewalks and a blizzard of confetti from windows of skyscrapers, Capt. George Fried and the heroes of the Florida rescue paraded up Broadway today to City Hall, where they were welcomed by Mayor James Walker and awarded gold medals of valor.

The heroes of the liner America, who brought safely to port the 32 exhausted, half-frozen men they had saved from the floundering Italian freighter Florida, accepted the acclaim modestly—almost bashfully.

HERO SHY

"We're not used to this hero stuff," remarked Chief Officer Harry Manning, who commanded the men who swung the oars in the lifeboat that set forth from the America on the storm-lashed waters.

Among the modest heroes was Fonce Kellams, young Braddock (Pa.) sailor who, with seven mates, manned the lifeboat that transported the Italian crew from the sinking liner Florida through a choppy ocean to the steamer America.

It was no new experience for Capt. Fried. Three years ago he won similar recognition after his rescue of 25 seamen from the British steamship Antinoe.

THOUSANDS CHEER

Shortly before noon, the municipal welcome boat, Macom, left Hoboken where the America was docked. On board the Macom was

Delay Impeachment Hearing of Governor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Pleadings of Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor of Oklahoma, to five articles of impeachment before the Senate court of impeachment, were deferred today on motion of Johnston's attorneys until 10 a. m. Thursday, when counsel indicated a demurrer will be entered to eight articles voted by the House.

PRIEST, RECTOR, RABBI SIT WITH JUDGE IN SEX QUIZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 — Federal Judge Grover H. Moscowitz announced that thestatus of a pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life, or Advice to to Young," a Catholic priest, a Protestant minister, a rabbi and himself. They will sit with him today "to aid and assist the judicial determination of the case."

Mrs. Mary Ware Bennett has been indicted in connection with the sending of the pamphlet through the mail, Assistant U. S. District Attorney James E. Wilkinson charging it is improper matter. He announced he would call a long list of witnesses, including the Rev. John Roach Straton and John S. Sumner of the Society for the Suppression of Vice.

The pamphlet contains somewhat under 3,000 words. It gives an elucidation and explanation of the natural laws for the perpetuation of the human species.

Judge Moscowitz said the clergymen who will sit with him are Monsignor John H. Belford, Roman Catholic pastor of the Church of the Nativity; the Rev. Dr. Charles P. Atwater, Protestant Episcopal rector of Grace Church and the Rev. Dr. Alexander Lyons, rabbi of the Eeighth Avenue Temple, all of Brooklyn.

41 RACKET CASES WIN DELAYS

Eleven politicians and North Side residents pleaded not guilty to evasion of income tax in Federal Court today. They had been indicted as a result of the federal probe into an alleged rum ring on the North Side.

Forty-one other North Side police, politicians and alleged racketeers, were scheduled to plead but postponements were granted all but six, two of whom pleaded "no defense" and four "not guilty" to charges of violating the prohibition act.

Eugene Cappi and Arnold Thornburg, of the Twenty-first Ward, pleaded no defense. At the November trial of 46 North Siders, subsequently acquitted by court order, they had pleaded similarly and testified for the government.

Daniel McLaughlin and Santo Laquatra, of the Twenty-first Ward, and Fred Stratman and Police Lieut. Edward J. Moser pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition law.

DRIES DENY CHARGE

The 11 who denied evading the income tax were Police Magistrate John W. Orie, his brother, Stanley Orie, Joseph Bove, Joseph D'Angelo, Martin J. Grady, Otto A. Heck, Edward L. Horigan, Daniel McLaughlin, Milton Meyers, Fred Stratman and Ben Wagner. Herman R. Bloedel, scheduled to plead, was reported sick.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker postponed accepting pleas from the remaining defendants when their counsel moved that the indictments be

MERCURY DROP DUE TONIGHT

Another cold belt was enveloping the Pittsburgh district today with the prospect of a temperature between 10 and 15 degrees tonight.

The mercury dropped from 22 to 20 at the weather bureau between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning. It will linger around that mark today, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said, and will make a further drop tonight.

Clear and continued cold weather is predicted for tomorrow, with a likelihood of slow moderation beginning tomorrow night.

Virtually all highways leading from Pittsburgh are in dangerously slippery condition today, the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh reported. Some relief was expected late this afternoon with the cindering of the important roads by the State Highway Department.

Underwood Buried With Simple Honors

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Ex-Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, once a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, was laid to final rest today in Elmwood Cemetery.

Thousands of persons, from all walks of life, attended the simple funeral services at 11 o'clock at the Independent Presbyterian Church.

The funeral car arrived here yesterday and was met by thousands of mourners. The body lay in state at the old home of ex-Senator Underwood until it was removed to the church for the services.

$5,000,000 Air Base Asked for West Coast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur recommended today to Congress that it create a $5,000,000 naval airship base on the Pacific Coast. The secretary suggested an initial appropriation of $2,000,000 to start the work.

RESCUE FORCES HUNT 4 SHIPS IN STORMS

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—King Neptune continued to unleash his choicest fury as rescue ships rushed to the aid of four vessels disabled in mid-Atlantic.

Storms and gales, more intense than those which wreaked havoc along the shipping lanes last week, were reported raging in mid-Atlantic.

Indications that the disabled British steamer Silver Maple had been able to make repairs to her steering gear was received today on the coast guard cutter Tampa in the first radio message received from the vessel. It said that the Silver Maple was proceeding at a speed of seven miles per hour and gave the ship's position as 35:23 north and 56:48 west. The Tampa and Mojave answered an SOS Saturday and started out to rescue the ship's crew of 35.

THREE UNREPORTED

The three other distressed vessels, the Capo Vado, the Dixiano and the Fernald, also were unreported this morning. Liners seeking to find them radioed progress yesterday, but sent no additional word today.

Hope has been practically abandoned for the trawler, Seiner, missing with a crew of 22 between Boston and Newfoundland. The Seiner has not answered radio calls for four days and rescue ships can find no trace of her.

Capt. John Carroll, of the steam trawler Kingfisher, reported by wireless that his vessel was towing the disabled fishing boat, William Killigrew, to Boston and that he expected to reach that port some time tomorrow.

FREIGHTER ICE LOCKED

SYDNEY, N. S., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The Canadian government steamer Stanley has been ordered from North Sydney to attempt to release the Norwegian freighter Terne, icelocked between Margaree and Cheticamp.

The Terne, laden with potatoes from Georgetown, P. E. I., for Havana, Cuba, has been fast in the ice a half mile off shore, for a week.

Local Chinese Hurt When Auto Hits Pole

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Three men were injured, one seriously, when a motor car occupied by four Chinese restaurant men of Pittsburgh, crashed into a telegraph pole near Palmyra when the driver swerved out of the path of a trolley car yesterday. Lock Jung suffered a fractured skull; Yee Hain and Yee Toy suffered minor injuries, while Yee Chack escaped unhurt. The men were en route from Pittsburgh to Newark, N. J., and continued their journey in a private ambulance.

Lock Jung resides at 519 Second avenue, according to Albert Young, of 136 Sixth street. Yee Hain is proprietor of the Bamboo Inn. The men in the accident are all connected with the Quong Wah Hai Tea Company, Second avenue.

King George Soon To Be Taken to Sea

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The progress which King George has been making for many days, was stated authoritatively this morning to be unchecked. A setback at this stage was regarded as only a remote possibility. Sir Hugh Rigby was the only attending doctor to visit the King this morning. It was indicated by the present outlook that the King would be moved to the seaside resort of Bognor late next week.

Bride of Week Slain, Police Seek Husband

HINGHAM, Mass., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The body of a woman found shot to death in a field here was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Cora Cullen, formerly Miss Cora Jacques, of Lowell, a bride of less than a week.

Police are searching for her husband, Christopher E. Cullen, of East Weymouth, a chauffeur for a captain of the Metropolitan district police of Nantasket.

Cast by Wheelbarrow Into River, Man Dies

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 28.—On his first trip aboard the Sam Craig, en route from Pittsburgh to Louisville, Ky., Charles Laughrey, 48, of Kittanning, Pa., drowned in the Ohio River, a short distance below Lock No. 5. Laughrey was wheeling coal when the wheelbarrow struck the side of the door, and he was hurled into the river.

GOV. ALLEN, VISITING HERE, DENIES PLAYING TRUANT

Gov. Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, who, with Mrs. Allen and their son, Frank G. Jr., is visiting his wife's parents in Pittsburgh, feels that his present distinction is that he is not being mentioned for a place in President-elect Hoover's cabinet.

The Governor, agreeing that everybody else in the country seems to have been rumored as a Hoover appointee, appeared to enjoy the honor of being the only national figure who has been safe from the rumor manufacturers.

Gov. Allen couldn't understand why there should be any anxiety over his quiet leave from Massachusetts for Pittsburgh. His aides didn't discover until Sunday, 24 hours late, that he was visiting Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Wallace, of 1413 Pennsylvania avenue, North Side, and that consequently they were without a governor until the lieutenant governor took the reigns..

Gov. Allen planned to return to Boston late today. His wife, the former Elinor H. Wallace, was to remain with her parents all this week.

"How does Pittsburgh look to you since you were here a year ago?" the governor was asked.

"Pittsburgh always looked good to me," he replied. "That's where I got my wife."

Woman Wins $1,000 For Music Slogan

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Linnie Lewis Wilson, of Hamilton, Ont., has won the $1,000 prize in the national music contest conducted by the music industries Chamber of Commerce, it is announced.

The slogan, "The Richest Child Is Poor Without Musical Training," was selected from 120,000 entries submitted in a half-dozen languages.

Davis Balks Drive For Reappointment

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis balked at the attempt of friends in the Moose convention here to have that organization of 800,000 members indorse him for retention in the Hoover cabinet.

"That is a matter personally for Mr. Hoover," Secretary Davis told then. "I do not want any action taken on this proposed indorsement."

BALDWIN FACES FIGHT BY WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Should Baldwin M. Baldwin, wealthy scion of "Lucky" Baldwin, obtain a divorce in the French courts, it will be ignored by his wife, Mrs. Nell Maxine Baldwin, of Pasadena.

This was the statement today of Attorney Oscar Lawlor, representing Mrs. Baldwin. The latter is the mother of twins, now 3 years old.

"French divorces are not recognized by the courts of California," Lawlor explained.

Young Baldwin sailed for France Saturday from New York. He was accompanied by his intended bride, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, noted French tennis star; the latter's mother, and Dudley Field Malone, New York lawyer.

Malone announced that he had been retained to bring immediate divorce proceedings and that young Baldwin and Mlle. Lenglen planned to marry as soon as the decree was obtained.

Hurricane Damages Costa Rican Port

Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, the city's "official greeter."

Thousands assembled at the docks at Hoboken cheered as Fried, Manning and the others boarded the Macom.

Thousands of people were massed in Battery Park and along contiguous thoroughfares when the Macom returned, at 12:40 p. m., to the Battery. A roar of applause burst forth as Capt. Fried and his men disembarked.

CITY HALL GREETING

At City Hall, fully 3,000 persons, massed about that ancient structure, cheered them.

Scrolls of welcome were read to Capt. Fried, Chief Officer Manning, Radio Operator Nelson Smith and the lifeboat crew.

All of the scrolls bore the signature of Mayor Walker. The scroll inscribed to Capt Fried said, in part:

"Once more out of the raging gale and above the roar of tempestuous seas you heard the SOS of a helpless vessel crying for aid. Across 350 miles of sea, following your brave precedent, you sped to the rescue.

"This time you saved the captain, officers and crew—32 in all—of the Italian SS. Florida. Thus you have added to the laurels so worthily won and added glory on the American Flag.

"Never was duty more nobly perpormed. Briefly and inadequately we record this heroic deed which adds luster to the glory of our city, which is your home port."

Remus Loses $25,000 To U. S. in Rum Taxes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—George Remus, of Cincinnati, convicted wife-slayer and "Bootleg King of America," lost $25,000 to the federal government here today as a liquor tax penalty on a six-year-old case. Attorneys for the American Surety Company, of New York, today reached an agreement with the government to settle for $25,000, the $50,000 Remus' bond insuring the payment of beverage tax and penalties on 90,000 gallons of whisky alleged to have been illicitly removed by Remus and his confederates six years ago from the W. P. Squibb & Company distillery at Lawrenceburg, Ind.

Dr. Little Denies Rift With Alumni

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Rumors that a breach between Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, and the alumni body was instrumental in effecting Dr. Little's resignation as chief executive of the institution were branded as false today.

In a letter to Wilfred B. Shaw, general secretary of the alumni association, and published today in the "Michigan Alumnus," Dr. Little asserts in effect that throughout his entire stay here the alumni have been an unfailing source of support and encouragement.

Man Shot as Three Try to Enter House

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 28.—Blazing away with a shotgun when three men attempted to enter his home, early today, police say, Sam Romeo killed Tony Municuci, one of the group. Remeo told police that when he refused to admit the men, one fired through a window. Remeo and Paul Gleo, the latter a companion of the dead man, were arrested, pending an inquest tonight.

Turkish Women Bandits Loot Rich Homes

BALIKISSAR, Turkey, Jan. 28.—Emancipated Turkish women Turkish men of the Anatolian hills are making brilliant strides in a profession long monopolized by —brigandage.

This region is being terrorized by a band of women brigands led by an old veiled crone, Ummuhan Hanem, and her daughter-in-law, If Ikat, whose nightly raids upon surrounding hamlets have not yet been checked, despite the efforts of the Turkish government's militia.

The women entered the house of the wealthiest citizen of Sarikuey by tearing a hole in the massive stone wall surrounding the estate, and carried off valuable rugs and silver.

Camel Fights Aid Turkey's Air Financing

STAMBOUL, Turkey, Jan. 88—(AP.)—Eight camels are to meet in the Stadium of Stamboul, there lay down their lives or at best smash their humps so that more airplanes may sweep through Turkish skies over ancient abandoned caravan trails.

The Turkish National Aviation League is to stage the camel combat.

To stage a fight, the cue is provided by a "woman in the case." two gentlemen camels are led into the ring. Then a female camel is led in. The rivals battle.

HOOVER WILLING TO MEET SMITH

PRESS AGENT FAUX PAS

If there is no meeting between the pair, it probably will be because of embarrassing activities of the press agents for the Governor's hotel. One of them was at the Hoover headquarters early this morning. He told Lawrence Richey, Mr. Hoover's assistant, that he had come to "arrange a meeting." He was curtly informed that the President-elect does not make engagements through medium of hotel publicity agents.

Soon after the departure of the publicity agent, Mr. Hoover told correspondents who accompanied him that he would be very glad to see Gov. Smith if he cared to call.

Mr. Hoover's first visitor today was Col. Horace A. Mann, the so-called "mystery man" of the campaign, who organized and directed the anti-Smith campaign in the South. Mann has been mentioned the possible "patronage boss" of the South under the Hoover administration.

DENIES STORY

The colonel denied the soft impeachment today when he left Mr. Hoover's office after half an hour's chat.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the United States Supreme Court, arrived today to go fishing with the President-elect. They probably will go to the keys again tomorrow night or early Wednesday morning for a couple of days.

3 GO ON TRIAL IN COUNTY PROBE

The second week of graft trials resulting from the recent county grand jury investigation started today with three persons scheduled for trials. They are Alderman George S. Wilson and his constable, George F. Andrews, and Charles W. Collins, investigator for the Children's Service Bureau. All are charged with conspiracy to extort and with extortion.

Tomorrow, Justice of the Peace Wallace Baker, of Bellevue, and his constable, E. V. Stokes, are to be arraigned on similar charges. Four others are to be tried for maintaining gambling devices. Those facing this charge are Mack McCarthy, Dale McCarthy, Lawrence McCarthy and Lloyd McCrory.

A decision is expected to be made some time today by Alderman Thomas Jones in the hearing of North Side police officials and others who are charged with conspiracy to violate the Snyder act. The defendants are Inspector Charles Faulkner, Lieut. John J. Lynch, Patrolmen W. A. Moore, H. D. Rosenthal, John Harkins, Tom Oliffe, John Loebig, Elliott Donnelly and Anthony Puniak. The hearing was held Thursday, but the alderman withheld his decision.

Alderman Jones also is expected to give final disposition today to the case against Mickey, Sam, Joe and Tom Meyers, who were arraigned on liquor charges. The case of Michael DeRosa, Jr., also was continued until today.

quashed, contending the charges were vague and supported by insufficient facts. The court set tomorrow for hearing on the motion.

The 16 indicted members of the Union Fishing Club will not plead, if at all, until after the hearing tomorrow on their similar motion that the indictments be quashed.

FAULKNER GETS DELAY

This group, indicted on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, includes William H. Robertson, member of the city board of assessors, and Dr. F. H. Frederick, of the civil service commission, and Joseph P. Hilldorfer, North Side politicians.

Among the other defendants granted postponements are Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, Lieuts. John J. Lynch and Edward J. Arthurs and Elliott Donnelly, all of the Twenty-seventh Ward; John O'Donnell, Republican chairman of the Twenty-second Ward, and Elliott Donnelly, state factory inspector, of the same ward; Thomas G. Johnson and Thomas F. Wills, of the Twenty-fourth Ward.

Four of the defendants charged with a liquor conspiracy have never been apprehended. They are Charles DePalma and John Hannon, of the Twenty-first Ward, and Oscar Reister and "Biff" Baer, of the Twenty-third Ward.

Western Woman Claims Lillian Russell as Kin

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh has received a letter from Loualice Barker, 38 West Central avenue, Sierra Madre, Cal., in which she said she believes she is a sister of the late Mrs. A. P. Moore, the former Lillian Russell. Moore, former Pittsburgh publisher, is now ambassador to Peru.

However, Miss Barker's theory is not borne out by the facts. She said in her letter to Walsh that she thinks Lillian Russell's name was Barker, that they were separated in childhood after their mother's death, and that Lillian was adopted. Lillian Russell was the daughter of Charles E. and Cynthia H. Leonard.

Walsh has forwarded the letter to the State Department.

New 'Girl' in Zoo, Gem Lost, 'Monk' Is Suspected

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Chicago's drive against crime today had penetrated Lincoln Park zoo.

When Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Jr., Hubbard Woods society leader, reported the loss of a diamond pin while visiting the zoo, Policeman Clarence Wynne went direct to the cage of "Billie," a chimpanzee. The pin was not found.

"Billie's integrity used to be unquestioned," Wynne explained, "but since Lena, a flapper chimpanzee, came to the zoo, I wouldn't be surprised to find Billie stealing jewelry—for her."

BANDIT CAUGHT AS AUTO SKIDS

MOUNT MORRIS, Mich., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—After they had successfully held up the Mount Morris State Bank and escaped with $19,000 in cash early today, two bandits, fleeing from the scene in an automobile, skidded into a ditch, one of them being captured and the money recovered.

The captive gave his name as Mike Chulovitch, 22, of Detroit, and declared he did not know the name of his companion who fled from the wrecked car.

An armed posse surrounded and captured Jourdivich's companion, who said his name was Larry Redmond, 24, of Detroit.

PINCHOT READY FOR CRUISE TO SOUTH SEAS

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania and long a storm center in American political affairs, is about to realize an ambition he has cherished for something like 40 years.

He is going away for an extensive cruise through the South Sea Islands. Accompanied by Mrs. Pinchot, his son, Gifford Bryce Pinchot, a few friends and two scientists of the National Museum in Washington, he is planning to leave the United States about March 1 on an expedition that will take him to some of the out-of-the-way places of the world.

The cruise, which will last eight months, will be made on the three-masted topsail schooner Cuddysark, recently acquired by the ex-governor. It is to be undertaken with the approval and co-operation of the National Museum, one of the government bureaus operating under the direction of the Smithsonian Institution.

Details of the expedition were discussed at a conference here Saturday between the former Pennsylvania executive and Dr. Alexander Wetmore, in charge of the National Museum. Pinchot refused to disclose at present the names of the government scientists to accompany him.

PLANNED 40 YEARS AGO

Pinchot revealed that it was some 40 years ago while a student at Yale that he first planned the cruise. Ever since then he has been looking forward to the time when such an expedition would be possible. But a busy life spent in political activity, marked by turmoil and strife, has served to hold him back. Now the way has finally been opened and he sees the fulfillment of a boyish dream.

In a sense the cruise will be a vacation for him and Mrs. Pinchot, but it will also be conducted on a scale to produce important scientific results. One of the things the Smithsonian Institution and National Museum will do is to outline a program of Pacific Ocean specimens desired for the government collection here.

As explained by Pinchot, there is a vast amount of scientific data yet to be collected in the South Sea Island group. In making a study of fauna and flora of the region the expedition will call at more than a dozen of these islands, including Sala-y-Gomoz, a barren rock which projects its volcanic head above the surface of the mid-Pacific and is rarely visited by men of the sea. There he hopes to obtain valuable bird specimens.

GOING TO GALAPAGOS

The expedition will proceed either from New York or Philadelphia to the Panama canal, stopping at a few of the islands in the Caribbean en route. After reaching the waters of the Pacific the Cuddysark will make for the Galapagos group. From there the cruise will be extended leisurely for a distance of 3,000 miles, over which are scattered the Society Islands and Cook Islands, together with the individual isles of Tubual, Pitcairn and Easter.

Naturally, Pinchot plans to do considerable fishing on the trip. This is one of his favorite sports and he is laying in a store of equipment that will be effective in capturing some of the rarest specimens found in these waters.

The three-masted schooner on which the cruise will be made carries a crew of 15 with cabin accommodations for at least nine passengers. Built in Wilmington, Del., in 1902, of steel construction, it has a gross displacement of 250 tons. The motive power consists of a 300-h. p. Diesel engine, while the draft is 16 feet with a 26-foot beam and 110 feet waterline. The length from prow to stern is 148 feet, and the craft is capable of navigating the South Seas without difficulty.

Pinchot, who maintains a residence in Washington for the purpose of "keeping an eye on the people's business," as he himself puts it, said he planned to return to the United States around November of this year "or just before Congress convenes in regular session."

Not Engaged Yet, Says Connie, Of Films

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Constance Talmadge, motion picture actress, today was busy denying rumors that she was engaged to marry Townsend Netcher, wealthy Chicago merchant. Both arrived here from the East yesterday.

"We just haven't time to talk about the so-called engagement," expostulated the blonde actress.

"Nothing to it at all," added Netcher. "That is, not right now. Maybe later—"

Emlenton Church Pastor Resigns

EMLENTON, Pa., Jan. 28.—The Rev. Boyd F. Williams, pastor of the Emlenton Presbyterian Church, tendered his resignation yesterday. The condition of his health and a desire to go to California for a protracted visit are given as reasons.

Mr. Williams has been pastor of the Emlenton church for two periods, one of 11 years, and again for the last 20 years. For a period of seven years, he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Oil City.

To Wed

ANDY GUSTAFSON

The engagement of Andy Gustafson, former Pitt football star, and Miss Emily Addison Langhorne, member of a prominent Virginia family, has been announced. The bride-to-be is a cousin of Lady Nancy Astor and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson. Andy, who is now coaching at Virginia Polytechnic, Blacksburg, Va., met his future wife at a football dance.

VERONA PLANS TO APPEAL

An appeal from the $10 fine imposed on Alderman John J. Verona in the Center Avenue Police Court will be taken by the former Hill district leader, it was announced after the hearing yesterday. Verona appeared before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer.

Saturday afternoon Patrolman John Novak met Verona in Wylie avenue. The officer is alleged to have told the alderman to go to the station house and furnish bond on another charge preferred against him as the result of a row in the Club Alabam, Wylie avenue. The officer charges Verona became abusive and resisted arrest. The alderman was taken to the stationhouse in the police patrol.

Verona denied at the hearing that he had resisted arrest, or that he had at any time been disorderly. He said, however, that he had tried to explain to the policeman that he already had posted his bond on the other charge—this being the charge of assault and battery preferred by Joseph Engelsberg, ward leader, who accuses Verona of attacking him in the Wylie avenue cabaret. Verona and several followers are to be arraigned Thursday for the alleged attack.

Priest Dies as Auto Plunges Through Ice

RAQUETTE LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The body of the Rev. Henry Thameling, pastor of St. William's Catholic Church, here, who disappeared while en route home, was found yesterday beneath the ice in a hole through which his automobile had plunged.

The car was 40 feet beneath the surface with lights still burning. The clergyman had escaped from the car but was unable to find the opening in the ice.

Harvesting of Ice From Lake Delayed

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., Jan. 28.—Colder weather is awaited before the ice harvest on Conneaut Lake is resumed. A long string of cars is held on the Bessemer siding, awaiting early loading. The ice is now seven to eight inches thick, as compared with 10 to 12 inches 10 days ago.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Four hours and a half from Detroit to this city was a plane flight record Lieut. George C. Rice pointed to today. He left Detroit at 9:30 a. m., Sunday, stopped at Buffalo, N. Y., and landed his Army plane here at 2 p. m.

"Whoopee" Veils Newest Trick In Paris

PARIS, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—They may be giving up the veil in Turkey, but they are taking to it in Paris.

"Whoopee" is the new name for short, nose length veils which some Parisian women, mostly mannequins so far, are wearing on tight-fitting straw or tulle bonnets. Whoopee veils are newer for evening than afternoon since the originator, J. Suzanne Talbot, showed the same type of veil last spring on street hats.

Wire lace which has a fine thread of horsehair in it is the material used for the most sensational whoopee veils.

LEGISLATURE WRESTLES WITH HIGHWAYS REVENUE

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28.—The Highway Department revenues, which are inseparably linked with the tax on gasoline, bid fair to hold the center of the legislative stage this week.

Representative James T. Heffran, Washington, said this morning that he plans to introduce a bill tonight that would set aside $2,000,000 of the motor license fees for the improvement and maintenance of city streets which are part of state highway routes.

When Gov. John S. Fisher made public his budget bill last week, he stated that no provision could be made for maintaining such streets in cities or for taking over the 1,800 bridges on the state highways unless additional revenue is in sight. Following that statement, it was intimated that a move would be made to increase the gasoline tax to 4 cents.

GIVE CITIES FUND

Heffran said he did not believe there is a chance to pass a bill that would return to the cities a portion of the motor vehicle license fees collected from within their limits. His present plan is to leave the distribution of the money to the discretion of the Highway Department, possibly permitting them to follow the system used in aiding townships, that is, giving a city a certain sum for the improvement of a street provided the municipality matches the amount.

It was reported here this morning that plans are on foot to introduce a bill increasing the gasoline tax from 3 to 4 cents, the addition to be devoted solely to township roads. This, as well as all other proposed boosts in that levy, will be hard fought.

Harrisburg today is the mecca for the "big fellows"—the reference being to the more important Republican leaders of the state. Today the Governor will discuss the legislation creating the new Department of Revenue with former State Chairman W. L. Mellon, Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association; Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods, Auditor General Edward Martin, who also is Republican state chairman; Deputy Attorney General William Schnader, State Treasurer Lewis and others. Mellon and Grundy arrived last night, but denied their visit was for any other purpose than for discussing legislation.

SEES HOOVER AS CRUISER BACKER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—After being informed of word from Miami that Herbert Hoover's office had announced the President-elect had not discussed the pending cruiser bill, Chairman Britten, of the House Naval Committee, reiterated today his conviction that Mr. Hoover would be pleased if the three-year time limit for construction in the cruiser proposal now before the Senate were retained.

President Coolidge wants the time clause taken out of the bill but his wishes were disregarded when the House passed it last year. Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, who is sponsoring the bill in the Senate, wants the time limit clause kept in and he is confident that he has enough votes to carry his point.

Seminole Belle's One-Piece Suit Brings Exile

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Rosalie Billie, 16-year-old Seminole belle, has paid for her desire to dress after the modes of her "white sister."

Rosalie has returned to the Musa Isle Indian camp here, after a six months' exile into the fastness of the Everglades, imposed by an Indian tribal trial.

Rosalie's exile was brought about by her adoption of a modern girl's one-piece bathing suit, in which she was adorned when she was found swimming in the Miami River by her father and other tribesmen.

Car's Sudden Start Brings $25,000 Suit

Alexander Rothman, 1308 Locust street, in a damage suit brief says an old wound was reopened when he was thrown violently to the street while alighting from a street car that started while he was still on the step. The suit filed in Common Pleas Court is for $25,000 damages against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. He was leaving a car at Sixth and Wylie avenues June 12, 1928, he says, when the accident occurred.

American Ends Life In French Swindle

NICE, France, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The suicide yesterday of Joseph Jules Mark, a former resident of Chicago, marked the first American victim of the Gazette Du Franc swindle which involved losses of millions of dollars.

Five Frenchmen have now died by their own hands because of losses in the case. Marx shot himself while seated in an automobile parked in a public square.

Deposed Sheik Held Slayer of Minister

BASRA, Irak, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—It has been learned that the leader of the Ajman tribesmen who killed the Rev. Henry A. Bilkert, an American missionary, last Monday, was Ibn Katherin, recently deposed from the chieftaincy of the tribe by Ibn Saud, ruler of Irak.

The present chief of the tribe, Sheiff Naif Ibn Kelas, is held blameless for the ambush of the American party.

ROADS PRESENT BRIEF IN LAKE CARGO CASE

The fight for a 45-cent differential in favor of the Pittsburgh district on lake cargo coal was resumed today with the filing before the Supreme Court of the United States of a brief by the northern railroads. The carriers are upholding the Interstate Commerce Commission in its appeal from a ruling by the United States District Court of Southern West Virginia, which enjoined the commission from preventing the roads serving southern fields from cutting freight rates on coal intended for shipment to the lakes.

Owing to the importance of the case, the Supreme Court has assigned a special date for its argument, which will be on February 18, the day after the court reconvenes following its present recess.

Following a victory by coal operators of this district, who convinced the Interstate Commerce Commission that they were entitled to a reduction of 20 cents a ton, increasing the differential between this and the West Virginia fields to 45 cents, the southern railroads made a similar cut which eliminated the advantage gained by Pittsburgh. The commission then ordered the southern roads not to put the cut in effect. These carriers were successful in securing an injunction against the commission.

If the Supreme Court upholds the commission, the compromise differential of 35 cents a ton now in effect will automatically be replaced by the 45-cent differential. The case has a nation-wide importance since it will definitely determine the commission's power to fix minimum as well as maximum freight rates.

Strauss Races by Air To His Dying Father

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—S. S. Strauss, New York capitalist, was at the bedside of his dying father here today after a spectacular combination air and rail trip from New York.

Learning of his aged father's condition late Saturday, Strauss flew in an open ship from Curtiss Field, New York, to Cleveland, where he was forced to abandon the plane because of the extreme cold. He continued the race by train, however, and reached Chicago yesterday morning. An hour later he left Chicago in a closed plane.

Downtown Building Razed in Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed the four-story building of the Summerfield & Hecht Furniture Company at Washington boulevard and Michigan avenue, with a loss of $400,000 yesterday. The building was in the heart of the shopping district.

Guests in the 33-story Book-Cadillac Hotel, directly across the street, watched from windows and the roof of that structure the colorful battle as firemen contended with freezing hose and ice covered streets and equipment.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD

SERVICE

"IT HAS always been our belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service. We are as much interested in his economical operation of the car as he is in our economical manufacture of it.

"For that reason we have installed a system of controlled service to take care of all Ford car needs in an economical and improved manner. We wish all users of Ford cars to know what they are entitled to in this respect, so that they may readily avail themselves of this service."

Henry Ford

Safety

ONE of the outstanding features of the new Ford is its mechanical, internal-expanding six-brake system.

This is unusually reliable and effective in action because the braking surfaces of all six brakes are fully enclosed. There is no possibility of mud, water, sard, road dirt or grease entering the brake mechanism or getting between the bands and drum and impairing brake performance.

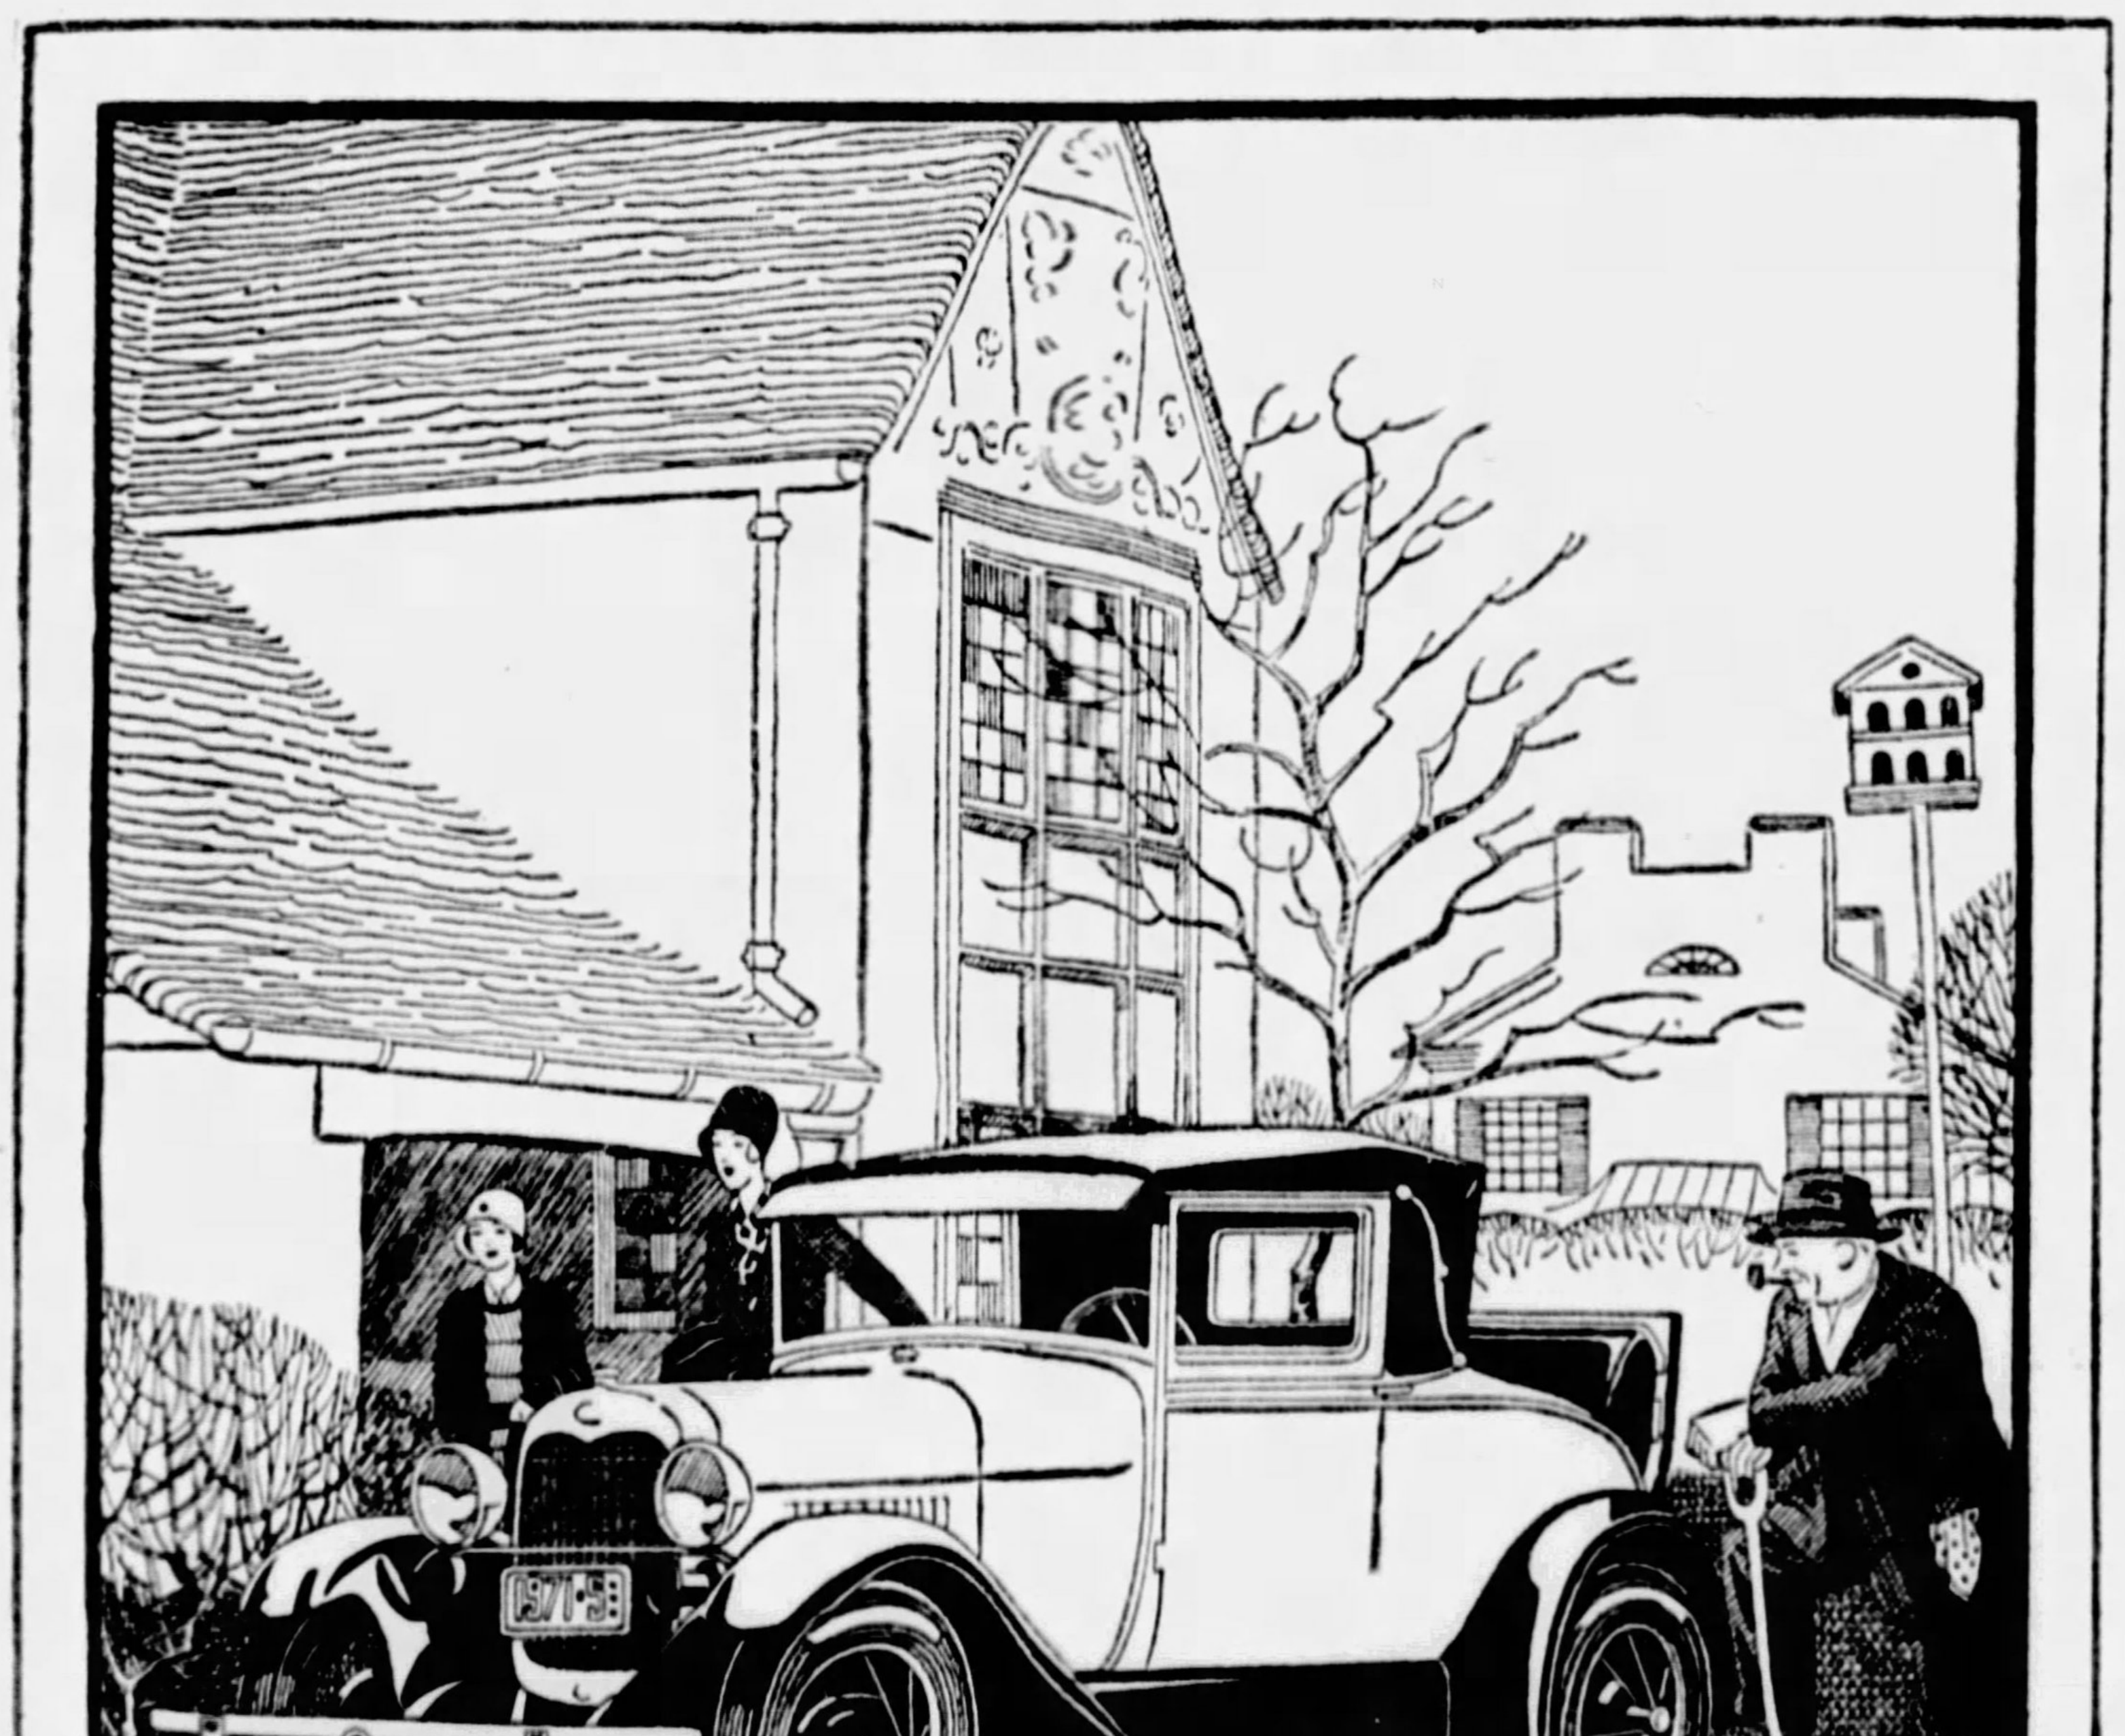
The use of steel forgings wherever there is a possibility of wear in the chassis of the car, the sturdy steel body construction, balance, ease of operation and control and a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield are other important safety features.

Comfort

You have a feeling of mental comfort in driving the new Ford because you are sure of its mechanical reliability. No matter how long the trip or rough or devious the roadway, you know it will bring you safely, quickly to the journey's end.

Physically, too, you will feel fresh and relaxed in the new Ford because it is such a roomy, comfortable car. Seats are wide and deeply cushioned, with backs designed to conform to the curves of the body.

Even on comparatively rough stretches, there are no hard bumps or jolts, nor exaggerated bouncing up and down. The four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers and transverse springs take up or absorb the force of every unevenness in the road before it reaches the body, frame and chassis of the car.



Reliability

The new Ford is reliable in performance because of its carefully planned simplicity of design and the enduring quality that has been built into every part.

Throughout, it has been made to give you many thousands of miles of pleasant, enjoyable motoring at a minimum of trouble and expense. From every part of the world come letters from Ford owners commenting on this reliability, and giving specific data on unusual performance.

Thousands of the new Fords have been driven more than 50,000 miles in the past year. Some, used night and day, have passed the 100,000-mile mark. There is no telling how far they will go. The average life of the Model T was seven years We believe this new car will do better than that.

Economy

The new Ford is an economical car to own and drive because of the low cost of operation and up-keep. It averages more than 20 miles per gallon of gasoline and the cost of tires and oil is also low.

Low first cost, the security of a fair trade-in value, the availability of Ford dealers, and close supervision of service are additional reasons for the economy of the new Ford.

The cost of new parts is also low because of the established Ford policy of doing business at a small margin of profit.

Beauty

The new Ford is distinguished by its quiet simplicity of line and air of sturdy strength. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in motor car designing. A particularly pleasing feature is a choice of beautiful colors in all body types without additional cost.

The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing. Fenders are heavy and gracefully contoured. Instrument panel—door handles—window lifts—interior trimming and finish—all reveal a quality of material and a careful workmanship unusual in a low-price car.

Ease of Control

Another outstanding feature of the new Ford is its ease of operation and control.

The steering wheel answers to the touch of a finger. Gears shift silently, smoothly. Brakes take hold quickly, firmly even on rain-swept pavements. Quick acceleration and alert speed are especially appreciated in traffic and emergencies. A space little longer than the car itself is all you need for parking.

All of these things simplify the mechanics of motoring and add a great deal to the joy and comfort of motoring. Particularly to a woman, they mean driving without strain or fatigue.

Smooth Speed

Everywhere you go, you note the alert, capable performance of the new Ford. You can judge its acceleration by the way it gets away in traffic. A smooth stretch on the open road gives a revealing measure of its speed. The way it climbs the hills in high is an indication of its abundant power.

The new Ford will do 55 to 65 miles an hour, which is probably faster than you will ever need to go. Far more important is the way it rolls along at 35 and 40 and 45. This is your average driving speed and you can maintain it smoothly, easily, comfortably for hours in the new Ford.

TAX PAYMENTS DROP IN U.S. AND STATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—A decrease of $43,782,717 in the total taxes collected by the government in the calendar year 1928 is shown in figures issued by the Internal Revenue Bureau, which placed the year's collections at $2,775,276,956.23.

North Carolina, with a total tax of $236,642,027, went into second place behind New York among the states which return the greatest amount of taxes to the Federal government, replacing Pennsylvania, which showed a decrease.

Pennsylvania's taxes amounted to $232,417,910, a drop of $24,805,000, as compared with last year, while North Carolina showed an increase of $19,415,000. New York's gross collections moved up from $751,804,048 in 1927 to $759,122,485 last year.

The total income taxes collected throughout the country decreased $26,089,767.32 in the year, totaling only $2,169,417,231.64. Miscellaneous taxes dropped $17,692,949.95 to $605,859,724.59. Of the income taxes, corporations paid $1,234,366,865.98 and individuals $935,050,365.66. It was a decrease of $102,000,000 in corporation payments and an increase of $75,812,000 in the individual tax.

While the majority of the larger states showed decreases some of the Western states showed increases.

Weather Conditions.

The low pressure area that appeared over the southern Rocky Mountain states Saturday morning, was centered over the Gulf of Mexico yesterday morning, and this morning it lies off the South Atlantic coast. It produced light to moderately heavy rains over the southern states, and light snow over the more northerly sections.

High barometer moved down from Western Canada, and now stretches from the Canadian Northwest southeastward to the lower Mississippi Valley states, and covers the Plains states, the Lake region, and the Ohio Valley states. While the barometer is unusually high, it is not producing extremely low temperatures. In the Northern Plains states and the upper lakes it is not quite as cold as yesterday morning. It will, however, cause a further drop in temperature over this section tonight.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling everywhere. Stage at Pittsburgh is 13.9 feet; Dam No. 2, 5.2, and Dam No. 6, 12.9. The dams are down.

TEACHER, BOY KEPT AFTER SCHOOL, GONE

ELLAVILLE, Ga., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Search for Mrs. M. M. Wellens, 35-year-old mother and school teacher, and Edward Chapman, 17, one of her pupils, who have been missing for a week, was redoubled today after a warrant was issued against the woman charging her with kidnaping the boy.

The warrant was sworn out by the woman's husband and the boy's father, W. C. Chapman, who declared they believed the pair to be either in Akron, O., or Detroit.

SEEN IN AUTO

The teacher and the pupil were last seen a week ago driving toward Atlanta in the former's automobile.

Chapman's fellow students, police said, revealed that the youth, unusually large for his age, had spent considerable time with his teacher after school hours. The students, police declared, said he had often talked of going to Akron to obtain employment.

TEACHER HAD $500

Authorities stated they had learned that Mrs. Wellens had made a number of inquiries concerning the chances of obtaining work in or near Detroit as a school teacher.

Although the boy was penniless, Mrs. Wellens was said to have had $500 when she and Chapman vanished. She had drawn her salary of $200 as principal of the school, and had obtained a loan of $300 on the farm, where she and her husband lived, it was said.

Real Estate

The John H. Oliver property at the northeast corner of Broad and Main streets, Carnegie, has been sold. The property includes a large lot and frame residence and has been held at around $40,000. The name of the buyer was not disclosed. George Brothers handled the deal.

A stone English design residence containing seven rooms and a two-car garage on 70 by 131 feet in Roycroft avenue, Mount Lebanon, has been sold by Albert N. Young, a builder, to Charles V. Barton. The deal was made through the Stevenson, Williams Company.

Three brick dwellings at 5515-21 Hobart street, Squirrel Hill, with lots each 40 by 105 feet, have been sold by J. Lewis Palley to M. F. Bernardino for $28,275.

Evans & Newhams, builders, have filed a new lot plan known as Garden Square Addition, containing 39 lots at Mullins street and Evandale road, North Side.

The George Dowling plan, a subdivision of 50 lots at Penn avenue and Elizabeth street, Wilkins Township, has been recorded. The Wagner Realty Company is handling the plan.

A property in Dickson street, Twenty-seventh Ward, lot 50x56 feet, has been sold by Alois Reitberger to Charles W. Walker.

Building permit applications included:

Eighth Ward — Pierpoint Motor Company, brick and concrete addition, Baum boulevard and Morewood avenue, $116,200.

Nineteenth Ward — L. Gravant, brick and tile dwelling and garage, 2830 Broadway, $8,100.

U. S. PREPARES PLANS FOR NICARAGUA CANAL SURVEY

PROMPT ACTION ON WATERWAY HELD VITAL

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The American government today was making plans for a survey of a proposed inter-oceanic canal across Nicaragua with a view of undertaking the mightiest engineering project of all time.

Supported by an overwhelming majority of the House and Senate, it appeared certain that the Edge resolution, providing for the survey, would be adopted at an early date and army engineers sent to the scene immediately thereafter.

With the approval of President Coolidge, two Presidents before him and President-elect Hoover, the plan to link the Atlantic and the Pacific with a second and larger waterway is nearer realization than at any time since 1901, when the Nicaraguan route was recommended by the Isthmian Canal Commission in preference to Panama.

ACTION DECLARED URGENT

As the Panama Canal nears capacity, a limit which the government says will be reached within 10 years, immediate action is urgent in the opinion of engineers. It will require 10 years to build a secondary set of locks for Panama. It will require 10 years to build the Nicaragua Canal.

And while the chief of engineers of the army says that a secondary set of locks and other highly expensive improvements to the Panama Canal would take care of traffic for a long period, the army and the navy consider a second canal vitally necessary for the national defense.

With the problematical destruction of the Panama Canal by airplane attack already definitely proved in military maneuvers the American high sea forces would be locked in the Atlantic or the Pacific, with the deserted coast defenseless. A second canal, particularly the Nicaraguan route, would increase the difficulties for the enemy as well as the mobility of the American fleet.

TIME-SAVING CITED

In addition to this, the Nicaraguan route would shorten the distance from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast of the United States by from one to two days, a tremendous saving to commerce since 79 percent of the present Panama traffic is from coast to coast of this country.

In a comprehensive report prepared under the supervision of Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, for submission to the President and his cabinet, he says:

"One of the reasons for the Panama Canal was national defense. Now a part of the cost of the canal is carried on the books as an arbitrary proportion of the cost representing its value from a national defense standpoint. A second canal would, of course, have a national defense value in that there would be two routes from Pacific to Atlantic and two routes would have to be destroyed to cut interoceanic communication.

"It is believed that the advantage of having two routes available so that all your eggs are not in one basket outweighs the disadvantages.

GREAT BOON TO TRADE

"Of course, there is more to be considered concerning a Nicaraguan canal than the mere question of interoceanic communication, however important this may be. Such a canal undoubtedly will develop commerce and trade in Latin America that will never be developed with the Panama Canal alone. The history of the United States shows pretty conclusively that there is hardly any limit to the number of transportation facilities that are desirable and that each new one generally develops commerce and trade far beyond estimates made for it. From this standpoint, it appears to be only a question of when will the Nicaraguan project warrant the expense involved."

In 1926 the President was interested in the Nicaraguan Canal and sent John Bailey there to make a survey. He cruised about geographically and laid out pretty much the same route that still is favored. In 1850-52 a careful survey of the Nicaraguan route was made by Col. Childs and this route was practically the same as the one later determined upon and now under consideration. Discussions and investigations continued.

There was a survey in 1872-73 by Lull and one in 1885 by Menocal, followed by a concession and actual work on a canal by the Maritime Canal Company, of Nicaragua, which failed.

REPORT OF 1901

The Nicaraguan Canal Board in 1895 found it impracticable within the time fixed by law and the limited means appropriated to accomplish its mission and it was followed by the Nicaraguan Canal Commission of 1897, which reported in 1899. Then the Isthmian Canal Commission of 1899-1901 made surveys, prepared a project and reported to the Fifty-seventh Congress.

This commission recommended the following route:

The Atlantic end of the canal to be at Greytown, where two jetties and a harbor two miles long were to be constructed. From there the canal was to run along the north side of the San Juan River 44 miles, separated from it in places by dikes. Four locks were to be located in this stretch. Then the canal was to enter the San Juan River, which was to be changed into an arm of Lake Nicaragua, 50 miles long, by a dam at Conchuda. The channel across Lake Nicaragua, 70 miles, was to be dredged. Then the canal was to pass through the Continental Divide west of Lake Nicaragua and drop to the level of the Pacific by four locks (16 miles), there was to be a dredged harbor and a jetty at Brito on the Pacific side.

NICARAGUA ROUTE FAVORED

The majority of the many investigators of an interoceanic canal, including the commission of 1899-01, recommended the Nicaraguan route as against the Panama route. However the commission of 1899-01 considered the Panama route more expensive because of the price asked by the French company for its work and rights and in addition there were treaty difficulties with Colombia. (The French first began digging the Panama Canal and failed.) The price for the Panama route was reduced, treaty difficulties were overcome, and the reason for favoring the Nicaraguan route were largely eliminated.

Comparisons between the Panama Canal and the proposed canal are:

TWO CANALS COMPARED

Length of Nicaragua canal, 113 miles on land, 70 miles in lake; length of Panama Canal, 50 miles.

Width of Nicaragua Canal, 150 feet; width of Panama, 500 feet.

Depth of Nicaragua, 35 feet; depth of Panama, 40 feet.

Locks of Nicaragua, 84 by 740 feet; locks of Panama, 110 by 1,000.

Summit level of Nicaragua, 110 feet (eight locks); summit level Panama, 87 feet (six locks).

The figures for the Nicaraguan Canal were made long before the modern development of shipping and the new survey will take into consideration locks much larger than those of Panama and a much greater depth.

NEW SURVEYS REQUIRED

In addition, experience gained in Panama as to earth dams, locks, etc., will lead to change in location and design. Curvature of the proposed canal also will be changed from the original survey. All this will lead to new locations not covered by old maps, profiles and borings. Thus a great deal of additional surveying and planning are necessary to produce a modern up-to-date plan.

The water supply of the Nicaraguan route is vastly greater than that of Panama. Lake Nicaragua is 2,975 miles in area, while Gatun Lake in Panama is only 159 square miles. The water shed of Lake Nicaragua is about 12,150 square miles, while that of Gatun is 1,320 square miles.

The commission of 1901 estimated that Lake Nicaragua could be made to supply enough water for its project. In view of the size of the watershed there is little doubt that enough water can be stored in the lake to supply a canal even larger than the Panama Canal.

FEW MINOR DIFFICULTIES

The San Juan River and Lake Nicaragua long have been used as a means of shortening the distance from coast to coast. As early as 1850 Commodore Vanderbilt was operating a fleet of flat bottom boats up the river, across the lake and then would transport passengers and freight to the Pacific Coast by coach. His project was put out of commission by the Panama Railroad.

There are some minor engineering difficulties. One of them is a small volcanic formation, but engineers claim that this can be easily overcome.

TILSON, KELLOGG, DAVIS URGE NEW CANAL STUDY

By JOHN Q. TILSON, of Connecticut

Republican Floor Leader of the National House of Representatives

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The proposal for a survey of the need of building a canal through the Republic of Nicaragua has my earnest indorsement.

There ought to be an investigation to determine how and where such a canal should be built. This inquiry also should go into the facilities of the Panama Canal and explore the possibilities for enlarging that waterway to take care of the increasing traffic.

Tilson.

As commerce through the Panama Canal is increasing at a rapid rate and some day will exceed the facilities for its expeditious movement, we should now look forward to the possibilities of opening a way through Nicaragua, where we have the rights to do so.

This is a major proposition. We ought to lay the foundation for the future, so that when the time comes when we will need to build the Nicaraguan Canal, we will have all the data on hand.

PANAMA DELAY RECALLED

We all recall the delay that accompanied the Panama Canal project the many years that it was discussed, until finally President Roosevelt swept aside obstacles and actually built the canal.

A preliminary investigation by the Army engineers, who are equipped to make one, would develop the facts for Congress. My belief is that the question of constructing a canal through Nicaragua, involving many millions of dollars and many problems, eventually will require the services of the greatest ability at the nation's command.

I would like to see pending measures for a preliminary survey of the whole situation covering the conditions at the Panama Canal and those in the Nicaragua project, passed at the present session of Congress, so that the work can be gotten under way.

OTHER LEADERS COMMENT

Statements on the Nicaraguan canal project from other leaders follow:

Secretary of State Kellogg.

"I am personally convinced that the time will come when the United States will desire to build the canal. It occurs to me that in view of the lapse of 30 years since the report of the Isthmian Canal Commission was submitted to the President that Congress would desire a re-examination of the whole subject and possibly additional surveys and estimates and that the experience the United States had in building the Panama Canal might be valuable in further investigation of the Nicaraguan route."

Kellogg

Secretary of War Davis.

"I am heartily in favor of a survey and study to determine the practicability and costs of a Nicaraguan canal. At the same time I believe our minds should be kept open on the comparative advantage of such a route with an expansion of the capacity of the Panama Canal.

Davis

"The (Edge) resolution appears to authorize in the proper way the collection of the desired data on the Nicaraguan canal route.

"The proposed legislation has been submitted to the director of the Bureau of the Budget, who advises that it is not in conflict with the financial policies o' the President."

Dr. Alejandro Cesar,
Minister from Nicaragua.

"If this canal is built, it is going to be of tremendous benefit to my country and to the United States, and I sincerely hope the Edge resolution will be instrumental in the furtherance of such a project within the very near future."

President Moncada, of Nicaragua

"I am ready and willing to cooperate with the government of the United States in the survey and construction of the Nicaraguan canal. I consider the canal a great service to Nicaragua and to humanity."

Butler Oil Well, Long Abandoned, Again Flows

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—An abandoned oil well, the equipment in which was being removed, has begun to flow again. Oil men estimate the output for 24 hours at 125 barrels.

The well was drilled to the fourth sand several years ago. The well is in the northern part of Butler county.

Animals Ravaged By Wolf Dog Pack

MERCED, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—"The hound of Silman," a monster wolf dog, leading his band in nightly raids on cattle farms near Merced, slaying a number of animals and injuring many others may be captured soon, as a result of information given to county and state authorities by a rancher.

Skidding Car Upsets, Two Brothers Hurt

Otto Kirmeyer, 22, of Clairton, is in a serious condition today in the McKeesport Hospital suffering from injuries received yesterday when his automobile skidded and upset on the Foster road near East McKeesport. His brother, William, 24, is in the same hospital, his shoulder broken. Griffith Childs, 27, of Third street, Clairton, was only slightly injured in the accident.

The men said they had bought whisky and wine in the house. The men are charged with being suspicious persons.

Plane With First Diner Service Launched

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Diner service was inaugurated as a regular feature of air passenger service in the United States yesterday when the Universal Aviation Corporation launched the first of 10 giant tri-motored Fokker planes to fly the routes between here and Cleveland, Minneapolis and St. Louis.

"Miss Cleveland," carrying a fully-stocked pantry and kitchen and manned with a chef and waiter, was christened by Mrs. P. G. Kemp, wife of the vice president of the Universal lines, and went into service on the Cleveland run.

Ten passengers, including Lewis H. Piper, of Minneapolis, president of the lines, were served a six-course lunch, cooked on the ship's electric stove, as it soared over the city.

Two Hurt in Brawl, Furniture Smashed

Two men were taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, and windows and furniture were broken as the result of a fight yesterday in a house at 81 Chatham street. Joseph DeRocco, 28, of 1322 Gibbon street, and Joseph Daggett, 27, of 1325 Watson street, were treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises. DeRocco and Daggett with two other white men were battling with two Negro men and women when police arrived and arrested them, it is said.

Woman Dies as Bus Skids and Upsets

LEXINGTON, Miss., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. L. Robeson, 59, of Chicago, was killed, and five others were hurt when a bus of the Capitol Stages, Inc., skidded on a muddy curve near Tchula and overturned yesterday. The bus was northbound from Jackson.

Blondes—Brunettes—Red-heads

such widely varying types

yet all screen stars alike have the vital appeal of smooth lovely skin . .

BLONDES

MARION DAVIES, famous for her blonde loveliness, says: "Smooth skin is a great asset. I am delighted with Lux Toilet Soap."

ESTHER RALSTON, blonde Paramount beauty, says, "Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for keeping the skin delightfully smooth."

DOROTHY MACKAILL, First National, guards her beauty carefully. "Lux Toilet Soap is lovely for the skin," she says.

ANNA Q. NILSSON, F. B. O. star, says enthusiastically: "Lux Toilet Soap is a splendid aid in keeping the skin like velvet."

RED-HEADS

CLARA BOW, Paramount, so famous for her charm, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping the skin in perfect condition."

JOAN CRAWFORD, M. G. M., says: "Never have I had anything like Lux Toilet Soap for keeping my skin fresh and smooth."

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap

AN exquisite, velvety skin is any girl's greatest charm, and for a screen star it is all important, leading motion picture directors say.

"Screen history has proved that the cleverest make-up can't imitate beautiful skin under the glare of the close-up. I don't know a single girl without really lovely skin who has won enough of the public to become a star," says William Beaudine, director for Fox Films.

"A star must always guard the perfection of her skin—the glaring lights of the close-up reveal the slightest unevenness," Merna Kennedy explains.

The next time you see her in a close-up notice how fine and smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin or Clara Bow's, Bebe Daniels', May McAvoy's. When next you see your favorite screen star, whoever she is, remember that nine out of every ten lovely stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin.

Indeed, all the great film studios, following these stars' example, have made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in all dressing rooms.

The exacting screen stars like the fact that this delicately fragrant white soap is made by the French method. "It gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only fine French soap could give," Renée Adorée says. You, too, will like its caressing lather that leaves your skin so satin smooth. Use it for the bath, too, and the shampoo, as the screen stars do.

BRUNETTES

BEBE DANIELS, Paramount, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping the skin smooth and lovely."

BILLY DOVE, First National, is charmed with this soap. "I find Lux Toilet Soap delightfully pure and refreshing."

LUPE VELEZ, United Artists, knows how important smooth skin is. "Lux Toilet Soap certainly keeps my skin like velvet."

LOUISE BROOKS says, "Lux Toilet Soap gives the skin the lovely satin smoothness 'studio skin' must have."

. . AND BROWN HAIR

MERNA KENNEDY, Universal, guards her skin with care. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin marvelously smooth."

NANCY CARROLL, Paramount—"Lux Toilet Soap is a great aid in keeping one's skin flawless for the all-seeing eye of the camera."

ELEANOR BOARDMAN says: "Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for the very smooth skin a screen star must have."

EVELYN BRENT, Paramount, says. "A star just must have a smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is so pleasing and soothing."

MARY BRIAN, Paramount, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is certainly lovely for keeping smooth 'studio skin' in perfect condition."

RENÉE ADORÉE, M. G. M.—"Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only French soap gave."

Stage and Screen Reflected In Little Tales and Star Pictures

LAURA HOPE CREWES TEACHES NORMA TALMADGE ART OF SPEAKING

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28.

LAURA HOPE CREWES has joined the colony, residing at the Roosevelt Hotel. Miss Crewes came West at the behest of either Norman Talmadge or United Artists for the purpose of teaching Miss Talmadge and Gilbert Roland diction. Diction is the current bug-a-boo that makes a player's performance in a talky either vocally clear or toothly mush. Since being here umpty-ump other flickerities have besieged Miss Crewes to teach them how English should be articulated—Vilma Banky, Betty Bronson, et al.

Mary Pickford fell down a hill and scraped her knee stiff. It happened on location for "Coquette." Mary did an acrobatic fall—minus technique. Then she had to call a halt on the flicker for two days. She'll finish her initial "outloud" this week. The accident deprived her and Doug Fairbanks of the vacational week they had planned to spend in Del Monte. They'll make that resort yet. Doug, by the by, has previewed his last offering, "The Iron Mask," three times.

Mary Pickford.

Opera Singer Attends Party

ROBERT VIGNOLA is en route to New York. Purpose, I reckon, business. Bob chucked one of his charming parties 'tother eve. Marguerite Gautier, sister of Gene—one of the earlier screen favorites—was among those present. And with her husband. A Swedish millionaire. The couple live in Stockholm. Gene lives with them off and on. The husband is worth a paltry $30,000,000. He's an inventor with a business head. At the time Gene Gautier was emoting before the camera and writing a story or two weekly. Marguerite was studying abroad for the opera. She made a sensational success in Stockholm in "Tosca." Then she met the inventor destined to be her husband. He wasn't a multi-millionaire at that time, by a long shot. But Marguerite loved him. Married him. They're in this country now on a combined biz-pleasure round-the-world-trip.

Ray Dooley Hikes Along

RAY DOOLEY, Broadway stage favorite, jogging down the Beverly Hills bridal path in search of exercise. Tom Mix and Gwen Lee trekking to a broadcasting studio and being radio-ed as Tom Mix and his leading woman. Dorothy Dwam. Yes. Gwen was annoyed. And Justly. Pat Rooney, Jr., is enjoying a "Crush" on "Mickey" Flynn, a red-top fem now working in "Broadway." Pat, Jr., babbles baby-talk to Mickey. At that, he's only 16 or 17. His dad is making an outloud for Universal. Lowell Sherman preparing to hit to San Francisco as the star of "The Guardsman," a legit talky. He'll be there four weeks. From there he plans a vacation jaunt to Yurope.

TOM MIX.

Harold Lloyd and the missus motoring to Rightwood Lodge, a mountain resort two hours ride from the village. Mildred takes to tobogganing in a big way. Harold ditto. Baby Gloria Lloyd is now two years old and makes her presence known to the adoring parents. The colony rushed to do what they could for Florence Vidor's 9-year-old daughter, Suzanne, when word spread she had been injured in an automobile accident. Suzanne suffered a broken leg. Poor kiddie. Florence is due to arrive from New York tomorrow. Probably with her husband, Jascha Heifetz, if he was able to get away.

Ralph Forbes And Wife Dine

RALPH FORBES and Ruth Chatterton enjoying supper tete-a-tete in Ralph's dressing room at the Vine street theater. He's scored a whale of a hit in "The Swan." . . . A gay minx suggesting that John Barrymore hitherfore be known as Mr. Dolores Costello. Hamlet, wherefore art thou! . . . Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels applauding the marathon dancers at Ocean Park. Ben sending $50 to his favorite couple and saying it was from Bebe. She, not to be outdone, sent 50 bucks and said it was from Ben. Love is grand. So's 50 clunkers. Gloria Swanson relishing a good dinner at the Russian Double Eagle. This is Gen. Lodijiensky's new Hollywood restaurant. Awfully nice and colorful. The General's first dietetic palace suffered disaster by explosion shortly after it opened. . . Don Alvaradez havin a midnight bite in a delicatessen den that looks like a speak-easy but isn't. And Don was with the boys. Taking a night off from domesticity . . . And—that's all.

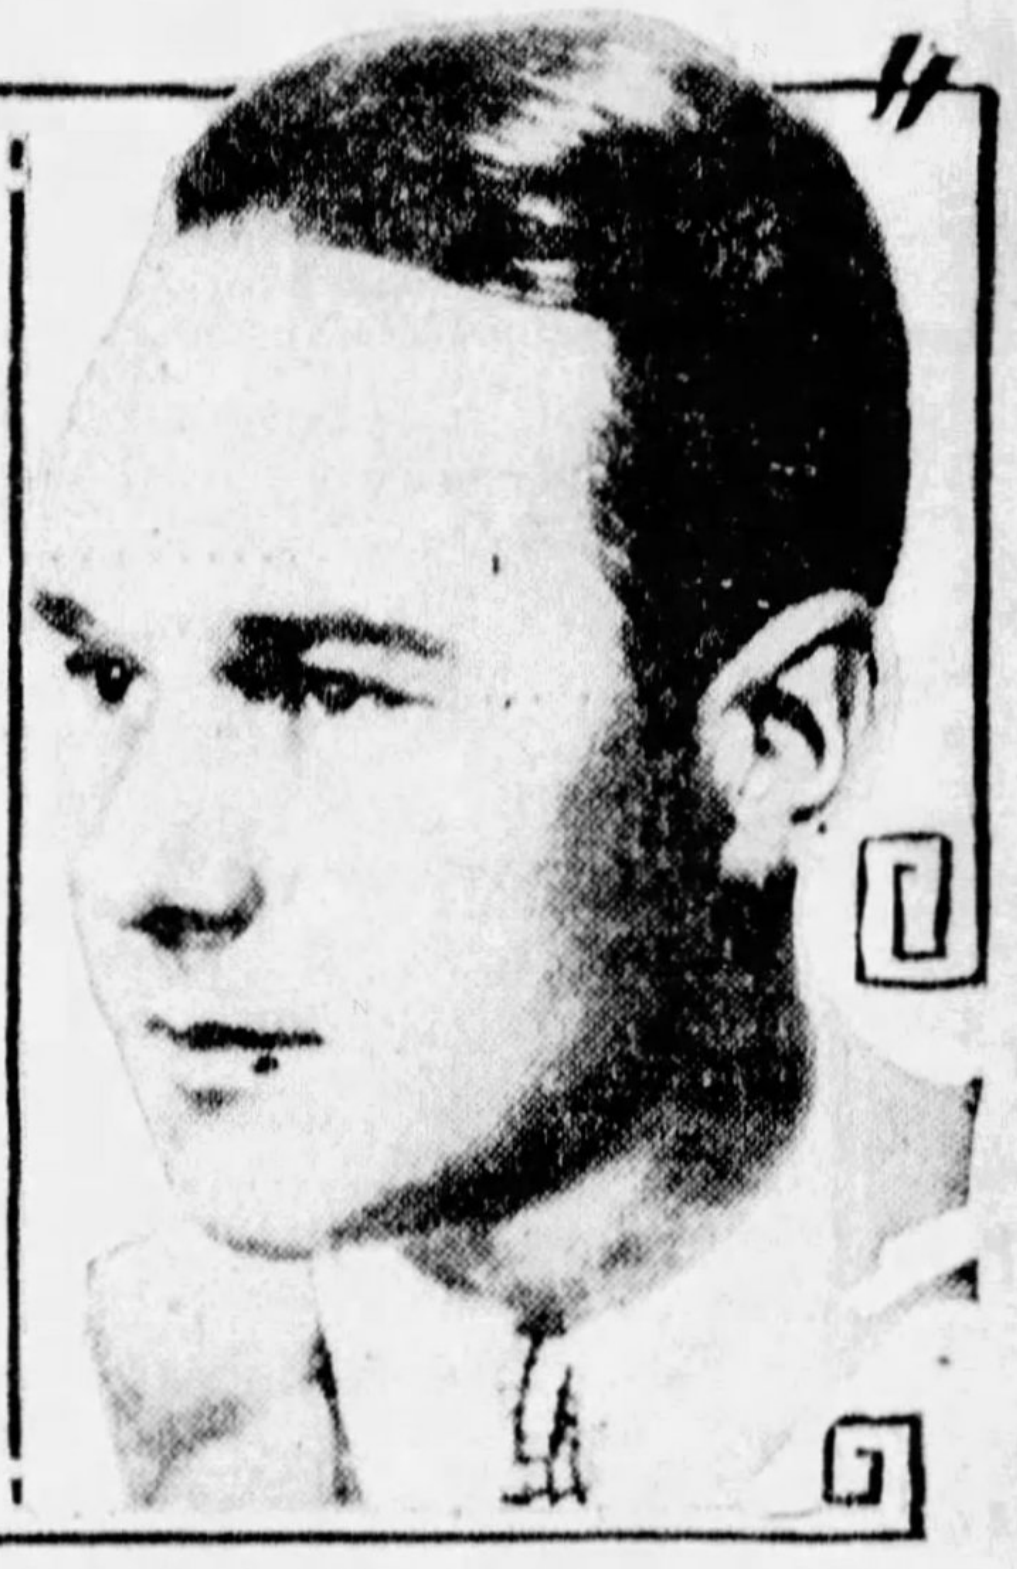
John Barrymore.

STUTTERS HIS STUFF :-: DUMAS IN MUSIC :-: THE TALKIES CARRY ON

"Manhattan Mary," which opens tonight at the Alvin, stars the inimitable, if stuttering, Ed Wynn, who'll tell all about how he lost a horse.

Vivienne Segal is Ziegfeld's contribution to the city's gaiety for the week. With Dennis King she'll occupy the Nixon stage in the musical version of "The Three Musketeers."

Once just a comely Broadway chorine, Nancy Carroll comes to the Stanley in "The Wolf of Wall Street,' which booms George Bancroft's baritone.

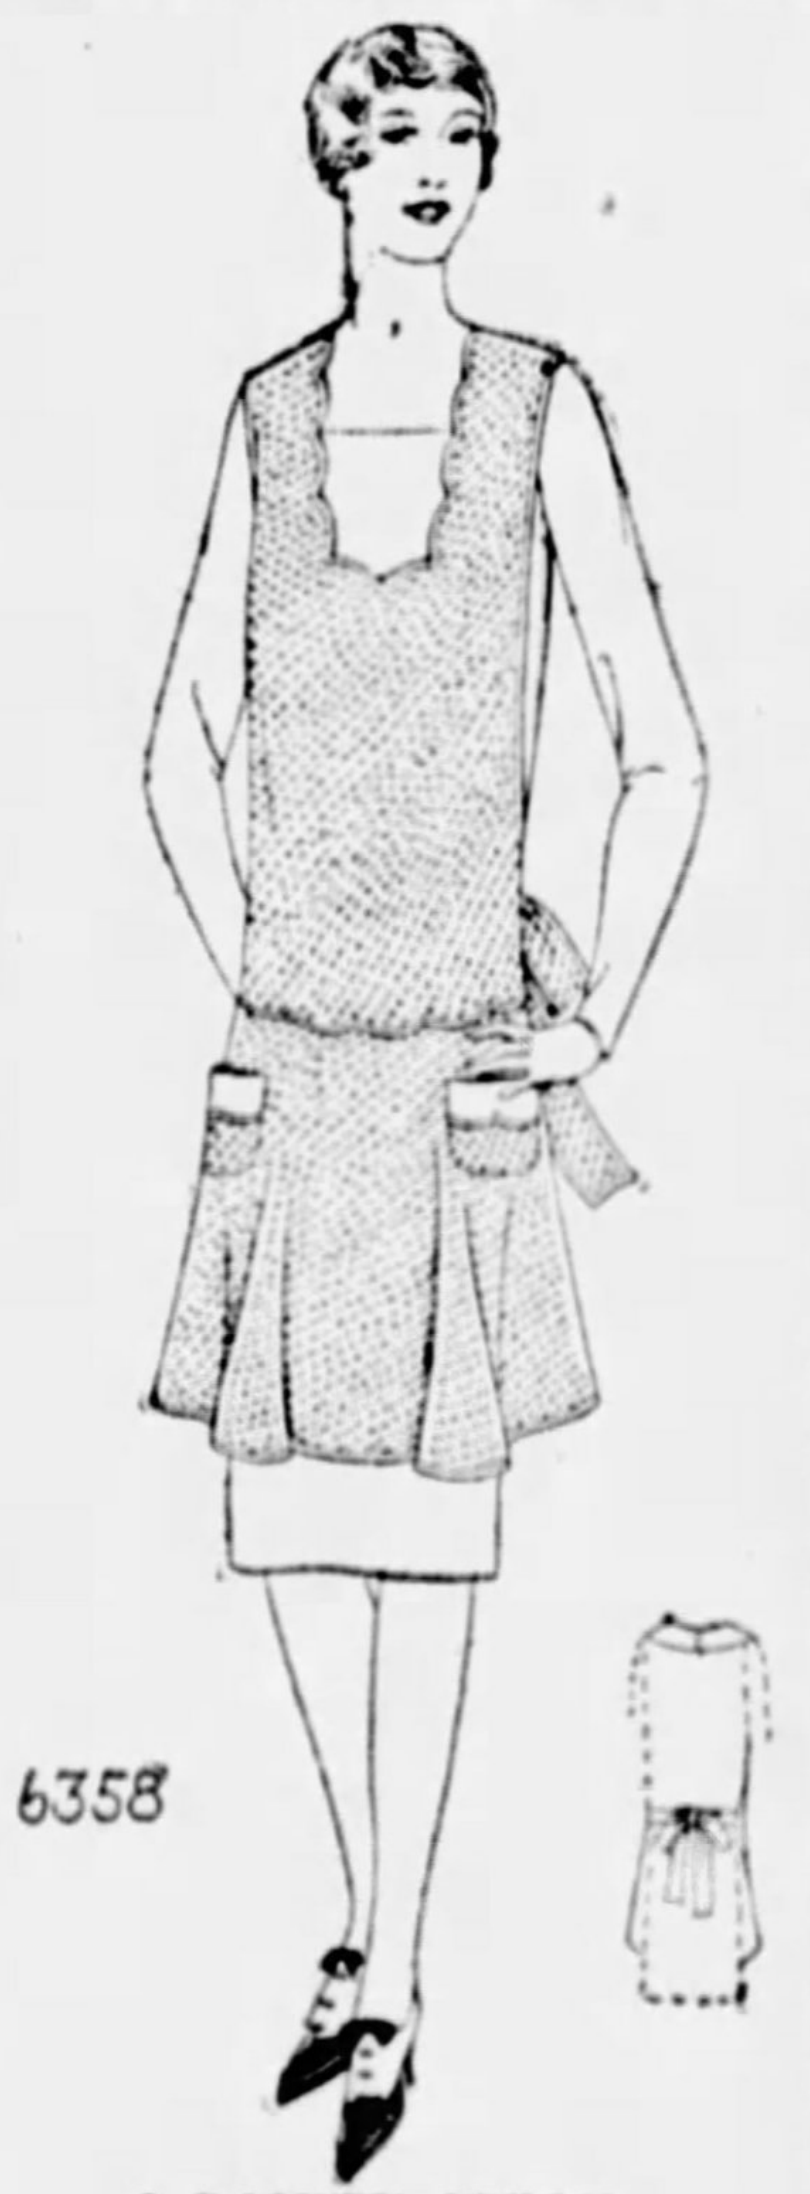


"Alias Jimmy Valentine," crook thriller, which has survived the ages, brings William Haines to Loew's Penn. It's a "talkie."

Chorus of Sixty To Sing Tomorrow

The Prague Teachers' Chorus, which arrived this morning, is made up of 60 voices. It will give a concert at Syria Mosque tomorrow night. The program will be chosen from the greatest choral works of all countries. It also will include melodies of Czech and Slovak folk music. Tonight members of the chorus will be the guests of the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association at the concert of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A DAINTY APRON.

The prevailing flare is pictured in this model, as is also the vogue for scallops. This design has a long shaped bib portion to which the skirt flaring in attractive folds, is joined. Serviceable pockets topped by scalloped facings trim the front. The Apron is shaped in yoke effect over the back of the shoulders, and held at the waistline by sash ends tied in loops at the center back. Cotton prints, percale, gingham, sateen or moire would be suitable for this design.

The Pattern is cut in one size, Medium. To make the Apron as pictured in the large view will require 1¾ yards of 36-inch material. To face pockets with contrasting material requires ¼ yard 12 inches wide. For bias binding as illustrated 10 yards are required.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Kleig Tonsils New Movie Ailment

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—A new ailment, companionate to "kleig eyes" has been developed in the sound studios of Hollywood and is temporarily identified as "Kleig tonsils."

This is contracted only through constant use of the voice before the microphone, which automatically exposes irritated tonsils to the powerful lights and renders practically the same effect as the lights do to the eyes.

Pickford Voice To Be Heard Via Talkies

"Coquette," Mary Pickford's talking screen version of the play by Ann Preston Bridges and George Abbott, will bring Miss Pickford's voice back into the theater after a "silence" which dates from May 3, 1913. On that day the David Belasco production, "A Good Little Devil," in which Miss Pickford played the role of Juliet, the little blind girl, drew its final curtain at the Republic Theater, New York City.

The presentation of a bobbed-haired Mary Pickford in a grown-up, romantic screen role will mark another climax of a career which began in 18[illegible], when at the age of 4, she became a member of the Valentine Stock Company, presenting melodramas of the period at the Victoria Theater, Toronto. There is record of her having played the part of "Cissy" in "The Silver King" during that year.

The successive steps, when Gladys Smith became Mary Pickford on the Broadway stage; when she was known as "Little Mary" of the one and two-reel pioneering movies, and when she eventually became known as America's sweetheart, a soubriquet bestowed upon her by David Grauman, father of Sid Grauman, Los Angeles showman, all mark milestones in a steady advance in Miss Pickford's position.

INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION

One of the vital things about Dow's Service, which succeeds McCulloch Service in Pittsburgh, is that each customer who enters our store does so on the basis of an individual, and as such receives individual attention. You need but make your wants known—there's a courteous clerk awaiting to grant them, and to provide you that which you ask, at the most economical prices.

PRESCRIPTION SERVICE

Every prescription placed in the hands of Dow's to be filled is compounded by a responsible, competent registered pharmacist, and every ingredient called for by the physician goes into the prescription in the exact quantities specified. There is no guesswork about Dow prescription service. The Penn Ave. and Sixth St. Store is available for all night prescription service.

LUCILLE O'CONNOR

Lucille O'Connor, daughter of P. J. O'Connor, principal of the Bedford School, South Side, has returned to her home city this week as a member of the Albertina Rasch Girls of the Ziegfeld show, "The Three Musketeers," current in the Nixon.

STAGE BILLS, NOW AND COMING

A large cast supports Ed Wynn in the playing of "Manhattan Mary," opening in the Alvin tonight. Among them are Dorse Leslie, Margaret Ball, Nick Long, Jr., George Mayo, George Goff, Harry B. Oldridge, Jack Motte, Vada Alexander, Webb sisters, Josephine Deffry and others.

Tonight, in the Nixon, at 8:15 o'clock, another Ziegfeld hit will be presented, direct from a New York run with the original cast. Dennis King will be seen in a musical version of "The Three Musketeers," with Rudolf Friml music.

Among the billings in the bill of two-a-day Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville in the Davis this week is Buster Shaver and his Tiny Town Revue, described as "a whirl of merriment and melody."

"Pleasure Bound," new Winter Garden Revue, comes to the Alvin for one week, beginning Monday, February 4, following five successful weeks in Philadelphia, and directly prior to the opening in New York. Starring Jack Pearl, German comedian, Phil Baker, Aileen Stanley, Al Shaw and Sam Lee, it has a supporting cast including Fred Hildebrand, Veloz and Yolanda and others.

Next week in the Nixon, Arthur Hammerstein will present "The End of St. Petersburg," a motion picture produced by the Soviet government of Russia. There will be matinees daily at 2:30 o'clock.

Chicago Orchestra In Concert Tonight

Tonight, in Syria Mosque, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, with Frederick Stock conducting, will give the fifth evening concert in the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association series. The major work to be given tonight is Cesar Franck's Symphony in D Minor. Other works not heard here for some time include Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Strauss' tone poem, "Don Juan," and Stravinsky's suite from "The Fire Bird."

Plaza Opening Is Well Attended

The initial appearance of the Tracey-Brown Radio and Recording Orchestra was appreciated by a large audience at the opening of the Plaza Cafe last evening. Many artists from local theaters were present.

Asthma Stopped Before You Pay

ST. MARYS, Kan.—D. J. Sure Way to Stop Coughing

This Prescription Relieves Almost Instantly.

Coughing is usually due to causes which patent medicines and cough syrups do not reach. However, Thoxine, a famous doctor's prescription, relieves coughing with the very first swallow. It works on an entirely different theory, has a double action, relieves the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause.

Unlike most cough medicines, Thoxine contains no chloroform, dope, or other harmful drugs. Safe for the whole family. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief guaranteed or your money back. 35c, 60c and $1.00. All druggists.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

City's Social Calendar Virtually Empty Until April

I WONDER if there are many others, who, like me, wish something would happen to add a date or two to the depressingly empty social calendar? Do you realize that there are only two events of any great import in the social world planned for the coming fortnight? And that after those two weeks are over, there's week after week unmarked by a penciled engagement? No matter how optimistic I am, I know, judging from the history of events, that little will be added to this ascetic calendar of February and March. Not until April will one be reminded that Pittsburgh society folks are fond of entertainments.

The two events that one can look forward to during the coming fortnight are the Stage and Play Society productions set for February 8, and the wedding of Sally Taber Todd, daughter of the James Noales, of Pembroke Place, and Tyson Nimick, son of Mrs. William Howard Nimick, of Fifth avenue, on February 9.

And there'll not be as many entertainments for the bridal party as the social prominence and popularity of Sally and Mr. Nimick would ordinarily call forth, because nearly all the members of the bridal party, it happens, are from out of town, and will not arrive in Pittsburgh until the day before the wedding.

Speaking of the bridal party I'm reminded that several changes have been made. Alexander Nimick, brother of the bridegroom-elect, will be an usher. And Charles C. Heard will be an usher, too, in addition to those named before. Taber Grange, Jr., who was named as an usher, will not be able to be in the city for the ceremony, I understand.

On Friday, February 8, Mrs. James Todd, of Sewickley, will give the rehearsal dinner. Her home, I believe, will be the scene of the entertainment.

And on the day of the wedding Mrs. William Howard Nimick, Jr., will give a wedding breakfast, I've been told.

The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

MANY of those who don't go South until later make brief visits to New York. Mrs. William B. Trainer, of Elder avenue, is at the Barclay, New York. She'll spend this week in Gotham, I understand.

Another society woman paying a visit to New York is Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, of Darlington road.

Over the week-end, the H. G. Fowneses, of Howe street, and the E. M. Huntings, of South Linden avenue, were Gotham visitors, I've learned.

MISS IDA MARGARET HAVERTY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Michael Haverty, of Aylesboro avenue, whose marriage to Joseph Girard Wagner, son of Milton Wagner, of Sidney, O., will be solemnized February 11 at 11 o'clock in St. Paul's Cathedral, has asked her sister, Mrs. Philip G. Wagner, of Sidney, to be her matron of honor. Another sister, Miss Ruth Haverty, will be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will include Miss Betty Page, Miss Ruth Hopkins, Miss Dorothy Bugher, of Pittsburgh, Miss Miriam Thedieck, of Sidney, and Mrs. James Cannon, of Oakmont. Blanche Wagner, small niece of the bride, will be flower girl. Philip G. Wagner is to be his brother's best man and the ushers will include John M. Haverty, Jr., Jerome Wagner, cousin of the bridegroom; Carl Wenstrup, of Cincinnati; Lawrence Sinnott and Walter Farrer, of Cleveland.

Mrs. Otto Bruning will give a bridge luncheon Wednesday for Miss Haverty and on Thursday Miss Sally Ritchie will give a bridge party. Miss Ruth Haverty will entertain at tea on Sunday afternoon and on February 6 Miss Page will be hostess at a bridge luncheon. Miss Dorothy Bugher will entertain the bridal party at dinner February 8 in the Keystone Athletic Club and the following evening Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Wagner will give the rehearsal dinner in the same club. Miss Ruth Hopkins will give a buffet supper February 10.

ONE of the important events for the younger set over the week-end in New York was the dinner the James Barlow Cullums, of Sewickley, and their debutante daughter, Mollie, gave Saturday night in the white and gold room of the Plaza for Denyse de Zerman Remington, one of Mollie's friends, and Denyse's fiance, Allen Earle Whiteman.

After the dinner the Cullums took their guests to the performance of "Follow Through" and after the theater they entertained their guests at the Club St. Regis at a supper and dance. Cornelia Prime, Mollie's schoolmate, who came out with her this year in New York, and a long list of debutantes and their escorts were included in the guest list.

THE marriage of Elizabeth Roberts Buchanan, daughter of the Edward Roberts Buchanans, of Denniston avenue, and Kenneth Niemann, son of the A. Edward Niemanns, of North Negley avenue, was solemnized Saturday at 4:30 o'clock in the annex of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association by the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers.

Elizabeth wore French ivory satin with a long tight bodice and a skirt falling in points in the front and back. The court train was lined with flesh-tinted brocade satin and inset with rose point lace, and the veil of tulle and rose point was held with orange blossoms.

Anne Buchanan was her sister's maid of honor, appearing in egg shell Lyons maline over silk with a felt hat to match. Leslie Soper, of New York, was best man and the ushers included Stanley Sackett, of New York; Thomas B. Neelands, of Great Neck, L. I.; W. Arch Irvin and John Howe Buchanan, of Pittsburgh.

A reception and dinner for 200 guests followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Niemann left for a trip to Bermuda. They will be at home in Dallas avenue after April 1.

Pi Beta Phi to Hold Benefit for School

PITTSBURGH alumnae of Pi Beta Phi will hold a bridge benefit February 9, in McCreery's dining room for the national fraternity settlement school at Gatlinburg, Tenn. The school which was founded in 1912 for the poor whites in the mountains, is maintained by voluntary contributions. There is no tax on the fraternity members, so each year the active and alumnae members of the national fraternity, of which there are nearly 20,000, unite to raise funds.

The school operates a clinic in which first aid, sanitation and rudimentary medicine are taught. Household economics, basketry, weaving, printing, farm management, grade and high school courses are on the school program. There is night school for adults. Because many mountaineers have to come great distances a dormitory forms a part of the plant. But such is the appreciation for the school that children walked as far as five miles a day to attend it before the dormitories were constructed.

The committee in charge of the benefit includes Mrs. Ray H. Finger, general chairman; Miss Fern Wein, Mrs. William W. Steele, Miss Lois Jacobs, Miss Emily A. Lane, Miss Anne Porter, Miss Helen McElravy and Miss Marie McSwigan. Miss Jeanne King, president of the active chapter, and Miss Mary Burke, president of the alumnae club, are ex-officio members. The following will serve as hostesses: Mrs. W. F. Rittman, Miss H. Vera Trimble, Miss Margaret Hotham, Miss Margaret McConaghey, Miss Sarah Fulton, Mrs. W. A. Wellinger, Miss Sarah Hannan, Miss Catherine McCullough, Mrs. H. C. Johnson, Miss Bertha Prichard, Miss Elizabeth Webster and Mrs. R. S. Slocum.

THE fifty-ninth anniversary of the founding of Kappa Alpha Theta, first Greek letter college fraternity to be formed among women had its Pittsburgh observance at a luncheon given in Webster Hall on Saturday by the alumnae and the active chapter of the University of Pittsburgh. Greetings were sent to Mrs. Hannah Titch Shaw of Butler, Indiana, the only one of the four founders who survives.

WAGNER'S opera, "Die Walkure," will be the theme for the program to be presented at the Central Branch Y. W. C. A. Forum Supper at 6 o'clock tomorrow. Mrs. James H. Greene will discuss the opera and illustrate at the piano the outstanding musical themes. Records of well-known parts will also be presented. Miss Janet Dalgleish will preside. At the 8:20 period, Miss Sara M. Soffel will give the seventh lecture of her series on "News at Home and Abroad." The Rev. Dr. John R. Ewers will again meet the Noon Day Bible Class on Friday.

RESERVATIONS for the card party which the Outlook Alliance will have on Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. H. McCreery are being made through Mrs. S. J. Corbett, ways and means chairman. The Alliance has elected this nominating committee: Mrs. H. K. Brady, Mrs. Florence Stewart Blackmore, Mrs. J. C. Michael, Mrs. M. R. Moxley and Mrs. C. R. Hall.

MRS. HERMAN J. APEL is the new president of Syria Ladies' Social Club, having been chosen at the annual election held Saturday afternoon. Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, Mrs. J. Lee Owens and Mrs. Louise C. Lindeman; secretary, Mrs. Sarah M. Phillips; treasurer, Mrs. Belle Todd Wilson; auditor, Mrs. F. C. Ludwig. The directors elected are Mrs. Ross F. Porter, Mrs. John S. Henk, Mrs. A. L. Schmidt, Mrs. J. J. Martin, Mrs. John B. Elliott and Mrs. Charles M. Dressing.

* * *

MRS. HARRY G. SAMSON is chairman of patronesses for the lecture which Ruth Bryan Owen will give the night of February 6 in Carnegie lecture hall under auspices of the Women's International League for Peace.

* * *

THESE officers have been elected by the local woman's auxiliary to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers: President, Mrs. Newell G. Alford; first and second vice presidents, Mrs. Frederick Crabtree and Mrs. C. E. Lesher; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Max von Bernewitz; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles R. Fettke; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Black. The election was held at the January meeting at which the retiring president, Mrs. Crabtree, was presented with a floral tribute and a wrist watch. Mrs. Crabtree and Mrs. Lewis E. Young will represent the Western Pennsylvania Auxiliary at the annual meeting of the national auxiliary in New York, February 18-21.

COURT DUQUESNE, No. 659, Catholic Daughters of America, has scheduled a bridge luncheon for Saturday, February 9, in the William Penn Hotel. Mrs. Clara Herman and Mrs. John Murray are in charge of reservations.

* * *

THE Parent-Teacher Association of the Wyland School, Hampton Township, will have a benefit card party on Thursday in the home of Mrs. R. R. Galen, Sherwood avenue, Allison Park Heights.

* * *

MRS. H. B. Wolawska, Mrs. Thomas P. Horan and Mrs. F. Knapp will be hostesses at a bunco party to be held at the Council House of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women Tuesday evening, February 5. The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of furnishing Council House as a residence for business women.

BLAST IN MINE, FATAL TO 14, PROBED

KINGSTON, W. Va., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Their battle with the Kingston mine ended with the recovery of the bodies of the 14 victims, state mine inspectors, accompanied by other experts, re-entered the blasted workings yesterday seeking to determine the cause of Saturday's explosion.

A coroner's jury was empaneled and viewed the bodies preliminary to an inquest set for Friday in charge of Justice of the Peace G. R. Wright. At that time the findings of the Board of Inspectors and other testimony will be presented.

Despite several fires that developed intermittently and other handicaps, rescue crews located and brought to the surface the body of the last victim less than 24 hours after the blast ripped through the workings of the No. 5 Mine of the Kingston Pocahontas Coal Company. The rescue crews, working under the direction of R. M. Lamble, chief of the State Mining Department, and aided by experts from the United States Bureau of Mines, fought their way forward from two entries, one on each side of the mountain.

Sixty-nine men, composing the night crew, were underground at the time of the disaster. Fifty-five of them made their escape through the entry far back in the mountain, two of them after they had wandered about the workings almost 12 hours. About 500 men are employed at Kingston, the remainder being on the day shift.

FOSTER DRIVE ON TONIGHT

Active work on the project to erect a memorial building on the Cathedral of Learning quadrangle in honor of Stephen C. Foster, famed Pittsburgh song writer, will begin tonight when the advanced gift group will hold its first meeting in the University Club.

E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and chairman of the Foster memorial executive committee will preside. Other speakers will be Mrs. Will Earhart and Attorney George R. Wallace. Frederic Schaefer is chairman of the advanced gifts group and Warren I. Bickford is vice chairman. According to leaders of the memorial project the public fund raising effort will start early in April when a large number of workers will conduct the movement in all parts of the Pittsburgh district.

Bus Leaps Over Curb, Killing Pedestrian

An unidentified man was struck and fatally injured by a Greyhound motor bus today at Fair Oaks, near Leetsdale. Witnesses said the man was standing on the sidewalk in the Beaver highway, when the bus, Pittsburgh-bound, rounded a turn in the road. The driver, said by police to be Gerald Ham, was unable to make the curve, it was alleged, and the heavy bus crashed onto the sidewalk, crushing the man. The victim died en route to the Rochester Hospital.

Badly Hurt in Fall Down Station Steps

James Carroll, 32, of 373 Gross street, suffered a fracture of the skull yesterday when he fell down the steps leading to the Pennsylvania Station at Liberty avenue. Carroll was taken to Mercy Hospital, where it was said his condition is serious. Witnesses told police that the man apparently had slipped and landed on his head.

I TOLD MARTY TO PUT 'ER IN A HEATED GARAGE LAST NIGHT, BUT HE SAID THAT'S WHAT HE HAD A RADIATOR ON 'ER FOR - TO KEEP IT WARM IN THIS KIND OF WEATHER
WELL, ISN'T THAT REALLY WHAT A RADIATOR IS FOR, "WINDY"?
I ASK, AIN'T THAT A SWELL NOTE ? SHE'S FROZEN AS TIGHT AS A SCOTCHMAN AT THE POLE AND HERE I POURED A WHOLE PAIL FULL OF HOT WATER INTO IT BEFORE I WENT TO BED!
DON'T LET IT WORRY YOU, MARTY- THE SPRING THAWS WILL BE SETTING IN PRETTY SOON - BUT THERE'S NOTHING LIKE ICE IN A RADIATOR TO PRODUCE HEAT UNDER THE COLLAR!
WHAT ABOUT THE MUFFLER ON THE CAR? ISN'T THAT SUPPOSED TO PREVENT SUCH THINGS?

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Myth of Woman's "Influence"

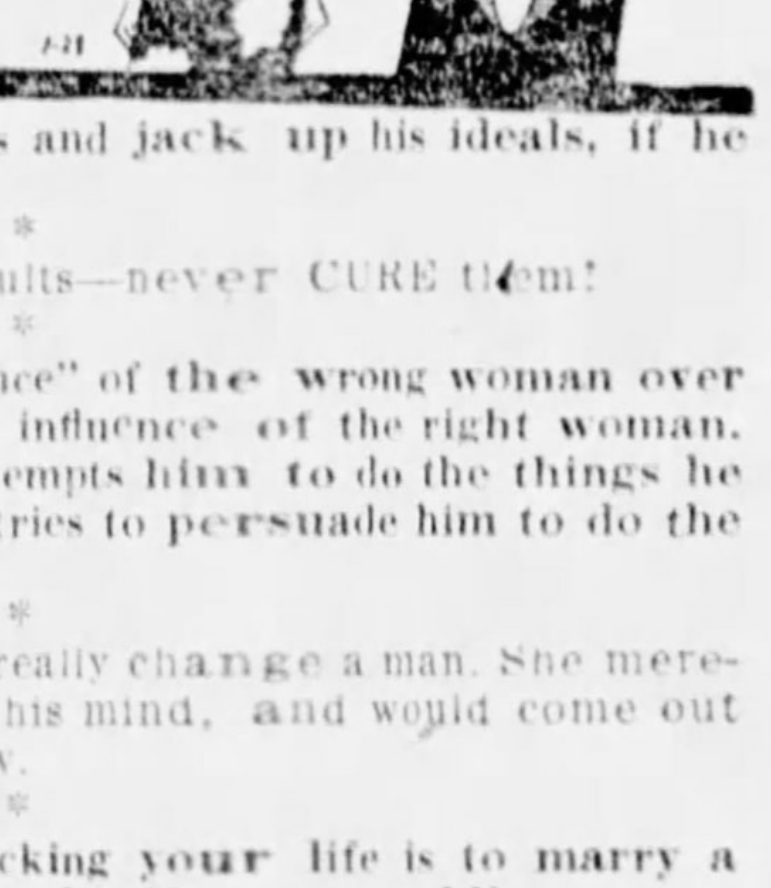
MOST women appear to sign the marriage contract with the idea that it is "just a scrap of paper," and that they will remodel the whole institution, including the man, once they hold the whip-hand.

* * *

Almost any man can marry a woman if he can only convince her that he "needs her." It is the secret passionate desire of every woman's heart to be "needed."

* * *

"Woman's sacred influence" over man is just one of the pretty little phrases with which he jollies her into thinking that she is going to be the miracle worker that will transform him from a lazy butterfly into a human dynamo, and from a night-owl into a morning lark.



* * *

But, alas, her sacred influence consists entirely in making a man do what he WANTS to do! She can help him develop his talents, encourage his ambitions and jack up his ideals, if he HAS any.

But she can only endure his faults—never CURE them!

That is why the "sacred influence" of the wrong woman over a man is so often stronger than the influence of the right woman. Because the wrong woman usually tempts him to do the things he longs to do, while the good woman tries to persuade him to do the things he doesn't want to do.

* * *

But even a bad woman doesn't really change a man. She merely appeals to what is already inside his mind, and would come out and express itself some day, anyhow.

The most effective way of wrecking your life is to marry a spendthrift, a weakling or a woman-charmer, with the idea that you will "make a better man of him." Marriage may change a few of a man's superficial habits—but it never changed a man above the ears. He is as unimpressionable as an asphalt pavement; everything a woman says just rolls off or dries up—nothing ever sinks in. It is all right to marry a rough diamond, if you like him that way—but not with the sanguine faith that you will polish him up. Most of them won't take a polish!

You can make him wear a high collar and a silk hat; but his hair will stick up in the middle, he will gurgle his soup, and he'll always fall over his feet—if he's that kind of man.

Pick the kind of man that appeals to your taste in the first place, and then prepare to put up with him for life, just AS IS! You can be his inspiration, his solace, his helpmate, or his pet. But no woman was ever a success as a pulmotor, a Keeley cure or a reformatory!

Horoscope

Tuesday, January 29

CONFLICTING influences among the astral activities react upon human events in a contradictory manner. While there are many signs of advancement and preferment in employment as well as in important corporation affiliations, yet a disposition to wanderlust, longing to be elsewhere and doing something else, may defeat the best interests. A vacillating and wayward tendency is to be conquered if the benefits indicated are to be enjoyed.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of recognition and favors from employers or those in places of power and authority, if they will resist the tendency to restlessness and change. Be careful with writings and as to veracity.

A child born on this day has much promise of success and good place in employment or with the government, but it must curb restlessness and desire for constant change.

Fate wings, with every wish, the afflictive dart, each gift of nature and each grace of art.—Johnson.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

I KNOW two sisters and they are the loveliest girls you would meet in miles and miles of travel. BUT—their dispositions are so unlike, so far removed each from the other that I've christened them "Rain" and "Snow."

Miss Snow is the most joyous, sparkling creature in the world. Full of mischief; dancing her way through life like the snow flakes after which I have named her and ever sparkling and glistening with the joy of life and love.

Miss Rain—oh, what a girl! She's so doleful that it's tragedy. Never a smile, never any sparkle, except the tears which roll down her cheeks on the slightest provocation. And which do you suppose is the most popular? No need to guess which will win the race for love's favor!

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Harry Underwood Gives the Little Party a Surprise.

LILLIAN is what Dicky calls an "efficiency shark" in getting things done in a hurry, but she never pays much attention to dress, and I knew that she had overlooked a most important detail in the selection of Marion's hats which she was rushing through.

"If I may make a suggestion," I murmured, as she indicated a fourth hat to the saleswoman, already carrying three in her arms.

"A dozen," she returned, looking attentively at me.

"Marion ought to have the dress with her when she tries on those hats, but you told her to send it out."

She opened her purse and thrust a roll of bills in my hand.

"Flag it if you can," she said, "pay for it and bring it, in the box all ready for tying, down here. Have them put the outer coat on top so we can get it out easily. That's all she'll need for the trying on. I'd go myself, only—"

"If you start any apologies I shall choke you," I threatened and hurried out of the department. I reached the suit desk as the saleswoman was beginning to make out the slip for sending, and in another five minutes we were all back in the millinery department, with Marion, invested in the coat of the new suit, trying on hats piled on the table near the big mirror.

It did not take her long to decide. There was one hat which seemed to have been made for the suit she had selected. It was one she had lingered over earlier in the afternoon and then complained that it hurt her forehead. But neither Lillian nor I moved an eyelash to indicate our amusement when she laid aside the hat.

"We'll carry these packages with us to the shoe and glove and hosiery departments," Lillian said. "Then we'll be sure that we are getting the right tints. I think we'll have time for everything if we hurry."

There was something akin to awed admiration in Marion's eyes as she trailed her mother to the elevator, and there flashed into my brain a confiding comment she once had made to me.

"You never can put anything over on Mother," she had said, and there had been pride in her voice at her mother's astuteness. I was glad to see that in her face now there was nothing of the sly planning and ugly sullenness which had marred it before.

It was exactly seven minutes to four when Marion's last purchase—some handkerchiefs to go with the traveling outfit—was wrapped, and laden with parcels we made our way toward the entrance where we had promised to meet Dicky and Harry. Suddenly Lillian stopped and put a restraining hand on my arm.

"Go on out to the door, girls, and wait for us. There's one thing I've forgotten which I must get for myself. I don't think I'll be a minute overtime, but if I am, don't come back here for us. We'll come out to the door the minute we're finished."

Mary obeyed with alacrity, Marion with slower and I guessed reluctant movements, but they were both out of sight in another minute. Then William drew me to a counter where there was a most alluring display of handbags.

"Marion doesn't need a new bag," she said, "but Mary does, and I'm going to get her one for her birthday. Now don't do any protesting"—she shut off my expostulations firmly—"this is my party, and I guess if you can get her a leather jacket, I can get her a bag. How is this one?"

She held up an extremely smart purse of a type which would go with almost any suit.

"It couldn't be better," I said. "Can you wait just a minute? I want to buy one of these for myself."

For near my hand was a bag that simply pleaded to be worn with Marion's new outfit. Lillian looked suspiciously at me when I ordered it wrapped up, but I stared her down, and we hurried to the door, arriving there exactly upon the stroke of four and finding only Dicky there talking to the two girls. He quickly possessed himself of our bundles, and grasped Lillian by the arm.

"We have a taxi waiting, hurry!" he said and led the way down the street a few yards where Mr. Underwood was standing by an exceedingly smart automobile.

"Let me present you to the new family car of the Underwoods," Dicky said with a flourish.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Change Note Paper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. On which side of a girl is a man supposed to walk when not on a sidewalk or street?

2. Is this note-paper correct? If not, what is wrong with it?

3. Is my handwriting too large?

G. W.

"THE lady on the right of the gentleman" would then be the rule.

2. Since apparently you want an honest taste-judgment about your letter-paper, I think that it is one of the worst that I have seen. I cannot understand why the manufacturer of letter-paper should spoil what must at first have been a very fine sheet of paper by adding such an extremely unattractive margin of brown and gilt. That streak down the side of the page is in terrible taste; and added to that the gilt comes off (it is even now on my fingers) and it has "run" down the margin of its space. I should think that it would be very disagreeable paper to write on. The initial is too large, and is unattractive in its cut-out and in the over-ornamental designs on the sides. I hope that you don't contemplate using this paper when writing notes to your discriminating friends!

3. No, your handwriting is fairly good, and when more formed and with the letters more carefully written, it will be very good. And don't abbreviate the names of the months.

The Formal Reply

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you please tell me how to accept an invitation worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alwood,
Mr. and Mrs. James Everett,
Mr. and Mrs. George Southbridge,
Dinner Bridge and Dance,
I. O. R. Hall,
Wednesday Evening, February
Tenth, Seven o'Clock.

2. If one cannot attend, is it better to write regrets or call on the hostess?

3. Is it ever proper to answer such an invitation over the telephone?

NANCY LOU.

THIS is a formal invitation, and should be answered in the formal manner:

Miss Nancy Louisiana accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alwood,
Mr. and Mrs. James Everett
and
Mr. and Mrs. George Southbridge to a dinner, bridge and dance at I. O. O. Hall
on Wednesday, the tenth of February, at seven o'clock.

2. No matter what else you do to acknowledge the invitation, you must first write this note of acceptance (or regret, as the case may be). This kind of formal note requires a formal answer.

3. No. Only a telephone invitation may be with propriety answered by telephone. Keep in mind that the fundamental rule about answering invitations is that they must be answered "in kind."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Young and Old Alike Need Diversion.

ONLY a few weeks ago the world was enjoying the holiday season. Perhaps the members of the families who pay the bills are less enthusiastic just now about the holiday season than they were on Christmas morning. But they'll be happy again when another Christmas rolls around.

DR. COPELAND

The fact is, we need diversion. We need a change from the ordinary routine of life. Indeed, we need frequent changes. I say in all reverence, that the Sabbath has a significance beyond the religious one. It is a day of diversion.

Of course, I do not mean by this that it need be made a day of celebration and riotous living. That is not the sort of diversion I have in mind. But it is intended to be a day different from the other six days. It should be a day of relief from the monotony of existence.

I cannot speak too strongly about the need for diversion. It is absolutely essential to make provision for regular and frequent changes from the routine of life, no matter how agreeable that routine may be.

There is nothing so depressing, so nerve-wearing, so temper-breaking and so deadly as the steady grind of existence. The best machine in the world must have its periods of overhauling. Few engines ever made could run from New York to San Francisco without stopping. Overhauling, oiling, fuelling and repairing are necessary. The only safe way to run the engine is to have periods and places for regular stops.

Certainly this is the case with the human machine. Not alone does the body require these periods of rest, but the brain and nervous system demand them.

I have seen many a friend of mine grow stale by too close application to his work. It is indeed true that "All work and no play make Jack a dull boy."

What are you doing to vary the monotony of your life? Do you go out to lunch with a friend occasionally? Do you take a walk in a new part of town? Do you walk in the woods or go into the attic to see how things are there? When did you last go to the theater or a movie? Do you ever hear a preacher other than your own? How many times a month do you taste other people's food?

If you are to be alert, energetic, enthusiastic, abounding in health and vigor, you must have diversion. You must have a change of thought and scene. These things are essential to your good health and long life.

Answers to Health Queries

M. B. Q.—What do you advise for burning of the bottom of the feet?

2.—I have yellow spots before my eyes—they are not sore and the vision is perfect—what would you advise?

A.—Try bathing the feet in warm water to which a little powdered alum has been added. Frequent changing of the stockings and shoes, the latter being properly fitted should bring about relief. The circulation might also be at fault.

2.—Probably due to biliousness. Correct your diet cutting down on sugars and rich heavy foods and keep your system clear.

C. G. Q.—What causes my heart to flutter and at times to skip a beat—I am troubled with indigestion and nervousness?

A.—Both conditions you mention would be apt to cause the heart symptom. Correct your diet and build up your general health.

S. S. Q.—What will improve the growth of my hair?

2.—What is the cause of a bald spot on a young person's head? Would diseased tonsils be responsible in any way?

3.—What will clear up constipation?

A.—Careful shampooing and rinsing and the use of a good hair tonic.

2.—May be due to the general health; this is a most important factor in the condition of both hair and skin. Improve your health and keep the scalp immaculately clean.

3.—Watch your diet and take all the outdoor exercise possible.

CONSTIPATION THE CAUSE OF BAD SKIN

Get Natural Relief With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Rid yourself of constipation! The longer it lingers, the greater the poisons it sends through your body — poisons which can undermine your health and lead to many serious diseases.

The work of constipation shows in the face—pimples, pasty or sallow cheeks, dark circles. It brings headaches. Causes spots before the eyes. Unpleasant breath. But you can get prompt relief and prevent it! Begin eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN today.

After all else has failed, thousands have regained their health with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran, it is 100% effective. Part-bran products bring only "part" results.

Doctors recommend it — and Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily — chronic cases, with every meal.

Ready-to-serve with milk or cream. You will like its crispness and flavor. Use it in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Taking no chances with colds

The good ship Lady Arctic shakes and groans as she smashes at the jagged floes. The wind screams at her upper-works. The ice thunders from her bows. Up and back she shuttles in the bitter cold, fighting the frozen seas to keep the lanes of navigation open.

The officers and crews aboard such ice-breakers are picked for courage and hardiness. Yet they take no chances with dreaded colds, as their medicine chests show. Most of them are amply stocked with GROVE'S BROMO QUININE.

At the very first hint of headache, sneezing, feverish condition, chilliness, or dryness in the nose and throat, they promptly take these tiny tablets. They never wait until serious complications develop. They take this remedy noted for rapid results the world over.

The cold is either side-stepped entirely or thrown off quickly, and the system is fortified against grip and influenza.... The only BROMO QUININE tablets are GROVE'S, the original and world's largest selling. Make sure of getting them by emphasizing GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

PUBLIC LEADERS PRAISE TEMPERANCE CONTEST

Public officials, including members of Congress, judges, prosecuting officers and mayors of cities in a position to watch the effects of a 10 years' trial of prohibition, continue to write the Hearst newspapers concerning the $25,000 prize offer of William Randolph Heart for a practical workable substitute for prohibition.

Commending Mr. Hearst "for his patriotic effort to remedy a bad condition in our country," Victor E. Shaw, of Los Angeles, formerly judge of the California District Court of Appeal, and an outstanding member of the California bar, commented yesterday on the prize offered for the best plan to bring about real temperance. His views and those of others are subjoined:

Victor E. Shaw

"Prohibition is a failure. It is more than that—it is a murderer!

"Deaths as a result, directly or indirectly, of prohibition will soon reach a total that will resemble the fatalities of a great war. Such a condition cannot go on.

"The failure of the law is due to the lack of public sentiment behind it. Public sentiment means the support of the people and unless the people of the nation support a law, the law does not exist, except on paper.

"For instance, consider the law regarding murder. Public sentiment is staunchly behind that law. If a citizen sees another murdered, at once he performs his duty and informs the officers of the law.

"But if a citizen sees another man quietly place a bottle of liquor in his car, does he do the same? No, he smiles and chuckles at the law that would presume to take away this man's personal liberty. He smiles as he would smile if a law prohibiting smoking or coffee-drinking should be violated in the same manner.

"With this smile of derision for a law from citizens who are strongly behind practically every other law, there is obviously a lack of support. And unless there is popular support—conditions will continue as at present.

"In Texas, at one time, people did not frown upon murder. If a two-gun man shot another, it was just too bad. Then the people began to become educated. There came understanding of the laws of murder—and the laws against murder began to be enforced.

"Temperance, too, demands a vast educational program before it can be successful. One cannot change a great nation's thoughts by writing a law. It is a matter of education.

"Therefore, I commend Mr. Hearst highly for his patriotic effort to remedy a bad condition in our country and I hope that he will succeed in obtaining a practical temperance plan that we all will support willingly."

Algernon I. Nova

County Judge Algernon I. Nova, of Brooklyn, N. Y.:

"It has been my lot to observe the many effects prohibition has had upon the people, and especially upon the youth, of our country. It is this close insight into conditions which has brought me to the conclusion that prohibition does not prohibit. It does many other things—all of them ill—but it fails in this outstanding purpose.

"The youth of today is being degenerated by the very laws which were attempts at making them better people by curbing their lives. This system of control will never do. The majority of wrongs committed by youths would never be committed were it not for the influence of the poisonous and villainous liquor now dispensed.

"The liquor being sold all over the country would not be so harmful but for the prohibition laws.

"Boys of 16 and 17 brought before me for petty stealing, started on a criminal life through drinking poison which made them morally irresponsible. Young boys are becoming wrecks and girls are growing lawless and degenerate.

"The remedy is modification, which will do more for the bettering of internal troubles in this country, for the abatement of crime, than any other one thing. It isn't beer and wines that are ruining our youth; it's the imitation strong drinks which warp the minds of those who imbibe.

"It cannot be stressed too strongly. I am certainly in favor of Mr. Hearst's plan for a method of modification. It is astounding to me that there has been no drastic action against prohibition before.

"I believe that if the problem of alcoholic content be left entirely to the states and that if a plan such as that now in effect in Canada be instituted in this country, a regeneration in economic conditions will be forthcoming."

Walter E. Edge

Walter E. Edge, United States senator from New Jersey:

"I believe the action taken by Mr. Hearst for real temperance is a timely one. The services which we can render to the cause of educating the public to the real evils of prohibition cannot be computed. Continued hammering away at this topic is required if results are to be achieved.

"Along with the growing congressional sentiment for a probe of the entire subject of liquor enforcement, or non-enforcement, as many persons prefer to call it, the Hearst contest will furnish an excellent commentary and guide to the state of public opinion.

"Any practicable plan to bring about a sane temperance regime in the United States will be welcomed by me. The contest cannot fail to be of great value to this cause."

Victor Berger

Victor Berger, congressional representative from Wisconsin:

"There are many ways in which the prohibition issue can be kept before the public. I think agitation and education are necessary. If the Hearst prize contest means that public attention is to be brought to bear upon the evils of prohibition it will meet with my approval.

"In general, my belief is that some change in the present status cannot be long delayed. I welcome any step which will keep the issue continuously alive and which will reflect genuine public opinion."

William Cabell Bruce

William Cabell Bruce, United States Senator from Maryland:

"The constructive features of the Hearst temperance contest, the proposals for the substitution of a rational temperance law, will be of the greatest value to Congress.

"It will not be long before we will be confronted with concrete legislative proposals to do away with the present intolerable conditions I am of opinion that substitute legislation will have to be advanced as a corrolary for the elimination of the present statutes, or their modification. I think some expert and well-drawn proposals should be brought forth in the competition undertaken by Mr. Hearst."

7 Rules of $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

Illinois Road Probe Nets 22 Legislators

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—While summons bearers were notifying 22 state legislators to appear before the special grand jury and explain their status as sanitary district payrollers, special assistant state's attorneys were preparing to present new findings in their investigation of sanitary district expenditures.

Accounts show a four-mile cinder bridle path, yet unfinished, according to the state's attorney, already has cost $1,062,000.

Peoples Savings & Trust Company of Pittsburgh

THE fifteen year monthly payment mortgage plan, originated by the Peoples Savings and Trust Company of Pittsburgh and its associated banks, presents a sure, easily kept program of financing new homes for families of moderate income.

For each thousand dollars of money borrowed on mortgage, $8.44 is required to be re-paid monthly—which includes a 6% interest charge and a monthly reduction on the debt.

Each month the amount of the interest grows less, as the amount paid on the mortgage increases—until at the end of 15 years the loan is automatically paid off.

No renewal fees, no brokerage charges—no worry about extension—just the stipulated amount each month.

The following rules govern:—New homes only. No mortgage for more than $20,000. No loan to exceed 60% of the bank's appraisal value of the ground and building. Title and mortgage to be approved by bank's attorney.

"AGE" WINS WISECRACKER $5 I'M-THE-GUY AWARD

I'M THE GUY was on the job early this morning with his assistants, to select the winners for today. The week-end brought in a new record number of wise-cracks.

I'M THE GUY says that nowhere he has even been before, has he received such response to his popular contest. Never has he seen so many people vieing with each other in writing clever lines.

Start writing wise-cracks today.

Everyone has an equal chance to win. Look at the winning wise-cracks printed below and you'll see just how to go about it.

The I'M THE GUY contest continues to prove increasingly popular with Pittsburghers, as it enters on its third successful week. If you have sent in wise-cracks and haven't won a cash prize, try again. And if you haven't started as yet, today's a good day to begin.

Send your wise-cracks to I'M THE GUY, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

FIVE DOLLAR PRIZE WINNER

"I'M the GUY who took 'age' from 'carriage' and made a 'car.'" Won by Theodore Boone, Greensboro, Pa.

ONE DOLLAR PRIZE WINNERS

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

BEWARE THE COUGHS THAT FOLLOW FLU!

They May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately.

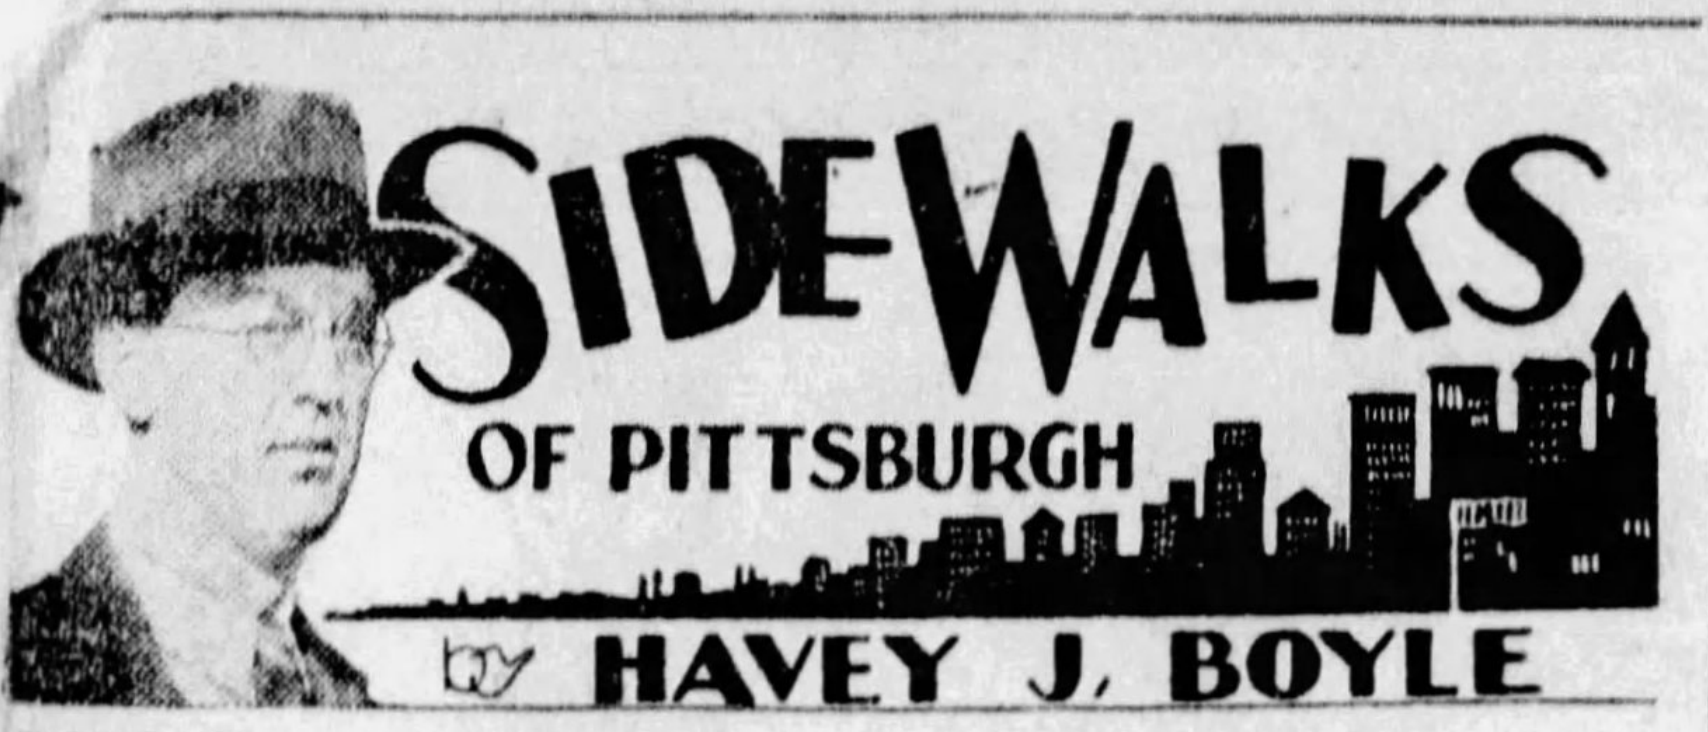
2 Gas Tanks Explode in North Side Shop



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

HORSE sense is on display every noon in the downtown. As the mounted policemen turn their horses' heads in the general direction of the city stables in Tunnel street, the black beauties begin prancing and dancing. It is not without difficulty that the policemen hold in check the horses in the noon hour rush.

The horses of the mounted force are seldom without attention. Old ladies and young women like to stop, pat the horse's nose, and sometimes slip him an apple.

ONE disadvantage of the motor age, by the way, is the infrequent sight of a runaway horse. The old scene of the horse on the loose, with a wagon behind going clickety-clack, with kids chasing the entourage, and then the sight of the policeman or an intrepid private citizen standing out taking a position in the path of the horse, with arms spread out, was always something that stirred the eye-witnesses. The horses nearly always stopped at the sight of a man blocking their path. I used to try to stop them by simply waving from a door-step, but the horses never paid any attention to that.

The note here about Jerry Goff, the singer, brings the word that Mr. Goff, in his local training, was a fellow student with Pete Higgins, another Pittsburgher. Both studied under Lillian Wilson-Smith, a local teacher. William Kegg and Bill Lysaught are other local song birds who remember breathing deeply and going: "Oh, oh, ah, ah," or whatever sounds those singing students make as you pass any of the downtown voice studios, along with Mr. Goff. Pete Higgins is on the big-time. Another local boy making good in a New York production is Brian MacDonald, who used to do the singing and announcing at WJAS.

TWO gentlemen from Bellevue (not from Verona) called recently on two girl friends in Canonsburg on a recent cold Sunday night. The station in Canonsburg was filled with poor fellows seeking shelter from wintry winds. As the two gentlemen stood about, waiting a chance to find out when they could get a train back to Pittsburgh, a squad of Canonsburg gendarmes entered the station and took all hands to the police station, including the two Bellevue Lotharios. It took quite a bit of conversation to convince the police that strange, as it may have seemed to them, young men still call on young ladies on Sunday nights instead of loitering around railroad stations. The police must have treated the boys all right, because one of them called this department and suggested a paragraph. And could his name be used? Well, hardly, you see the girls in question might have to draw the blinds if it became known that among their social callers they include ex-prisoners, alumni of the Canonsburg "can."

SURE- WE WERE WAITING FOR A TRAIN !

A strong believer in annexation to Pittsburgh, this column would suggest, however, that when boroughs are added to the city a committee from the boroughs be appointed to work with a committee from the city in re-naming the streets. Re-naming is always necessary because the boroughs have street names that are duplicated in the city. Annexed borough residents find that several years are necessary to convince taxi companies and delivery wagons that there is such a street by the name fastened on the boroughs by the re-naming committee.

After this reform is accomplished, the column intends devoting several weeks in a crusade to stop mashing young ladies from annoying young gentlemen of the town by trying to flirt with them. The streets, after all, should be made safe for our young men. But one thing at a time. Can't something be done about Wynoka street?

THINK PROWLER CAPTURED

With the arrest of George Armstrong, 22, 6801 Penn avenue, Negro, police say they believe they have the prowler who for several weeks has been terrorizing the Squirrel Hill district. Detectives say he has admitted to six robberies.

Armstrong was held for court today by Magistrate A. D. Brandon on a charge of pointing firearms and attacking Mrs. Loretta Harrison, 25, 6301 Penn avenue. Mrs. Harrison identified Armstrong as the man she found ransacking her apartment early Sunday. As she attempted to leave her bed he struck her and then fled. Armstrong is janitor at the Penn avenue address.

Police say that Armstrong answers the description that has been furnished them of the prowler who has been entering the homes of prominent Squirrel Hill residents. The police intend to have the prowler's victims attempt to identify Armstrong.

CITY SWEPT BY WEEKEND CRIME WAVE

Robbers staged a crime carnival over the week-end and reaped a good harvest from numerous small jobs.

From the home of Morris Moltz, 726 North Euclid avenue, thieves obtained a watch worth $45 and other jewelry valued at $25. The laundry of Wah Sing, 5716 Penn avenue, yielded $50, an $18 suit case and $40 worth of laundry. A bank containing $6 was stolen from the locker of Ida Levine, at the plant of the Auto Fender & Radiator Company, 5380 Center avenue. James Sopoliga, 603 Johnston avenue, Hazelwood, told police two bandits beat him on the head and robbed him of $1,200 in checks, yesterday, as he put his auto away.

HOLDUP NETS $ 90

Sherman Christian, 5018 Liberty avenue was robbed of $190 by four men at Twenty-ninth street and Mulberry way. Peter Nenloss, 65 Spring way, lost $70; James Williams, 1852 Linton street, lost $26 and Michael Cuigasca, 3042 Downing street, lost $4.80 in holdups by Negro footpads in the Hill district.

A Negro purse snatcher robbed Mrs. A. Goldberg, of 5500 Darlington road, of her purse containing $6 in the Hill district. John Fane, of 313 West Seventeenth avenue, Homestead, was robbed of $90 and beaten in Homestead.

GAS STATION ROBBED

Paul Latkowski, of 17 Enon way, was robbed of $14 and a watch at South and Galveston avenues, and Anton Pechar, attendant at his father's gasoline station, 1100 East Ohio street, was robbed of $100, he reported to the police.

Ernest Bananno, 30, of Lima, O., and James Kelly, 25, of Toledo, arrested in connection with the holdup of an East Liverpool (O.) gasoline station, were identified by F. H. Schrader, attendant at the gasoline station, Penn avenue and Barbeau street, as the men who kidnaped him last Wednesday night and stole a sum of money, police say.

Prince Visits Poor Miners During Storm

NEW CASTLE UPON-TYNE, England, Jan. 28.—(AP.) — Snowstorms last night swept across the countryside which the Prince of Wales proposes to visit today to investigate the hunger-stricken mining districts.

The Prince intends to visit homes of miners without warning to see for himself the hardships they are called upon to endure and to determine how the fund raised in London may be best employed for the alleviation of the distress.

Two Trying to Enter House Sent to Jail

Frank Terleski, 27, of South Thirteenth street, was sentenced to the workhouse for 60 days, and John Dunbaker, 22, of Muriel street, was sentenced to jail for 30 days by Magistrate John J. Sweeney, in South Side Police Court yesterday, after it was testified by Emergency Patrolman William Seibert that the men attempted to enter a rooming house at 2500 Carson street by using a skeleton key. Police say Terleski had the key in his possession.

POULTRY SHOW OPENS; 1,500 ENTRIES

When the cock crows at Duquesne Garden it's poultry show time!

The pride of Western Pennsylvania's farm yards, pampered and petted fowls of all description and pigeons that are a treat to the eye are gathered together today in Pittsburgh's fourth annual poultry show, which will continue all week on the ballroom floor of Duquesne Garden.

More than 1,500 entries are listed for this year's show, one of the biggest ever held in Pittsburgh. Much interest among exhibitors centers around the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's trophy, a large silver loving cup offered for the highest number of individual points.

Prominent poultry and pigeon men from all over this end of the state are showing birds. Raymond F. Singer is superintendent of the show, which is being held under the joint auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Pigeon Club and the Mutual Poultry Association.

Throughout the week meetings of various poultry organizations will be held at the show, with prominent speakers scheduled to address the gatherings.

Find Injured Man Near Liberty Tubes

Found lying near the north end of the Liberty tubes, Anthony Koerner, 67, of 1424 West Liberty avenue, was removed to the South Side Hospital and then to his home, where he is confined today suffering from a broken nose. Koerner was unable to say whether he had been hit by an automobile or he had been hurt in a fall. The accident occurred yesterday morning.

SUN-TELEGRAPH BOYS PAID WELL IN CARNEGIE

In pursuance of the inquiry into wages and working conditions of the newsboys who deliver and sell the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, a visit was paid to Carnegie, where the boys get their papers from the Carnegie News Company.

The youngsters were found in the American Legion Hall as the guests of C. A. Foster, Jr., manager of the news company, at a party. They said with emphasis they had no reason whatever to complain of the treatment they received from Mr. Foster, and that they were pleased to be connected with the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

It developed that the boys had been told they needed "protection" and that it could be obtained only by handling another Pittsburgh paper. All of the 37 lads employed by the Carnegie News Company rejected the invitation, and some of the former employes of the company were so stirred by the incident that they returned to take a hand in the distribution of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. It is now the only Pittsburgh evening or Sunday paper that is handled by the news company and the boys.

BOYS WELL CARED FOR

The Carnegie News Company pays its boys fair wages. The boys receive a monthly savings account deposited in a bank in their names. They get wagons in which to deliver papers. Four cash prizes are given the boys selling the most papers each month.

The boys' earnings run from $3 to $10 a week.

William Wilson, 15, of East Main street, a sophomore in the Carnegie High School, makes $7 a week. The Carnegie News Company is proud of William, because he is not only a good newsboy but a good student, always on the honor roll, and a first-class athlete, a member of the high school basketball team.

PROMINENT AT Y

Nicholas Hrycho, 13, of 634 Dow avenue, makes $10 a week delivering papers after school. He joined the Young Men's Christian Association, paying the membership fee out of his earnings, and is now captain of a Y basketball team.

Joseph Mamone, 18, of 293 Lexington court, makes $10 a week. He has been carrying papers four years, and has purchased an automobile with part of his earnings.

Larry Hrycho, 15, of 634 Dow avenue, makes $2.50 a week delivering the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on three streets, and makes $5 in addition on Saturday night selling the Sunday Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on the street.

Michael Astorino, 14, of East Main street, a freshman in the Carnegie High School, makes $7 a week delivering the evening Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on a route, and $2 in addition selling the Sunday Sun-Telegraph on Saturday night.

County Puts New Toboggans in Both Parks

Residents of Allegheny County may now go tobogganing at the county's expense. The bureau of parks announced today it has placed 12 new toboggans in service, six in South Park and six in North Park. The toboggans hold about seven persons each. The South Park toboggans are located near the Wilson school and those in North Park at Rose Grove.

VET HEAD HERE TOMORROW

Col. William L. Grayson, of Savannah, Ga., commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, will arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow morning to attend the reunion banquet tomorrow night in celebration of the birth of William McKinley, Spanish War president.

Two city detectives will meet Col. Grayson and act as a guard of honor during his stay here. During the day he will be taken on a tour of the city, calling on Mayor Charles H. Kline and visiting interesting sights in the city's business and industrial world. The banquet will be held in the Schenley Hotel at 6 o'clock.

2 Plead Not Guilty To Alien Smuggling

Pleas of not guilty were entered in Federal Court today by H. J. Southeran and F. Fischer to an indictment charging them with conspiring to violate the immigration laws by bringing five aliens into the United States from Canada. Accused of bringing five Macedonians across the border, they were arrested at Erie, Pa.

Hurt in Auto Crash, Woman Asks $30,000

Mrs. Joseph Hayer, West View, has filed suit for $30,000 damages against the Pittsburgh Transportation Company for injuries suffered when a taxicab in which she and her husband were passengers collided with an automobile in North Lincoln avenue and East Ohio street last June 30. She says her foot was so badly injured she may be crippled for life.

INSURANCE CHIEFS BANQUET TONIGHT

3 BOY "THRILL BANDITS" GET JAIL TERMS

Three Wilkinsburg youths, who staged holdups for the thrill after getting their inspiration from stories and movies, according to their testimony, were given jail sentences today in Criminal Court by Judge Josiah Cohen.

George Taylor, 1305 Singer place, and Richard Phifer, 1318 Wood street, were sentenced to jail for terms of 16 to 42 months and Frank Osburn, 1519 Foliage street, was given a sentence of 4 to 12 months, all sentences effective November 21, when the youths, all aged about 20, were caught by a Wilkinsburg patrolman in a holdup of a taxicab driver.

An exchange of shots preceded the capture. They pleaded guilty last week, Taylor and Phifer admitting three other holdups, two of taxicab drivers and one of a Wilkinsburg merchant, and Osborn admitting participation in one taxicab holdup.

Judge Cohen told the boys the law forbids a parole.

Traction Expert Will Speak at West View

David L. Starr, a member of the Traction Conference board, will address the West View Board of Trade tonight, on "Mass Transportation—Street Car and Bus." J. G. The Noetic Club of Crafton will meet Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Charles Wright, Steuben avenue. Mrs. E. R. Davidson will present a paper on "Amiens and Amiens Cathedrals" and Mrs. S. Grosvenor will describe the Louvre.

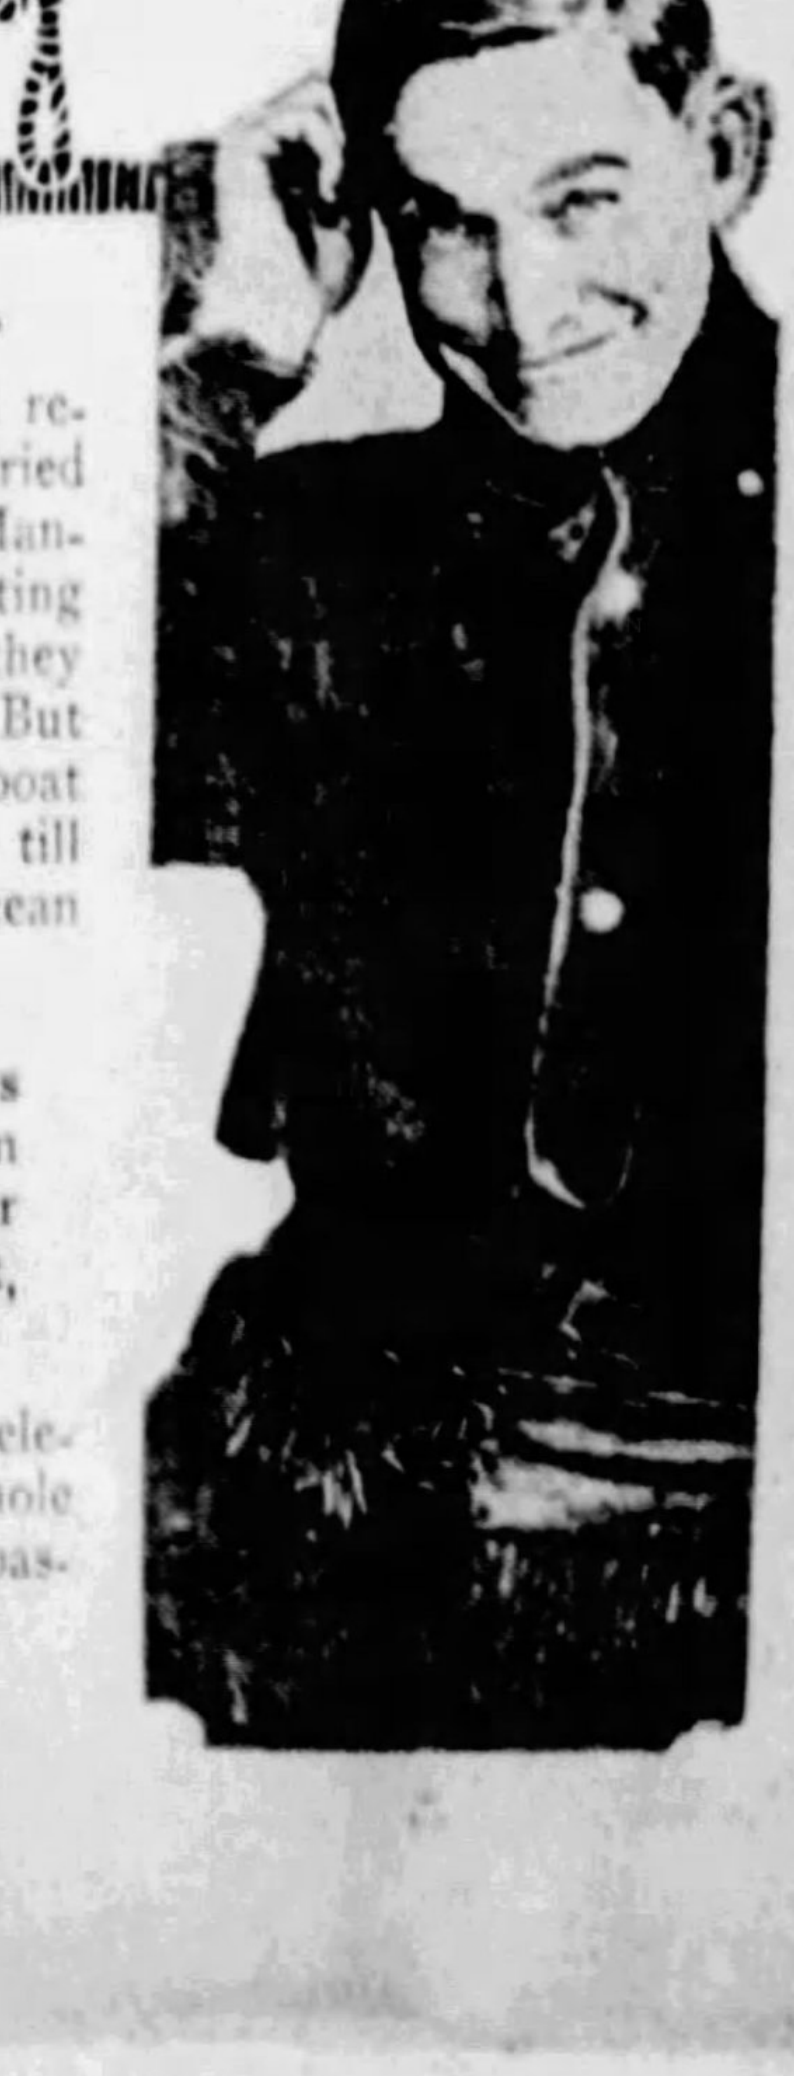
Will Rogers Says



NEW YORK, Jan. 28.

New York gives its annual reception again today to Capt. Fried of the America. First Officer Manning and his men are just starting in on their life-saving careers, they are practically amateurs yet. But this Fried, it's getting so a boat won't make up its mind to sink till they know he is out on the ocean some place.

He takes on more passengers in the middle of the ocean than most ships do at port. If Hoover don't put him on his cabinet, why Mussolini will on his.

An S. O. S. is that bird's telephone number. So viva the whole America crew and the generous passengers on board!

Yours, WILL.

MAN CAUGHT IN BLAST UNHURT

Hurled against a wall by the explosion of two 15-gallon tanks of gasoline, Arthur Glover, of West View, miraculously escaped serious injury this morning.

Glover was in the plant of Stimple & Ward Company, electric contractors, 518-20 Sandusky street, North Side, when the explosion occurred. Twelve other men endangered also escaped.

The gasoline tanks were in the rear of the shop on the first floor. Men at work on the second floor dashed wildly to the street. Window glass clattered to the sidewalk endangering passersby. Fire which followed the blast caused slight damage to the buildings. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

SCHOOL ASKED BY 14TH WARD RESIDENTS

Residents of the Squirrel Hill district have launched a determined drive for the erection of a new school building at Phillips and Wightman streets. It is set forth by those back of the movement that the health and best interests of the community demand that some early action be taken.

It is set forth that the Colfax and Wightman schools are overtaxed and the congestion is such that hardships are forced upon the pupils and that the overcrowded condition is a menace.

Mail Truck and Auto Collide, Girl Injured

Miss Rena Disher, 21, of 2913 Winshire avenue, was injured slightly late Saturday night when an automobile in which she was a passenger, driven by John H. Richardson, 25, of 1502 Alabama avenue, Dormont, collided with a United States mail truck driven by H. J. Levie, 504 Chalfont street, on the Smithfield Street Bridge. After receiving treatment by a nearby physician, Miss Disher was able to go to her home. Richardson will have a hearing in Traffic Court on a charge of reckless driving.

Taken in Parked Car, Sent to Workhouse

John Ormsby, 2409 Brownsville road, was sentenced to the workhouse for 30 days by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday after Patrolman J. Delaney testified that he attempted to start an automobile parked at 434 Brownsville road and owned by R. T. Porter, 398 Rustic avenue. Ormsby damaged the side curtains of the automobile when he entered the car, police say.

Patrolman Uninjured As Motorcycle Skids

Motorcycle Patrolman Henry J. Kohout escaped serious injury when his motorcycle skidded on the ice on a steep grade of Duffland street, Carrick, yesterday, according to his report to the Carrick Police Station. Officer Kohout jumped from the machine when it hit an abutment at the end of the street.

The front wheel of the side car and the front headlight were damaged.

They include Capt. Fried and other heroes of the liner "America;" President Coolidge and Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Lord; Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine, Senator McNary and Representative Haugen; C. G. Jordan, Secretary of Agriculture of Pennsylvania; Lita Grey Chaplin, former wife of Charlie Chaplin; Charles W. Hamp, entertainer, in a special program for Sun-Telegraph readers; Adelaide de Loca, contralto, with Roxy's Gang; Giuseppe di Benedetto, operatic tenor; Franklyn Baur, tenor; Adrian Schubert, guest conductor with the Family Party; Lewis James, tenor; John Charles Thomas, baritone, and Henry Burbig, comedian.

It is an unusual combination of circumstances that brings these celebrities together in one day's broadcast.

The reception to Capt. Fried and his crew by the City of New York was a last minute arrangement taken on for the radio by the WEAF network late Saturday night and scheduled for a Pittsburgh broadcast late yesterday by Mrs. Frances Doherr, manager of WCAE.

The agricultural talk to be given by Secretary Jardine over KDKA at 1:45 today and that of Secretary Jordan at 5:40 o'clock also came as last minute arrangements. Mr. Jordan will open a series of Farm Chats. His subject will be "Advantage of the Radio to the Farmer."

COOLIDGE ON AIR

President Coolidge and Gen. Lord will be heard through KDKA and WCAE from 6:30 o'clock to 8 o'clock. The occasion is the broadcast of the semi-annual business meeting of the government in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington. Music by the United States Army Band will open the program, followed at 6:45 by Mr. Coolidge, then Mr. Lord.

Lita Grey Chaplin, former wife of Charlie Chaplin, will sing over WCAE at 11 o'clock during the Davis Radio Jubilee. Other actors will entertain.

Charles W. Hamp, who has taken the radio audience by storm with his humor and songs in "Thirty Minutes of Sunshine" over KDKA, will present a special program for Sun-Telegraph readers tonight at 6:01 o'clock. As a special number he will play "Cannonball Rag," the selection he chose for his first broadcast over WJZ in 1925. Mr. Hamp will close his engagement at KDKA this week. His radio run in Pittsburgh has been the most popular ever enjoyed by any individual artist.

Adrian Schubert, conductor for Victor Herbert in many of Herbert's original productions, will be the guest conductor of the General Motors Family Party tonight at 9:30 o'clock, WCAE. Lewis James, tenor, will be the guest soloist.

Adelaide de Loca, contralto, will be heard with Roxy's Gang and Giuseppe di Benedetto, tenor, will sing three solos with the Neapolitan Nights, both KDKA features.

FAMOUS BARITONE

John Charles Thomas, famous baritone of the Brussels Opera Company, will be the star on the Vitaphone Jubilee Hour from WJAS at 9:30 o'clock.

Franklyn Baur, tenor, will sing "The Blue Room" in the Voice of Firestone broadcast over WCAE at 8 o'clock. Another big feature of this program will be Fritz Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois," played by the 35-piece orchestra under the direction of Hugo Mariani. Vaughn de Leath will sing.

Another feature of WJAS broadcasts tonight will be Henry Burbig, comedian, in a burlesque recitation of "Casey at the Bat."

Three unusual features are scheduled for presentation in the A. & P. Gypsies' program at 8:30 o'clock, WCAE. The first is a special transcription by Gypsy King Harry Horlick of an original gypsy song, "Farewell, My Countrymen." The second is a special salon arrangement of Medrinoff's "The Hills of Gruzia" and the third is a special arrangement for strings of Chopin's Etude No. 3.

There are plenty of other features, including "La Traviata" from the WEAF network at 11 o'clock with Genia Zielinska, Julian Oliver and Steele Jamison in the leading roles. Stations in this hookup will be WEAF, WRC, WWJ, KSD, WHAS, WKY, WJAX, WGR, WRVA.

SLUMBER MUSIC

The colorful musical description of "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen," by Grieg, and Herbert's brilliant arrangement of Cadman's "At Dawning" are two of the outstanding numbers on the list for the hour of Slumber Music to be heard from WJZ, WLW at 11 p. m. The program looks particularly bright with the Overture to "Beautiful Galathea" and a selection from Herbert's "Singing Girl" as other numbers.

"The Swan," by Saint-Saens, will be played at WLW at 6:30 p. m. and at 12:30 a. m. this station offers "W," "L" and "W" in "You're the Cream in My Coffee," "I Love You Now as I Loved You Then" and "Valse Erica."

ENLARGE POSTOFFICE.

The time has come when the postal facilities in Thompkins Corners must be enlarged and extended. The tremendous demand for pictures of local color, and the enormous mailing list for the Enterprise have just about swamped Postmaster Thompkins. However, he reports that he is content, for he has at last "got the ear of Washington."

All kinds of improvements and innovations in mail service are being devised by the local citizens. The new postoffice facilities are said to include 101 lock-boxes, a wicker chair where love letters can be read comfortably, and a unique air mail service. Other details are being saved for the broadcast.

"EMPIRE BUILDERS."

The third series of dramatic episodes in the life of James J. Hill, pioneer of the great Northwest, will be heard. The aggressive courage of Mr. Hill is portrayed by a courtroom scene in which the hero personally outlines his progressive policies for developing the Northwest. The scene is laid in a courtroom in St. Paul where railroad litigation is under way and solemn attorneys consider Mr. Hill's interjections distinctly "out of order" in view of the cautious conservatism of most railroad cases.

11:00 P. M.—Davis radio jubilee.

LITA GRAY CHAPLIN.

Lita Gray Chaplin, who is now in vaudeville, in a singing and dancing act, will talk, and sing several selections. Mrs. Chaplin is acclaimed one of the best dressed women in the U. S. JOHN CHARLES THOMAS

John Charles Thomas, famous baritone, will be the star. He was born in Pennsylvania, his father being a Methodist preacher and his mother a singer. Thomas, therefore, received his musical training early, for he and his parents formed a trio who participated in camp meetings. Thomas' first success was in "Everywoman," where he took the part of "Passion," and this was followed by successes in "Naughty Marietta," "Maytime" and "Apple Blossoms." More serious musical fields, however, claimed his attention, and for the past four years he has divided his time between concert and grand opera.

Listeners Find Moving of WCAE Big Success

Listeners from many parts seemed satisfied yesterday that the change in location of the WCAE aerial and control room had been of great benefit. More calls were received from Wheeling and Uniontown, where the station was heard in the daytime, and for the first time in three months the station broke through the barrier which prevented its progress being heard in Steubenville, Youngstown and other border cities in Ohio. A radio engineer said the station had picked up at least 30 per cent more energy by removing its aerial from downtown to the South Side.

Albert Roessler, Jr., and his sister Lynwood, of 421 E. Ormsby Ave., Louisville, Ky. had bad coughs at the same time. They couldn't sleep nights until mother decided to try REM. Read her story:

"Relief was very quick"
--says the mother of Albert

"I think every mother should keep REM on hand," says Mrs. Albert Roessler, "it certainly relieves coughs quickly. My daughter Lynwood had an awful bad cough not long ago. She couldn't stop coughing, couldn't sleep, missed four days at school. I gave her different things, but she continued to cough. Albert Jr. had a cough at the same time, so we didn't get much rest. I saw a REM ad so I got some at Lichtefeld's at Preston & Ormsby Ave. After just a few doses they stopped coughing and started getting their sleep and rest at night."

Restless nights don't do coughs any good. Many a person has REM to thank for a good night's sleep.

NOTHING LIKE REM

WILKINS PARTY PACKING UP FORHOME

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Jan. 27.—(Via whaler Hektoria and KUP-San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station.) — Mild weather continues. The snow is now disappearing from these islands more rapidly than has ever been known before and leaves many areas of dark volcanic soil uncovered.

These black exposures, amid the mountains of snow, topped with grey cloud and mist, give the Antarctic the appearance of wearing mourning clouds — mourning perhaps the loss of secrets ravaged from her bosom by the airplane, the modern tool of man.

We shall soon leave these scenes behind. On Monday or Tuesday, traveling on the Felrus, a boat of the trewler type, we start for home, calling at the Falklands to board the Royal Mail packet Orduna.

Our route will be through the Magellan Straits and up the coast of South America. We should reach New York about the middle of March.

Our equipment is safely stored from wind and storm. Upon our return, a few days work will put it in readiness for continuing our program, which we hope to conclude next December.

Eielson, Crossan and Porter are disappointed at being unable to make the Ross Seas flight this season and pledge themselves to return with me and complete the job they have done faithfully, courageously and well this year.

Victor Olsen, our wireless operator, recruited at Montevideo, has given most efficient and willing service, working late at night and getting up at 4:30 'o'clock every morning to copy for us, gratefully, the news broadcast from the San Francisco Examiner's wireless station KUP.

WHO'S GUILTY ????

CAN YOU SOLVE THIS DETECTIVE STORY ?

CASH AWARDS FOR CORRECT SOLUTIONS

Here's the BIG IDEA! Each day the Sun-Telegraph will print a mystery story. Each story has a plausible and more or less exact solution which may be worked out from the situations and clues in the story. The authors have written a correct solution to each mystery. Readers of the Sun-Telegraph who pride themselves on their analytical sense or detective ability should figure out their own solutions and match them with the correct solutions which will be printed on the day following the publication of each baffling mystery.

On SATURDAY in the Saturday editions of the Sun-Telegraph there will be printed an original story by the same authors, the solution of which is in a sealed envelope. The person or persons who solve or come closest to correctly solving the Saturday, or PRIZE STORY, will receive cash prizes as follows:

FIRST PRIZE. .$10

Three Prizes of $5 EACH for the next three.

Contestants for the PRIZE STORY AWARD will have from Saturday morning, the first publication of the PRIZE story, until the following THURSDAY night at 6 o'clock, to send in their solutions. Letters postmarked after that time cannot be accepted, as judges must be able to render their decision on the prize winners in time to make the following Saturday's editions, when the correct solution of the first PRIZE story is printed with a second PRIZE story for you folks to tackle. In giving your solutions you must write several lines telling why you reached your conclusions and justifying your deductions The decision of the judges is final and without appeal. Put on your disguise and tin badge and see what happened in the first mystery printed today. Prizes will be paid only on the Saturday Prize stories.

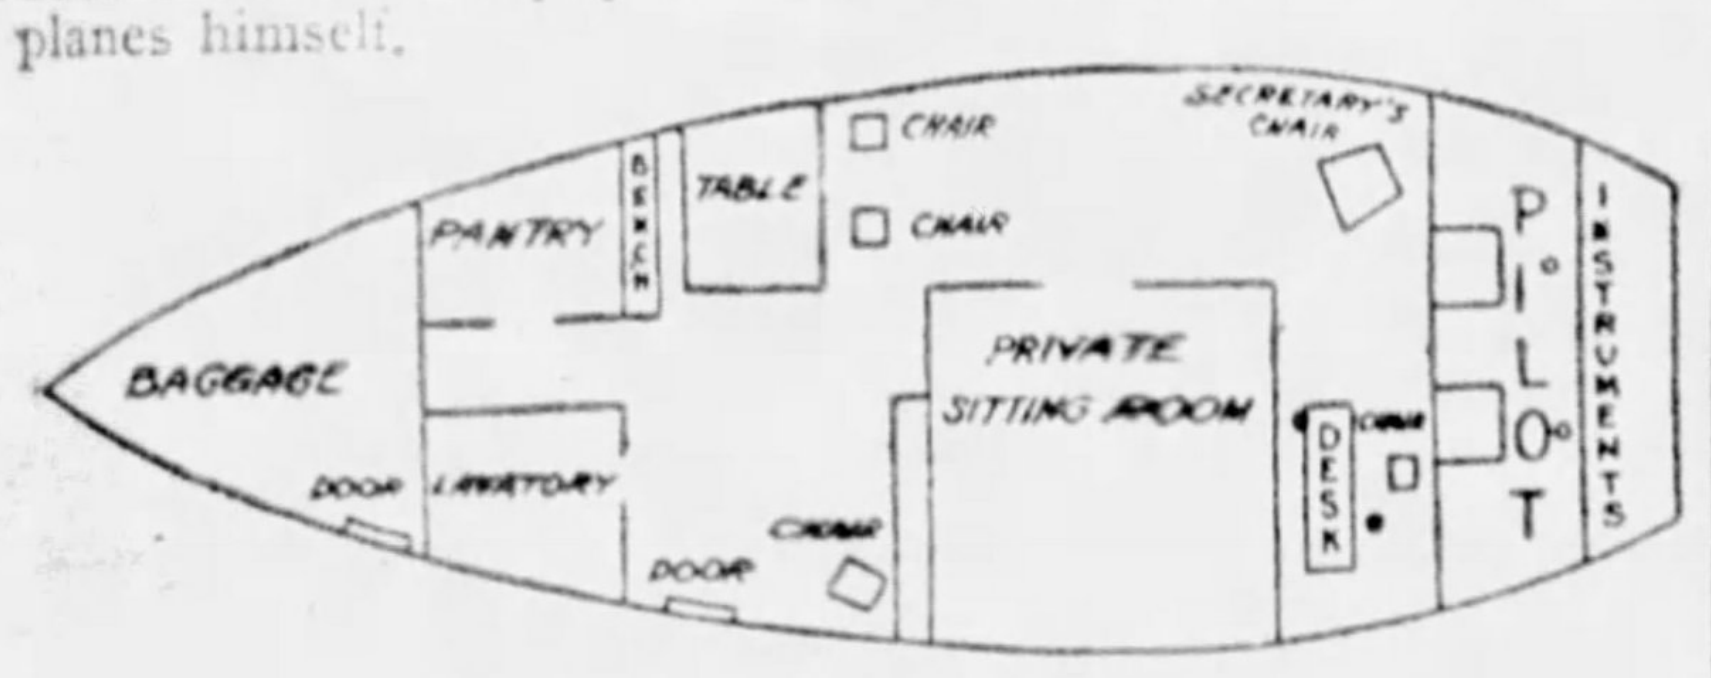
The Vanishing Napoleon

By Evelyn Johnson and Gretta Palmer

EMIL BORCO is one of the most fascinating figures that modern finance and big business have produced. His origin is very obscure. Some people will assure you that he was the son of a laundress in Ajaccio, others will assert that his father was a French traveling salesman and his mother the daughter of a second-rate brigand. At any rate his early history is in some way connected with Corsica, and it has provided some very nice lines for the Graphic, in view of the late Mr. Bonaparte's derivation.

Our financial Napoleon started working for a banker in Marseilles, and somehow scraped together enough francs to start playing with the exchange. By devious and picturesque methods, he built up a fantastic fortune and a fabulous reputation on the Stock Exchange and in the daily papers. For Emil Borco was a man given to large gestures and sweeping tactics. He seemed incapable of dealing in reasonable figures. His transactions were in millions, he had 11 homes, 120 pairs of shoes and three wives. None of the three wives were current, however, at the time of his most mysterious and devastating appearance in the headlines. The last had just been dispensed with and was disposing of her huge settlement as her tastes and talents directed. Emil Borco had very few ties. He traveled with retinues of people, but no human being had a real part in his life. The processions of secretaries and valets and doctors and beautiful ladies were lay figures.

Emil Borco had always had a passion for mechanical things. He did not like to read, he did not like formal society, he scorned the housebroken nouveau-hiche collecter. He had one mania: He spent long patient hours and huge sums on motorboats and automobiles and radios and wireless freaks and airplanes. Especially planes. On his French estate he had a Fokker, two small cruisers, a Dornier flying boat and a marvelous, specially built Lockheed Vega. He had had it constructed along the same general lines as the stock cabin plane, but it was much larger, had a lavatory and pantry, and the most superb interior, especially designed by Ruhlman, with huge observation windows, built-in bookcases, and a fascinating dining alcove. He had an immense working hangar built, and became amazingly proficient himself as a pilot and mechanic. He was fond of making changes in the construction and equipment of his fleet, often working on the planes himself.



Floor Plan of Borco's Plane.

LATELY there were rumors that the huge fortune had dwindled. He had not done anything sensational in the market for months. It was pretty well-known in financial circles that he had been refused the loan he had sought in America. The last Mrs. Borco had been making a great deal of trouble over the finality of her divorce decree, and the courts were upholding her. This fact was coupled with the rumor that one of the seemingly innumerable female relatives of the late Tsar of the Russias had been seen frequently in his company. One of the private secretaries had been indiscreet enough to whisper that Emil was very anxious to make his Slavic charmer the fourth Mrs. Borco.

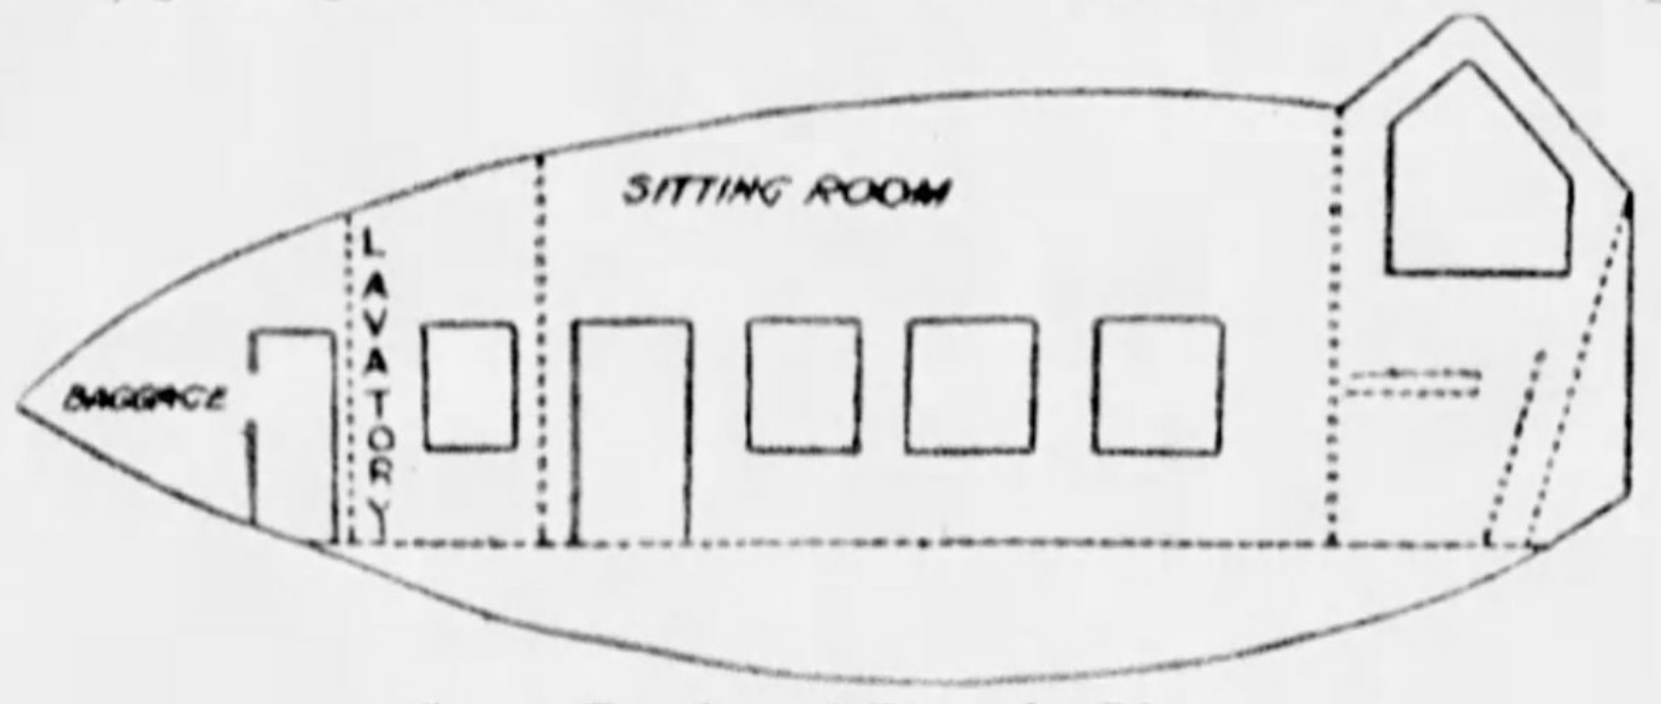
Suddenly the headlines broke loose. Emil Borco had disappeared from his cherished Lockheed Vega while he was crossing from his French estate to his Scottish shooting box.

Several great nations seemed a little uncertain as to who was the logical investigator. Finally the Surete got to work.

First they interviewed the other persons in the plane at the time. These were a pilot, a secretary, a stenographer and a steward. The pilot knew nothing further than the fact that the plane had been turned over to him at 9 the morning of the eleventh by the second mechanic of the French hangar. He had looked over his engine and equipment. Mr. Borco had appeared at 5 minutes to 11, and they had taken off at a few minutes after. He had noticed nothing unusual on the way. About a quarter of the way over, the secretary had told him that Mr. Borco had disappeared, and they turned back to France. He had suggested communicating by radio with some of the shipping down in the Channel, but the secretary, who had taken charge, deemed it unwise.

THE stenographer could only say that she had driven to the field with the secretary at a quarter to 11 and gotten into the plane. At a few minutes to 11 her employer had come aboard, he had dictated three letters to her and then sat down in the rear of the cabin to read a paper. She could not be sure, but she thought she heard the door of the lavatory close a little later. The next thing she knew, the secretary asked what had become of Mr. Borco and then went into the lavatory, looked around the corner into the little steward's pantry, and came running back saying, "My God, Borco must be overboard." He could only have been in the lavatory a minute, and she was almost certain he had merely gone in and come out. The steward testified that he had been in his pantry up to the time of the disappearance except that he had brought Borco a glass of water about 20 minutes after they started. Everyone placed the discovery that the financier was missing at about a quarter past 12. They were then directly over the English Channel, not quite half way from the French to the English coast. It was very windy, and they were flying just above banks of heavy clouds. The pilot did, however, remember hearing noises in the lavatory shortly after.

THE secretary said he had missed Borco, looked in the pantry and lavatory and then turned the ship back. There had been nothing unusual in the great man's actions the day before. He had been very depressed for some time, except when he was working or when his interest was aroused by some new mechanical wonder. All the comic-opera staff of the house and garage and hangar gave their testimony without any seemingly significant fact coming to light. The French detectives pieced together the story of his last day and evening. He always rose extremely early. Around 5 or 5:30 as a rule. The day before his disappearance he had, as usual, driven for almost two hours in his Mercedes. He did this in lieu of exercise, which he detested. He was a small, thin, wiry man in spite of his total lack of physical exertion, and he claimed that he did his thinking on these rides, which were conducted at the highest rate of speed that the chauffeur could coax out of the great motor. He had breakfasted, worked in his office until lunch, and entertained several prominent French officials for that meal. Apparently they had not come up to his expectations, as he had left his guests before the coffee was served. He had wanted some sort of private road franchise from his estate to the neighboring city, and his political guests had been unable to oblige, so he had felt able to dispense with their society, according to one of the ballet of secretaries. No one of them knew all his business; it was a case of piecing together each little parcel of knowledge about the actions of the Corsican. As he was incessantly traveling, and constantly changing the personnel of his retinue, this was extremely difficult. He had spent the afternoon in the hangar tinkering with the little cruiser, according to the assistant mechanic and the boy who took care of the workshop. Borco and the chief mechanic had been working together, he was certain, because he had brought them wine and sandwiches around 4. Mr. Borco had called him at a quarter to 5 and told him to be sure not to touch the pieces of the cruiser which were lying around the floor, as it would have to wait to be reassembled until after he got back from Scotland. Then Borco had gone back to the house, as he had a call from New York coming in at 5. He took his call and then motored in to Paris and spent the evening with his Russian, getting back to the estate about 1. The next morning he had omitted his usual early morning ride, and spent the entire time until he left in the plane getting his business out of the way.



Cross-Section of Borco's Plane.

ONE thing was unfortunate—the chief plane mechanic had left on his vacation the night before. One of the secretaries had arranged for it several weeks before; but he did not know where he had gone. No one seemed to know much about the mechanic. He was a small, slender man. A quiet surly Breton, with no friends among the rest of the crew. The estate was only a few kilometers from a huge manufacturing town, so it was impossible to trace him after he had presumably walked into the station. The last person who remembered seeing him was the boy who worked around the hangar. He had last been seen by his assistant in the morning, working on the plumbing in the lavatory of the Lockheed-Vega with the floor all torn up.

So, dropping that line of investigation, the French police began experimenting on the plane. The papers had been playing with the idea that Borco had mistaken the outside door of the plane for the door to the lavatory and stepped off into space. The police reconstructed the conditions which had existed, and found it virtually impossible for even an enormously strong man to open the door by hurling himself against it; for some one as small and frail as Borco, it seemed incredible. Of course there had been all sorts of rumors about collusion with the other occupants of the plane. The papers cited the fact, which had somehow seeped out to the press, that Borco had withdrawn a million dollars in cash a few days before the disappearance. Half for bribes and half to escape on, said the writers of special articles. There were rumors of stupendous bull operations on the stocks that Borco was known to hold. As a matter of fact, someone had benefited enormously by the tragedy. For several months past someone had been selling short huge quantities of these same stocks. Accounts had been opened by mail in a dozen different London brokerage firms. These accounts were transacted through addresses in six or eight different European cities. The identity of the manipulator was undiscoverable. The accounts were all summarily closed after the operator had taken the profits on the immediate flop after the announcement of Borco's disappearance. Then the police discovered another sensational fact. The secretary who had accompanied Borco on the fatal flight had actually deposited almost $100,000 in a bank in Lyons the day before the flight. His explanation was peculiar. He was fearfully rattled and almost a nervous wreck when questioned by the Surete. He insisted that Borco himself had merely given him the money and asked him to deposit it in his own name until a certain date, as he wished to keep it in reserve for a certain purpose. The secretary was used to his employer's quixotic and secretive methods, and although he had been surprised and mystified, he had obeyed. This seemed very thin to the police. The papers immediately took up the tale. In England the consensus of opinion seemed to be that this was the famous bribe come to light, the more lurid American journals proclaimed that the secretary had shoved Borco through a window. The lavatory window was large enough. This $100,000 was only a part of the million Borco had on his person. The rest was hidden in banks scattered all over Europe.

SPECULATION ran rife for several weeks, without any new facts coming to light. Then there was a sensation. Borco's body had been found in the channel, terribly smashed—the face crushed, the ribs and legs broken—horribly swollen from the water, but wearing Borco's watch, and several other marks of identification. It was impossible to identify the body by the teeth, as Borco had had no dental work done for years, and his previous dentist could not be located. The stories of the stenographer, the secretary, and the steward were so confirmatory on the main points that very little headway could be made in that direction. The police were never able to produce the least proof that the secretary had had any hand in the affair, the others seemed almost out of the question, and the missing chief mechanic never turned up, even if he could have thrown any light on the problem. Some of the papers thought his disappearance pointed even more to collusion. He was in the plot and was ducking out of the way of investigation. Borco's Russian inamorata had apparently gone back to Russia. As far as the French police could learn, she had crossed the frontier about a week after the famous flight, but they were never able to trace her across the border.

"NANCY DEANE" by ROY L. FOLEY

CHAPTER XIX.

WHEN Howard Wessott came toward her, Nancy sensed that he was going to do just what he did. She steeled herself against it. She braced herself, her hands gripping the desk before her, and when he pulled her up toward him her hands flew out. Unconsciously she pressed the buzzer which connected his desk and the desk of Harriet Crosby in the room adjoining.

The result was that when Harriet opened the door connecting the two rooms she came right in upon the two of them. Nancy, as helpless as a kitten in the arms of a lion, was powerless against his embraces. He was facing the door through which Harriet came so noiselessly, and he was the first to see her.

Nancy saw him looking over her shoulder, an utter change of expression on his face. It was as though a mask had been put over it. She could feel his arms relax. He let her go.

"Miss Crosby! Haven't I told you never to come into my office without knocking?" he asked. He walked over to his secretary. His fingers were clenched and his face almost livid. Nancy thought for a moment he was going to strike the terrified Harriet, he was in such a rage.

"Mr. Wescott, the buzzer sounded. I thought you wanted me."

Her notebook and pencil confirmed what she said, and immediately it dawned on Wescott just what had happened. "It was a mistake. I'm sorry."

Nancy, too, realized just what had happened. She knew that it wasn't her fault, but she knew, too, that a girl need not always be at fault to lose her job, or her reputation, for that matter.

What Wescott was going to do now was an enigma to her. She was interested to observe how he would meet the situation. Had she known him better she would not have been puzzled for he was a diplomat if ever there was one. And so he ignored the fact that his secretary had caught him in the act of making love to the little yellow headed girl he had 'picked up' out of the factory only a few days before.

When Harriet closed the door, apologetic, confused, he turned to Nancy as though he had merely bidden a business acquaintance good day. He had the manners, the poise, of a Chesterfield. That, Nancy knew, came from breeding. They were the kind of manners that didn't scream that he was being "polite" as was so evident with some men Nancy knew.

"It looks as though we made a mistake," he said, laughing. He walked over to Nancy and again attempted to take hold of her arms, as though he intended to finish this business of making love after an unpleasant interruption.

During her many experiences of the past few days, this one took Nancy's breath away, and when Wescott came back to her, she stood petrified. She was so ashamed before Harriet Crosby. She knew just what that girl was thinking, back there at her desk in the other room. She knew that before nightfall Harriet would tell the girls in the outer offices and that this delicious morsel of gossip would spread through the plant.

"I'm sorry. Awfully sorry this had to happen," he said. "We'll have to be a little more discreet hereafter."

"Hereafter!"

Nancy found her tongue at last. "Mr. Wescott, what do you mean, hereafter? You speak as though I had ever consented to this, as though you thought there were going to be any more of it."

She jerked herself away from him and started for the door. She had almost reached it when he grasped her arm and held her fast.

"Ouch, you're hurting me," she pleaded.

"That's what I want to do. I want to hurt you. I want to hold you so tight that you'll beg me to stop, and I want you to like me a little more. You're so sweet. I, well, you're a new kind of girl to me. You interest me. I never knew anyone anywhere quite so, so— What shall I say?"

While he was groping for words to express what kind of a girl he thought she was, he relaxed his grip a little and Nancy freed herself. She started rubbing her arm.

"Mr. Wescott, why do you do this?" she asked. "Why do you insist upon making love to me when all I ask is a place to work? Can't you see I don't want to be cheap to let a man make love to me when I've known him only three or four days. What will people say? What do you suppose Miss Crosby is thinking? Don't you realize she'll tell other girls in the offices and the other girls will tell still others. Why, before night the factory will be alive with it. It won't sound well either after what happened in the roadhouse."

"I'll fire Miss Crosby if I have the slightest suspicion she tells tales out of this office," he answered.

"Mr. Wescott, that may sound well, but it just doesn't do any good. You're the boss around here, the most important man in the factory, outside of your father, and they tell me that he's hardly ever here. You can do what you please, fire whom you please, close the mouths of those you please. That's YOUR position.

"But what is mine? I'm a girl with yellow hair that everyone has been calling beautiful and glorious and all that. Since I've come to Pittsburgh everyone tries to tell me I'm this kind of a girl and that kind of a girl and that I've got 'it,' and all sorts of other things. I've been coached in what I should do and what I shouldn't say until I want to scream. This afternoon I asked a favor of you and you replied by making love to me.

"Why, if my mother had the faintest idea of the things I've gone through in the last few days she'd just about lose her mind, she—"

"Your mother? I thought your mother was dead," Wescott said.

"I mean the only mother I ever knew, Mrs. O'Day. She's a dear old-fashioned lady who has given me a thousand warnings against men, and now sometimes I think she's right."

"Girl, you're magnificent. You're an actress. I wish Belasco could see this."

"Mr. Wescott, please, don't be silly—."

"I mean it. I've never seen more animation in a woman in all my life and I've met quite a few. I've met women who would have reacted in many ways, some would have screamed. Perhaps some would have submitted, some would have slapped my face. You're the first girl I've ever kissed who stood with her back against the wall to give a logical, reasonable explanation of why she shouldn't be kissed.

"You're adorable. You can have as many afternoons off to go to that damned style show as you want. You can have my car to drive up there. I'll drive you myself. But I'd much sooner have you give up that model idea. You're not the model kind. You're different."

"Don't tell me what I am anymore. All that I want is a chance without being made love to by every man I meet."

"What do you mean, every man you meet. Who else has been making love to you?"

"Oh, no one," she stammered. "I was just making it plural for emphasis. You know what I mean. I mean you, mostly."

There was a smile on her face now. She reached for the doorknob and before Howard Wescott could get to her, she was gone.

Harriet Crosby didn't look up from the letter she was typing when Nancy came through the door. Her face was just about as stony as a human face could be. Nancy was on the verge of saying something to her, of trying to justify herself but the words would not come.

"I've nothing to be ashamed of" she thought, and she remembered the advice of Mrs. O'Day, often given, that if anyone were true to himself and his own conscience, he needn't care what anyone thought. Mrs. O'Day said this not knowing that William Shakespeare had said it first:—"To thine own self be true . . . thou can'st not then be false to any man."

But how hard it was to practice that, now that Nancy had occasion to apply it. She walked over to her unfinished work—filing just never would get done with these love-making interruptions. The thought of it brought a little smile despite herself. Her sense of humor had often saved her in tight places before.

She glanced at her wrist watch a hundred times that afternoon, and finally, in desperation, unstrapped it and put it in a drawer. When she did this Harriet Crosby raised her eyes and Nancy thought there was almost a look of suspicion in them.

"This watch annoys me," Nancy said, more to break the uncomfortable silence than because she wanted to start a conversation.

"Yes?" said Harriet, with a suggestion of a sneer in her tone.

Just as she had thought, with the watch out of her sight, and her determination to keep her mind on her work, the afternoon did fly. When 5 o'clock came all the filing was done, with the exception of a few letters.

She decided she might as well stay until she was through, so she continued working on, although Harriet closed her desk with a bang, just on the stroke of 5, put away her typewriter and started powdering her rather large nose. She even dabbed some rouge on her cheeks.

It was the first time Nancy had seen her use makeup and the sight came as a great relief. Harriet completed the operations, surveyed herself with an exaggerated care in the mirror, Nancy thought, then turned to say:

"I've decided I might as well do the vamp stuff, too, if I'm ever going to get anywhere in the world."

The words came out with such decision, so clipped, that Nancy was startled. Some of the papers in her hand fluttered to the floor.

"Yes, sir, I notice that it's the fluffy ruffles and the demure little helpless ones that get all the love made to them. I'm sick and tired of being considered nothing more than a typewriter or an adding machine. From now on I'm going to try some of the 'pet me, please, I'm a poor little kitten' stuff myself."

Harriet was having her outlet. All the things that had been piling up in her starved heart since she had opened the door so suddenly and seen Howard Crosby's lips on Nancy's were coming out now. She could contain herself no longer.

"You! You helpless little gold digger. You haven't been in this office more than two days and here you've got Howard Wescott's head turned. With your soft little ways and your bleached hair you've got him making love to you. You—"

"My head isn't bleached and I don't know what you are talking about," Nancy said, her own anger coming to the surface.

"What you saw here today was no fault of mine. I'm not a vamp. If you only knew the truth."

In their excitement both girls forgot about the man in the inner office. A click at the heavy mahogany door that separated the offices cut Nancy's words short.

The door opened and Wescott, coat on, a gray tweed cap in his hand, came into the room where the two girls had been blazing words at each other.

Harriet gave him one glance, picked up her purse and open compact and dashed from the room without saying good-night.

"My goodness, but she's in a hurry tonight," Wescott said, "what was that she picked up? It certainly looked like one of those things to carry rouge."

"It was," said Nancy, "she says she's going to turn into a vamp and that she'll get farther that way."

"Well, more power to her," laughed Wescott, "those pale cheeks of hers have been getting on my nerves."

Then he dismissed all thought of Harriet Crosby and said:

"My, what's all this ambition? You seem to be working overtime. Time to close up shop, isn't it? Put up those letters and I'll drive you home."

"Mr. Wescott, I'd rather walk. I like the fresh air."

"You can get all the air you need in my roadster."

His manner was so compelling, he was so handsome standing there, cap in hand, boyish almost, that Nancy couldn't resist. In another five minutes she was in his roadster and he was tucking the soft, woolly robes about her feet.

He stopped in front of The Carmondy. He surveyed the grimy old brick house, once the home of a well known family before the commerce of the city crept close, turning it into a rooming house, a replica of hundreds of others in the neighborhood.

"Why do you live here?" he asked. "Let me help find you a nice little place in another part of town?"

WRIGHT DEAL HURTS VET SHORTSTOP

Dave Bancroft

BASEBALL trades sometimes have side effects that escape general notice. Take, for instance, the deal in which the Pittsburgh club sent Shortstop Glenn Wright to Brooklyn in exchange for Pitcher Jess Petty and Infielder Harry Riconda. It develops that that dicker is going to cost Dave Bancroft, veteran shortfielder of the Robins, the tidy sum of $7,000 in salary for the season of 1929.

When Bancroft was purchased from the Braves a year ago, the Dodger management not only gave him a fat bonus, but took over his Boston contract, calling for a salary of $19,000, though relieving him of the managerial duties provided for in the Hub pact. Since the acquisition of Wright, however, Bancroft appears destined to decorate the bench this year, and the Brooklyn bosses cannot see how, in such a mere utility role, he can possibly be worth anything like $19,000. Accordingly, the directors of the club have voted to slash Dave's salary to the extent of $7,000.

THE result that the contract sent to Bancroft for 1929 calls for only $12,000 instead of $19,000, the figure that he drew down last season. Just what his reaction will be remains to be seen. No word has been received from him since the contract was mailed to him at Superior, Wis.

It is a question whether he will refuse to accept the cut or decide to make the best of the situation and take what is offered. No one is likely to deny the contention of the Brooklyn club that a mere substitute infielder cannot possibly be worth so much as $19,000 per year to any modern ball team.

BUT at the same time it is the opinion of many fans that in the case of a veteran with such a long service record as Bancroft the fair thing for the Dodger management to do under the circumstances would be to give Dave his unconditional release and present him with an opportunity to make a deal for himself.

At that, however, it is doubtful if Bancroft could command more than $12,000 elsewhere at this late stage of his career. His fielding was good enough last year, but he hit only .247.

Andy Kerr

WHEN the Celtic-Rosenblum basketball team played in Washington, Pa., last week, two of the most interested spectators were Andy Kerr and Bill Amos, W. & J. football coaches. They were greatly impressed by the smooth work of the professionals and were open in their admiration of some particular bits of the Rosies' clever playing. After the game, Kerr and Amos met and talked with the Cleveland players, especially Kerr, Barry Lopchick and Dehnert, and found the pros willing to give them all the information desired about their division of the floor sport.

IN FACT, the presence of college and school athletic coaches was noticeable all through the tour of this district made by the Rosies, a tour that ended in Butler Saturday night with a 35-to-18 win over the Butler Arco team, the pros' seventh straight victory.

In most cases, those coaches made it their business to talk things over with the Cleveland stars and to pick up all the information possible that might be used to advantage toward helping their own teams or systems of play. The Rosies were greeted everywhere by large and appreciative crowds and made a good impression generally by their clean play.

WHILE the third ring meeting of Benny Bass and Red Chapman in Philadelphia tonight, upon which Bass' chance of getting a featherweight championship match depends largely, will be the topline number on this evening's fistic card, a bout in New York will also come in for considerable attention. This number will mark the resumption of Sid Terris' campaign to re-establish himself as a lightweight title contender. He is to meet Babe Herman for 10 rounds.

The outcome will determine whether Terris is to figure among the headliners again or slip farther away from the front ranks. There was a time when Sid loomed as Benny Leonard's possible successor, but last year he developed a habit of getting knocked out in the first round. First Jimmy McLarnin, then next Babe Hunt and then Ray Miller put him away in the opening stanza, and since then Terris has done almost a complete fadeout except for a win over Phil. McGraw on a foul. Now he is trying to get a new foothold.

Tony Lazzeri

FEARS that another hole might be knocked in the Yankee infield this year by the possible failure of Tony Lazzeri's throwing arm to regain its old strength have been partly dispelled by a letter written to a friend by Manager Miller Huggins. The little skipper writes that he has received word from Lazzeri that the arm no longer bothers him, and that a severe test to which he subjected it in a game played on the coast a couple of weeks ago has left no ill effects. Lazzeri declares he will be able to step into the regular lineup at the very outset of the 1929 season and predicts that he will have no need for an understudy at the keystone station.

BOYS' ORGANIZATIONS PLAN TO STAGE OWN MEETS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

MORE than 15 settlement houses and community centers in the Greater Pittsburgh district have completed plans for the formation of a Pittsburgh Boys' Conference for the purpose of fostering competitive athletics in all of its branches.

At a recent meeting Irene Kaufmann Settlement House, Pittsburgh Boys' Club, Heinz House, Woods Run Settlement House, Kingsley House, Soho Community House, Brashear Settlement House, Rankin Christian Center, Bureau of Recreation, Boy Scouts of America and the various Y. M. C. A.'s in this section were granted membership in the newly-formed conference.

The first athletic event on the conference program is an indoor track meet, to be staged in the Carnegie Tech gymnasium on Saturday, March 9. The institutions have appropriated a sum of money to purchase prizes and all events will be under the direct supervision of their own officials. A swimming meet will be staged in the Oliver pool on March 20.

James W. Lodge, Pittsburgh Boys' Club, has been chosen president; Daniel V. Hudson, Woods Run Settlement House, vice-president, and Frederick R. Spencer, Rankin Christian Center, secretary-treasurer. The executive committee is composed of Sidney A. Teller, resident director of ing the Sarah Heinz House; R. L. Williams, Downtown Y. M. C. A., and Wilbur C. Batchelor, director of the Bureau of Recreation. Joseph (Ziggy) Kahn, director of athletics at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House, is chairman of the athletic committee.

BILLICK WINS IN NEW YORK

Dan Billick, Duquesne featherweight, defeated Ted Stedman, of New York, substituting for Johnny Gatto, in a six-round bout at the Olympic arena in New York Saturday night and likely will box Jim Bloom in a six-round preliminary to the Pete Zivic-Bobby Brady bout in Jersey City Thursday night.

Buck McTiernan, former local amateur star, who has been boxing out of Cleveland under the management of Eddie Mead since turning professional, is back home again and will do his fighting out of Pittsburgh headquarters henceforth. His next start will be against Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, in the semi-final to the Midget Mike O'Dowd-Howard Mayberry battle at McKeesport, Thursday night.

Hyatt Sets Pace For Scorers In East

Charley Hyatt, sharpshooter of the University of Pittsburgh's basketball team, has jumped into the lead for individual scoring honors in the East.

In 11 games Hyatt has tallied 66 field goals and 29 fouls for a grand total of 161 points. Four points back of him comes Joey Schaaf, Pennsylvania's captain. Jimmy Collins of St. John's of Brooklyn is third with 145 points

WILD BILL SETS RECORD TO TOP BIG FIELD

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Wild Bill Mehlhorn, who won the Texas Open golf title last year, clipped nine strokes from par on two rounds of the Brackenridge course for a total of 277, to retain his crown. His score was the lowest ever recorded in the event and his first round yesterday morning, a 66, lowered the course record one stroke.

Mehlhorn, who started in the tournament with a 75, improved steadily and withered all opposition with sub-par scores on his last three rounds. Saturday he shot a 69, two strokes under par, and on his final round he made a 67.

Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., turned in two 70's for a 281 and second place. Willard Hutchison, Pasadena, was a stroke behind him for third money, and Frank Walsh, of Appleton, Wis., was fourth with 284.

Danny Williams, of Shackamaxon, N. J., was fifth. Joe Kirkwood, of Albany, Ga., and Al Watrous, of Detroit, tied for sixth and seventh. Mehlhorn collected $1,500, the capital prize, and $25 for the low round. Smith won $800, Hutchison $500, Walsh $400 and Williams $300. Kirkwood and Watrous split $350.

DUKES OPPOSE ST. FRANCIS TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER.

It is hardly likely that the Cadets of West Point are singing their famous "Slum and Gravy" song today. In fact, it is barely possible that the Cadets are not singing much of anything as they march about their daily tasks on the Point, especially the basketball players. Sixty-nine-to-16 wallopings are hardly conducive to light-heartedness.

It is a generally accepted fact that an athletic team may be depended on to hit on all five or nine or eleven, or whatever the number of cylinders it may have, once each season. At other times they may go along in a winning way, but without nearing the peak. The Pitt Panthers reached the acme of perfection against the Cadets Saturday night, played the best basketball any Pitt team or any other college team for that matter, has ever played here. As a result, the Army's nine-game winning streak was snapped so loudly that it made ear drums ring all over the country.

CROWD DISAPPOINTING

Saturday night was a brilliant one for Pitt in a general sense, the only beclouding feature being the disappointing crowd. I doubt very much if the attendance at the Army game was any greater than the turnout for West Virginia. This may be attributed to the fact that the Pitt authorities neglected to have an advance sale of seats. People getting the impression that the game was going to be a sell-out like the Notre Dame contest a year ago, failed to storm the box office when it opened at 6 o'clock.

Besides, one cannot blame folks for not wanting to sit in those under-the-eaves seats out in the Pavilion. If they ever fill that new section up in the northeast corner, they'll have to

CARDS TO CARRY SMALL SQUAD TO CAMP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Showing only 26 names, the Cardinal roster for 1929, just given out by the St. Louis officials, is one of the smallest announced by any major league club in the past 10 years.

More than 30 players are on the reserve lists of practically every team in the majors, this fact making the move of the Cardinals quite remarkable, yet it is not hard to find the motive for the apparent shortage of Redbirds.

DEPEND ON FARMS

The "chain-store" plan makes it possible for the National League champions to carry on with such a small roster. In the event of an urgent need for a player, Manager Bill Southworth will be able to reach out to Rochester, Houston or one of the other "stores" for a supply of talent.

The Redbird situation, nevertheless, is not one to give comfort to St. Louis fans, who hope for another flag this year. The compact squad ready to answer the spring training bell holds a flock of promising boys but Southworth is apt to encounter serious trouble as the race waxes warm.

Pilot Billy evidently has lots of confidence in Charley Gelbert, rookie shortstop, who is all set to take Walter Maranville's job with the Cards. Gelbert played for Southworth's Rochester champs last season, and, of course, Billy has first-hand information on the youngster. Obviously his impressions are favorable toward the boy.

The Redbirds' roster list is subdivided into 10 pitchers, four catchers, six infielders and six outfielders.

The sharpshooters are doubtful with Haines, Alexander, Sherdel and Mitchell as the first-choice brigade. Hallahan, left-hander, who started for Houston last year, may force his way to a regular berth.

GOOD CATCHERS

The catching staff is in good hands, with Wilson, Smith, Jonnard and Mancuso as the four knights of the mask and protector.

Bottomley and Frisch form the nucleus of the infield. High, Gilbert and Haney will be there to fill the other two positions.

Southworth has six good fly-chasers including himself. Douthit, Hafey, Orsatti, Roettger and Holm are a quintet of high-class performers, so that Billy will not have much trouble in the garden.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL TACTICS DEFEAT HEIDELBERG

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

FOR the first time in four years, the Heidelberg soccer team lost [illegible] in national competition last Saturday, when it bowed, 5 to 1, to Union Switch and Signal at Swissvale.

Tom Birks, soccer expert of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, witnessed the battle, and he tells me that Swissvale owed its victory to two factors, the great playing of Dunn, the center halfback, and the impotency of Buff Donnelli, star of the former National champions, who couldn't get going.

Application of American college football tactics by Swissvale killed off Donnelli, who, incidentally, also is captain and fullback of the Duquesne University eleven, according to Birks. For the first time, the opposition applied strategy to stop Donnelli, one of the greatest goal shooters ever developed here. Swissvale played two men against him throughout the game and he was unable to shake them off. With Donnelli, the key man, smothered, the Heidelberg attack was effectively choked, and Swissvale, getting the jump with a goal in less than 10 minutes of play, rose to great heights and went on to a brilliant victory.

Boo Ryan, local welterweight boxer, is a booster for Harry Felix, the New Yorker, who meets Cuddy DeMarco in the 10-round main bout of the second boxing show in the Moose Temple, downtown, next Friday night. Boo, a former amateur star, who later boxed professionally here and in New York, now is a member of the local fire department and conducts his own gymnasium, the Ryan A. C., on the side and is in training to return to the ring.

WHILE in New York, Boo frequently worked out with Felix, he tells me, and he is loud in his praise of the invader, a former sparring partner of Sid Terris, whom he always extended. Felix owns two victories over Cuddy, scored in Brooklyn and Erie, and Ryan believes he will prove too fast and clever for the McKeesporter again.

Felix, who is 25 years old and has been boxing since 1923, boasts a fine record. Among the men he has beaten, in addition to DeMarco, are Ruby Stein, Harry White, Johnny Kochansky, Freddie Mueller, Mickey Travers, Joey Silvers, Luis Vicentini, Dick Conlon and Harry (Kid) Brown. He has drawn with Joe Glick, Charley Manty and Charley Rosen.

News from New York that Babe Ruth, after a spendthrift start as a big money figure in baseball, now is on the way to his first million, contrasts sharply with the fate of our own Honus Wagner, one of the most colorful figures the game has brought forth. Wagner within the last week has gone to work as a sergeant-at-arms in the State Legislature at Harrisburg at the rate of $7 a day. Honus had some money when he quit as a player, but business reverses have wiped out his resources and left him stranded high and dry with little but memories left of a glorious past. He was unfortunate in that he held sway before the golden era of the game, which sees the Babe dragging down $70,000 per annum for lifting balls over distant fences and into yawning stands and pocketing small fortunes from exhibition tours, testimonials and other side lines.

TY COBB, a contemporary of the great Honus, is bidding adieu to baseball with a fortune reputed to be around the million-dollar mark, and Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pirates, had a quarter of a million, most of which was made outside the sport, when he stepped down, while others have retired with comfortable nest eggs. But the Babe, with several years of stardom still ahead of him, leads all of them. He may land his second million before he's through, despite the fact that he frittered away the foundation of the fortune, even as Rogers Hornsby, a $40,000-a-year-man, has failed to hold on to his early lucre.

What happened to the Army in its basketball game with Pitt at the Stadium Saturday probably is the best argument that could be advanced against the advisability of the scouting system in college athletics. The Army had Pitt thoroughly scouted, and, with a nine-game winning streak, behind it, came here confident of giving the Panthers the fight of their lives, only to run into a crushing defeat by a score of 69 to 16.

WHAT generally happens when a team scouts another with a view to checking its stride is that in its preparation for the battle it stresses its defense to the exclusion of its offense and in the battle itself concentrates so much on keeping its foe from getting started that it forgets to do its own stuff offensively. When its defense fails, a complete rout ensues.

The same portion easily might have been Swissvale's in its soccer game with Heidelberg Saturday, in which it played two men against the redoubtable Donnelli. In its case, however, the plan early brought results and the possibility of a debacle was averted.

have a Zeigfeld chorus, the four Marx Brothers and Hull Brown, singing "Sonny Boy," on the bill. And the girls will have to sit in the stands, too.

The Soldiers looked very weak against Pitt. They didn't have the ball enough to become familiar with its feel, and when they did get it, they lost it right away by having their passes intercepted or by losing it out of bounds. On the defense, the Cadets made the mistake of trying to come out and check the Panthers in the middle of the court. You must never come "out" on Pitt if you wish to beat 'em, for Charley Hyatt, Eddie Baker and Paul Zehfuss will dribble around or through you nine times out of 10½.

It's the general opinion of basketball critics and coaches that the Pitt team has finally "arrived" and that from now on it will take a super team to score a triumph over Dr. Carlson's club.

FLOOR CARD LIGHT

The college cage program for the week will begin tomorrow night. Pittsburgh's lone bit of entertainment will be presented on the Bluff, Duquesne tangling with St. Francis at 8:15. This is the only collegiate encounter of the week listed for the city.

Westminster plays Thiel tomorrow at Greenville, and has a fine chance to solidify its second place position in the Conference.

Wednesday Carnegie Tech will play a return engagement with Geneva, meeting the Covenanters at Beaver Falls. This contest will mark the first collegiate appearance of Tony Paulsey, the man who is figured to make the Covenanters one of the three strongest fives in the district. What a break for Tech.

BISONS PRESS LEADERS

Furman Nuss' Bethany College Bisons are pressing close on the heels of the leaders, both in the Conference and non-Conference rankings. The Bisons have scored decisive triumphs over both Wash-Jeff and Waynesburg, and according to those who have seen them in action, are to be feared.

Duquesne will have the next opportunity to test the Buffalo Creek strength, playing at Bethany Saturday night. If the Dukes lose this one, and there is little to indicate that they'll win it, you may count the Bluffites out of the Conference fight now they are hanging on the edge.

FROTH

The Cadets can't say they weren't tipped off..... Didn't Froth write 'em a letter on how to beat Pitt? ..... Maybe Pitt read it, too..... Francis Stadsvold, of West Va. saw the game...... Playing on a bumpy field that stopped all attempts at good soccer, the Heidelberg Eagles and the Bridgeville Owls battled to a 2-2 tie in the Chartiers Valley League at Heidelberg yesterday. The fast field made controlling the ball nearly impossible, but the large crowd watched plenty of action.

The Eagles scored the only goal of the first half, S. Urbanic turning the trick when he beat Dalzuffo close in with a good shot. Chicci and Zinger had played some nice football, but the Eagles' defense stopped their scoring efforts.

The game had not been in progress long in the second period before the scores were even, Chicci taking a good chance and shooting past Rizak. That made the game more interesting. Both goalkeepers were playing good defensive soccer.

The Eagles forged ahead when Savage added number two for the home team and victory seemed assured until Zinger got his foot to the sphere and Rizak was beaten a second time.

Many chances to win were missed before the final whistle blew, but this could be blamed on the frozen ground. Savage and Zinger were leading their respective lines well, but the defenses functioned perfectly to the end, and the teams retired with the score tied.

Gardner and Maas played good soccer, while Gimerolli looked good for Bridgeville. The lineup:

Heidelberg Eagles—2.		Bridgeville—2.
Rizak	G.	Dalzuffo
Maas	R.B.	Gardner
Pavlin	L.B.	Smart
Schultz	R.H.	Aston
Pablick	C.H.	Cimirolli

J. Urbanic	O.R.	Kovack
S. Urbanic	I.R.	Chicci
Savage	C.	Zinger
Barrett	I.L.	Mangus
Keil	O.L.	Barnabee

Goal scores—S. Urbanic, Chicci, Savage, Zinger. Score at half-time—Eagles, 1-0. Referee—Hart.

Dugan and Fuchs In Salary Debate

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Joe Dugan has not yet signed with the Boston Braves because of a salary disagreement. At a conference here yesterday, Judge Emil Fuchs, owner-manager of the Braves, offered the veteran third baseman a smaller salary than he received from the Yankees, but supplemented a bonus agreement. Joe wants it all in salary as a safeguard against a poor year.

The pair will confer again next Sunday. Before leaving for Boston, Fuchs said he was confident Dugan would sign.

American Cars Win Long Race

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The first five places in the three-day 1,000-mile Grand Prix automobile endurance race were captured by American-made cars at the finish here yesterday. Driver Riganti took first prize of $4,000 with elapsed time of 14 hours 13 minutes and 45 3-5 seconds for the cross country grind to Rosario and Cordova and return over dirt roads.

On the final lap one car went into a river and its driver had two ribs fractured. Another driver was injured internally and several other accidents further depleted the ranks of the 34 starters. Two men were killed the first day.

Suggs and Chocolate Matched for Havana

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Jess McMahon, local matchmaker, announces he will stage a 10-round bout between Kid Chocolate, Cuban bantam and featherweight champion, and Chick Suggs, of New Bedford, Mass., for the Negro featherweight championship of the world at Havana, Cuba, February 23.

The bout was closed at a conference of the managers of the boxers here yesterday.

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG.

great new sport arena, in which he is interested. The stadium will seat 25,000, or about 7,000 more than Madison Square Garden in New York, and will be the scene of all big indoor sport events in the Middle West.

Another Pittsburgh angle to the huge project is the fact that Bill Bratton, of this city, will have charge of the amateur ice sports staged there. Included among the officers and members of the Chicago Stadium Club are some of the most prominent men in that part of the country, and as all of them are really stockholders in the building it will be seen that the plan has plenty of financial backing.

DESPITE the formidable nature of the foreign field that will compete in the world championship 18.2 billiard championship tournament opening in New York one week from tonight—Edouard Horemans, of Belgium; Eric Hagenlacher, of Germany; Felix Grange, of France, and Kinrey Matsuyama, of Japan—there is no lack of confidence among American cue fans in Uncle Sam's two representatives.

Neither Jack Schaefer nor Welker Cochran can be overlooked as a possible winner, by any means. Both have held the title, and either is capable of winning it again if he gets going at top speed. Cochran has let down to some extent in his billiard playing, as he now devotes the greater part of his days to his new work in a New York brokerage, but at that he was good enough to defeat Schaefer in a recent exhibition. There need be no worry about Schaefer. He is coming along slowly, but by tourney time is likely to be close to the form that carried him to the championship eight years ago.

Hib Milks

AFTER attaining its best scoring form of the season, the Pittsburgh hockey club has fallen into another slump and has made only one goal in its last two games. Though Frankie Frederickson has a higher total for the season, the four points he made for Boston giving him a total of 11, of which no fewer than five are assists, Hib Milks has done more scoring than any other Pirate player to date. His record is nine points, made up of seven goals and two assists. Frederickson has made seven points for the Bucs, three goals and four assists. Harold Darragh and Tex White have made six points each—four goals and two assists. Herb Drury has made four points, all goals; Harold Cotton, two goals and two assists; Roger Smith, two goals and one assist; Toots Holway, two goals, and Johnny McKinnon, one goal. The team record is 29 goals and 13 assists, for a total of 42 points.

Snowbound Cage Squad in West Is Rescued

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Ten members of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology basketball team were freed last night from the eight-foot drifts which had imprisoned them at Lake Roland since Thursday.

Had rescue been delayed a day longer, it was learned, the situation of the players and the few residents of Lake Roland might have become perilous. Members of the team went on half rations yesterday when stock of the Lake Roland general store was depleted.

The team was returning from a game at Ontonagen, Thursday, when the bus on which it was traveling was stalled in the drifts which followed the worst blizzard of the year.

LEWIS APPLIES STRANGLE TO WIN FIANCEE

By JIMMY CORCORAN,

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—"Well, he's mah great big lovin' man; he'll always be my cham—pe-an da-deedle-da-la-la——" In this corner (of the room) we have one Elaine Tomasco, pride of Glendale, Cal., and in t'other corner is Ed (Strangler) Lewis of Louisville, Ky., former heavyweight rasslin' kink. Referee: Kid Cupid. Duration of bout: To a finish.

And it was Miss Tomaso, the champess, who had set her eyes once again on her big strangling man who was doing the yodeling over a steaming pot of coffee. The scene was the Morrison Hotel. The time—today.

"Ma" Tomaso had once again declared that the match was completely to her satisfaction. And since there were no dissenters in the audience, the wedding will take place in March as per schedule.

And when is the "day?" Well, neither the Strangler nor Miss Tomaso would declare themselves definitely.

"It likely will be in March," the former champ said.

"And it may be before," put in the fiancee.

However, it was intimated that it might be today—next Monday, next month—but probably March.

The former champion is here training for a bout with Marin Plestina, to be held tomorrow night at the Hippodrome.

"He won me with the head lock—or really it wasn't exactly the head lock, but something like it," Miss Tomaso, giggled. "You see I met him out on the coast and we did a lot of swimming together. Yes, and he asked me if he could apply the strangle hold and I said 'Okay, champ'—and he did—and then I knew why he was the heavyweight champion."

"'Twas only a gentle squeeze," roared the great big canvas man, "Say, when I apply the pressure on some of these lugs in the ring—Well, it's a little bit different."

"I'll be a gentle husband," the Strangler commented. "I'll leave my tricks in the gymnasium."

Lewis admitted casually that he knew this impending match with the queen of Glendale, Cal., wasn't going to be any kind of a setup.

"Why, she's quite an athlete herself," he volunteered. "Swims, plays golf, rides horses. She could probably stop me with the armlock or maybe the half Nelson. Gotta be careful with these athletic girls."

Miss Tomaso declared she didn't care even a teeny-weeny little bit if a great big hulk named Sonnenschein or Sonnenberg or something had butted her Ed out of the ring in Boston and took his crown away.

"It was a dirty mean trick and if they ever meet again, Ed Lewis will be champion once again," she snapped.

DEMPSEY HITS ROAD TODAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Roadwork stood on Jack Dempsey's schedule for today as a welcome diversion from the more or less confining labors of promoting the Sharkey-Stribling fight.

After a short tryout of his muscles yesterday, the former heavyweight champion launched today into his long-postponed program of mild training, which he expects will tell him whether or not he can get into condition for another fight.

Final arrangements for the disposal of tickets to the Flamingo Park fight were being made today. The pasteboards are to be sent out Tuesday.

Dempsey also is preparing for the arrival Tuesday of Sharkey's trainer.

Stribling to Do Only Light Training

MACON, Ga., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling will not inaugurate a rigid training campaign for his fight with Jack Sharkey at Miami Beach, February 27, he said here on his arrival from New Orleans, where Ralph Smith was the victim of his 114th knockout victory.

The former schoolboy battler announced he is in perfect condition because of frequent fights and that he will do only light road work and enought boxing to keep him in trim.

Stribling has a corps of sparring partners lined up, however, chief among them being Martin Burke, New Orleans heavyweight.

English Bank Head's Visit May Have Deep Meaning.

By B. C. FORBES

BEHIND the visit to this country of the governor of the Bank of England, Sir Montague Norman, lies deep significance. The outcome of his deliberations this week with the federal reserve bank authorities may influence the course of both securities and business in the immediate future.

GOV. BENJAMIN STRONG of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Sir Montague cooperated extremely closely until the former's death recently. Gov. Strong almost made it his business to fraternize with the heads of the Reichsbank and the Bank of France.

I understand that Gov. Strong and Gov. Norman were hopeful that a friendly understanding had been reached, among the governmental banks of the four nations, which was designed to obviate selfish international competition for gold. The New York and London authorities aimed to establish these two cities as the world's central reservoir of credit and gold.

Since Gov. Strong died, however, something approaching a scramble for gold has set in both in Berlin and in Paris. The Reichsbank has drawn very heavily upon London's stock of the precious metal, while the bank of France has been "earmarking" gold heavily in New York.

This, I understand, has upset all the former plans and expectations and is not at all to the liking of the Bank of England. Hence the current visit of its head to confer with Gov. Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank and other authorities in this country.

Unless Berlin and Paris can be induced to exercise reason in levying upon the gold supplies in London and in this country, the effect upon the money markets across the Atlantic and also here may be such as to chill speculative enthusiasm and even exercise a restrictive influence upon business enterprises.

New York has resumed drawing upon London's gold on a rather heavy scale, in addition to attracting large shipments from Canada. Such withdrawals are not at all welcomed by England. But it is entirely possible that Sir Montague Norman may effect measures here to keep the minimum within bounds. Unemployment in Britain already is serious, and an increase in the bank rate would aggravate conditions there.

Recent gold imports have somewhat strengthened the reserve ratio position of our own federal reserve banks. Yet brokers' borrowings have again climbed to a new peak. Although call money has been in good supply at 6 per cent, other divisions of the credit market have been distinctly firm.

SPECULATION has been quite active, but the feature has been irregularity rather than any general movement either up or down. Stocks manipulated by powerful pools have continued to lead in activity and in violence of fluctuations. Total transactions on the New York Stock Exchange since January 1 have exceeded 90,000,000 shares against only a little more than 50,000,000 a year ago.

That the market has got nowhere in particular is clearly brought out by the following table covering 35 of the most active issues:

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Fireworks in Electric Bond.

The Street was treated to another pyrotechnical display this morning when Electric Bond and Share Securities Corporation opened with an overnight gain of 50 points and quickly dropped back 30 points. The move apparently was the result of some special buying advices as the specialist on the floor of the curb had orders for thousands of shares and the opening transaction was a block of 20,000 shares at 274½ as against Saturday's final price of 225. The opening price was said to have been agreed upon after the curb exchange authorities had requested brokerage house representatives to explain the situation to their customers and obtain limits on orders placed "at the market." Today's remarkable action of Electric Bond and Share comes on top of a gain of about 100 points in the past two months or so. Very little of the stock has been available on the rise and purchasers have been obliged to pay steadily higher prices. Electric Bond and Share is the strongest utility organization in the country and is the key interest in the big United Corporation, recently formed under Morgan sponsorship as a holding company for several eastern utilities including United Gas Improvement of Philadelphia and Public Service Corporation of New Jersey. Properties in which Electric Bond has a large interest include all the leading utilities in the eastern section of the country and many in the West. Electric Bond and Share originated through segregation of the General Electric Company's utilities holdings which were pooled under that title and the shares distributed to the holders of General Electric stock in 1925. Last May the company sold 600,956 additional shares to stockholders at $80 a share on the basis of one additional share for each three held. Present outstanding stock amounts to 2,403,826 of an authorized issue of 4,000,000 shares. They have been paying dividends at the rate of $1 per share annually.

Specialist Made the Market.

While early reports intimated the opening figure on Electric Bond & Share had been determined after the governors of the curb exchange had sent commission men back to customers to explain the situation and obtain limits on orders, the curb market announced later that no discussion of the governors was necessary in determining the opening price and that the specialist was able to adjust the situation himself.

Westinghouse Electric.

Westinghouse Electric pushed ahead to a new high mark on buying which made its appearance at the start and continued throughout the greater part of the session. Strength in the stock is based on reports that the company is earning at the rate of $10 a year on the combined common and preferred shares. Extension programs of the major utilities and the electrification plans of several leading railroads will provide important business for Westinghouse over the next several years.

Steel Meets Tomorrow.

United States Steel Corporation directors meet tomorrow for dividend and for consideration of the fourth quarter's earnings. The Street is still "guessing" as to what will be done in the way of extra distributions and there has been nothing added to the former rumors that the board may make a special cash distribution [illegible] declare a stock dividend of three new shares for every seven now outstanding. This morning the traders were discussing a new rumor that the stock would be split two-for-one and the new stock placed on a $4 annual basis.

Big Markets Ahead.

Some brokers are predicting recor breaking days on the Exchange i the first half of the current yea They believe February and Marc will be very active periods, with th second quarter showing even greate activity. They base their view partly on the various split-ups an new listings, which have added millions of shares to the total. A bi January, some say, always indicate great activity in the remaining fiv months of the first half year. Th only check, they say, would be an increase in brokers' loans sufficientl large to undermine confidence On broker forecasts many days whe transactions will run between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 shares with one o more 8,000,0000 share days a possibility.

PROFITS SHOWN BY SUPERIOR STEEL

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Superior Steel Corporation re-established its operations on a profitable basis last year. In spite of the fact that the average prices received were lower than in the previous year, a profit was shown in each of the last three quarters of 1928, compared with a loss in every quarter of 1927.

Net profit of $[illegible], or 29 cents a share, was shown during the year, compared with a loss of $189,847 in 1927. Profit in the fourth quarter of $46,869 gave a more accurate indication of the extent of the improvement, since it was greater than the net for the entire year.

The company produces hot and cold-rolled strip steel exclusively. A much greater volume of business was handled during the year. Sales in 1928 were $6,685,628, compared with $5,806,845 in 1927.

FRANK R. FROST, president of the company, points to the fact that the sales of highly specialized strip products have been greatly increased. This type of business is the most profitable. The increase allowed the company to pay less attention to getting large tonnage orders which are highly competitive and which leave virtually no margin of profit for mills without their own steel-making facilities.

The plant is working 24 hours a day. The output at this rate has been completely sold for the next six weeks. On February 1 a price advance will be placed into effect.

Mr. Frost says that a few months ago, when prices of semi-finished steel were low, inventories were substantially increased in anticipation of higher prices. Stocks are now about twice the normal size, and further rises in the prices of billets and slabs from which strips are rolled are expected.

LOWER costs are being obtained through improvements to mill equipment and changes in operating methods. A new hot mill has been installed, making a total of four in operation. Electric motors have been placed on all of the mills except one hot mill.

The company has no preferred stock, and the only funded debt consists of $2,006,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent bonds. During 1928 the outstanding amount of the bonds was reduced by $160,000. Physical properties were valued at $3,806,358 on December 31, after charging off depreciation. This was an increase of $156,061.

Only 100,000 shares of capital stock are outstanding, so that an improvement in business is reflected substantially in earnings per share. With higher prices likely to prevail on strips over the next few months while the company's materials have been bought at low prices, the present outlook is exceptionally bright.

The financial position is strong. Current assets of $2,485,965 were over 10 times current liabilities of $240,343.

EVENTS since the turn of the year appear to bear out the optimistic expectations expressed in recent weeks, says the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

"Although industrial expansion is in order at this season and the stepping up of operations must accordingly be regarded as largely seasonal in character, the vigorous revival that has been reported in numerous lines is distinctly reassuring," continues the survey.

"It may now be said, therefore, with somewhat more confidence than was possible a month ago, that present conditions favor the outlook for a continuance of active and prosperous business at least during the next few months and, as far as can now be seen, throughout the year. Coupled with the auspicious start made by the leading industries is the fact that consumers' demand appears to be keeping pace with manufacturing operations, thus affording a sound basis for sustained activity.

"WITH money rates here at a comparatively high level, there is no immediate prospect of a sustained outward gold movement comparable with that of the latter part of 1927 and the early part of 1928. However, the continued demand for American gold on the part of foreign banks reduces the likelihood of any marked easing of domestic money rates in the near future and thus has an obvious bearing on the financial and general business outlook in the United States.

"Banking conditions and money rates have shown the usual sharp fluctuations occasioned by holiday demands and year-end settlements, without reflecting any essential change in the credit situation. Funds withdrawn by interior banks have apparently returned to New York and other financial centers more promptly than usual, permitting member banks to reduce their borrowings from the Reserve institutions to the lowest total in several weeks. These borrowings, however, are still more than twice as large as they were a year ago, despite the fact that member bank deposits are somewhat smaller."

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The raw sugar market was quiet and unchanged early today with no sales reported and prices quoted at 3.80c for spots, duty paid.

The raw sugar futures market opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and a little trade buying. Houses with Cuban connections sold on the upturn, however, and prices eased off a little during the late forenoon. At midday they were net unchanged to 2 points lower with new crop deliveries showing the maximum losses. Trading on the whole was not very active. Operators seemed inclined to limit fresh commitments and await developments.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.10c for fine granulated. A fair withdrawal demand was reported, but no new

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Electric Bond and Share provided the fireworks in a busy and buoyant curb market opening today, with the sale of a block of 20,000 shares at a split price which specialties finally decided to call at 274¾, representing an advance of nearly 50 points. Subsequently the issue got down below 250, and then recovered slightly. Electric Investors and United Gas Improvement were run up 5 points each and smaller gains were made by American Superpower A and B and Southeast Power and Light.

General Electric of England was bid up substantially before noon, but other industrials were not particularly active. Ford of England was in supply and other automotives, including Auburn and Checker Cab, moved to lower levels. Checker Cab regained some ground. Niles Bement Pond declined 2 points after losing early strength.

Oil stocks showed some improvement, although most gains were fractional. Standard of Indiana again lost ground.

Metal and mining stocks were inclined to heaviness.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list:

STOCK MARKET SOARS, TAKES NOSE DIVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP.)—The stock market took wings on a heavy accumulation of week-end buying orders at the opening today, but promptly went into a nose dive as soon as the buying movement spent itself in the late forenoon. Early gains of 1 to 10 points in a wide assortment of motors, rails and specialties were fairly generally replaced with losses of 1 to 8 points.

The bear party took advantage of widespread nervousness over the possibility of tightening call money rates as the month end approaches, and the weakened technical position of the market resulting from the rapid upturns in several sections of the list late last week, to stage a rather effective rate. Nearly 1,000,000 shares changed hands during the first half hour, but trading fell off sharply when the market began to slip.

Call money again renewed at 6 per cent, despite the approach of February 1, when about $375,000,000 will be required to meet interest and dividend requirements. Bankers do not look for such tight money as existed over the year-end, as the banks have now reduced their borrowings at the reserve bank and are in a position to support the market. Ten per cent money, however, is regarded as a possibility before the end of the week.

The day's news was scant, save for several more railroad 1928 income reports, the majority of which were favorable, as regards net. New Haven earned $8 per share, against $5.49 in 1927. Conditional approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the New York Central Lines' unification plan was announced over the week-end. American Smelting and Refining Company was reported to have acquired control of copper properties in South Africa.

New York Central mounted more than 5 points, but lost about half its gain. Radio jumped ahead 10 points, and promptly fell back. International Telephone moved up more than 7 points, and also reacted.

Some of the tobacco stocks were conspicuously strong. This group is understood to have been held back of late by selling for the Duke, Ryan and Whitney estates. American Tobacco B jumped 7 points, and Liggett and Myers B 3 points. International Harvester gained 5 points, while Case Threshing dropped 8.

Indian Refining advanced more than 4 points to a new top on reports that Shell Union and Texas were bidding for its cracking process. Other oils sagged.

American Telephone lost 4 points, and United States Steel more than 2. Johns Manville, International Nickel, Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck, Simmons, National Cash Register and Nash Motor were among issues losing from 2 to 4 points.

SCREW AND BOLT RECEDES UNDER MODERATE SALES

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt lost ground in the early session of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today as traders lightened their holdings, taking the attractive profits offered by last week's sensational rise.

The stock opened off a fraction at 94 and dropped back two points under the weight of the initial selling, which, incidentally, amounted to only a few hundred shares. The stock has been the feature of the dealings on the local exchange for more than two weeks, reaching a level close to 95 after having started its move from the high 50s. Demonstrated earning power, aside from merger rumors and other unofficial reports, made the stock attractive to the trading element and there was quite a volume purchased "for the turn" in addition to the demand from investors and informed interests who have been taking the stock out of the market and consequently further restricting the normally small floating supply.

In other quarters the price fluctuations were narrow, but business was in good volume. McKinney Manufacturing slipped below 16 and uncovered buying power, while Pittsburgh Plate Glass was firm within a fraction of the best price since the announcement of the increase in import duties on that product.

Fuel issues were firm. Lone Star Gas was late coming into the market, but was quoted at 72 bid and 73 asked at the end of the first hour, with no stock changing hands. The bid price was a full point above Saturday's close. Arkansas common and preferred were steady and only slightly changed.

The initial sale on Lone Star was at 72½, a new high record and an overnight gain of 1½ points. Scarcity of the stock was reflected in the subsequent trading as buying orders forced the price a full point above the opening with little of the issue coming out. The strength in Lone Star is based on expectations of a capital change which will result in larger cash disbursements to present stockholders.

Blaw Knox sagged in the early afternoon and broke through 42 on the down side for the first time since the shares were split up. There was no news to account for the reactionary tone although the stock has been in fair supply for several days.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Despite numerous rallies the wheat market turned downward today. Toward the last, selling of wheat against purchases of corn was a notable feature. Besides the fact that the United States wheat visible supply total decreased only 1,748,000 bushels for the last week as compared with 3,519,000 bushels decrease the week before, was a disappointment to friends of higher prices.

In connection with future delivery wheat selling here today ascribed to European sources were advices of large increases of the amount of wheat on ocean passage both as compared with a week and a year ago. There were also predictions of liberal exports of wheat from Argentina for some time to come. On the other hand, word of sleet storms and zero weather in Nebraska, together with widespread lack of snow there and in other wheat producing states acted at times as a decided offset.

Crop experts pointed out today that at no time in the last month has there been more than trace of snow over the greater part of domestic wheat territory, and with this absence of protection there have been six successive periods when temperatures dropped below or to around zero, with an alternation of rain and sleet furnishing an ice pack made worse by repeated thawing and freezing. These conditions have been especially severe in soft wheat territory, but have also extended into the Southwest.

CHOOSING A BANK

Questions that every prospective customer should invariably ask about a bank before becoming a depositor:

1. Is it safe, and well established in the esteem of substantial people who discriminate?
2. Is it capably managed by men whose ability and integrity are proven beyond all reasonable doubt?
3. Is it progressive and does it grow steadily from year to year?
4. Are its old customers loyal; if so, why?
5. Would an account there add prestige?
6. Is it large enough to meet its customers' growing needs with ease and satisfaction?
7. Are its officers and employees affable, friendly and courteous?
8. Should it make a fair profit on every account, mine included?

Trust Company Deposits Show Big Gain for 1928

Combined deposits of Pittsburgh trust companies increased $23,459,696 during the calendar year, 1928, according to figures issued in response to the bank call as of December 31, 1928. From October 2, 1928, the date of the last preceding call, deposits showed a gain of $300,179. Deposits of state banks in the city increased $3,123,536 between December 31, 1927, and December 31, 1928, but for the period, October 2, 1928, to December 31, 1928, showed a decrease of $116,883, attributable, of course, to holiday influences. Following are figures of the individual trust companies and state banks:

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Mrs. Pendleton's Children

By ANN HARDY

"SHE'S a perfect mother," said Amelia Judd, "a martyr to her children. They should be ashamed—selfish creatures!"

"But didn't she ask her daughter to spend the holidays?" demanded Dolly Winston, trimming the edges of a tiny garment carefully.

"Oh, you don't understand, Mrs. Pendleton," Amelia rose warmly to the support of her friend. "She's always doing things, not only for her family but for others. She told me what she'd done for the Parent-Teachers' Association at the meeting I attended—when Jonas teased me!" Amelia paused to blush. "I don't care if he did laugh at me," she added defiantly. "I think it's a good idea, looking ahead. Some day Junior will be starting to school . . . Dolly, how do you fit this sleeve? And did you ever see anything so small? I don't believe I'd ever managed to make 'em if you hadn't helped me out!"

Laughing, Dolly Winston dropped her own work-basket and hugged Amelia. "You're a perfect darling," she cried, and there were tears in her blue eyes as she picked up her work again. "It was mean of Jonas to laugh—keep right on looking ahead, Amelia. Go to all the Parent-Teachers meetings you care too . . . send for college catalogues and pick out his career! I believe it's women like you, dear, shouldering responsibilities with joy, who make the world a heavenly place to live in!"

"A baby doesn't seem such a terrible responsibility," said Amelia thoughtfully. "I'll be crazy about him, and I keep thinking of the grand times we'll have together while he's a little fellow. And I keep planning for his future. Of course," she added in matter-of-fact tones as she neatly turned a hem, "he may be a girl, in which case, Jonas wants her called for his mother. But I've had such fun—dreaming about him, until—until I got to thinking of Mrs. Pendleton's children." Amelia turned to Dolly with a strange expression of perplexity on her round winsome face. "I'm beginning to be afraid, Dolly! Mrs. Pendleton says you give the best years of your life to them—children, I mean—and then they turn from you and forget or else make a convenience of you!"

"I wouldn't pay any attention to her," Dolly advised indignantly.

"That's what Jonas says," Amelia quickly responded. "He called her a sour grouch. But I like her, and I'm sorry for her. Her children treat her badly. This year Ellen, her daughter, brought the three children and stayed for the holidays; now after a few brief weeks, Carlton Pendleton is bringing his new wife to stay with his mother. Mrs. Pendleton has a small income, and she says while they're here they never offer to buy a thing. Having extra people to feed, and the maid every day instead of twice a week, makes her expenses mount up."

For the first time Dolly listened sympathetically to Mrs. Pendleton's woes. "Why, that's dreadful," she said. "They've no right to sponge on her that way, and she ought to tell them so."

"I thought that too," Amelia agreed, "but she says they're her children, and her home will always be theirs."

"I've been spending the afternoon with Amelia Judd," Dolly told her husband, as he picked up the daily paper and settled himself before the open fire.

"It's fine to see her so happy. But a child's a great responsibility, and I do hope Amelia's won't be selfish and ungrateful. Jonas is a rather selfish man. . . ."

Tom lowered the paper and looked at his little wife in astonishment. "Why this change of front, Calamity Jane?" he asked humorously. "Last time you spoke of Amelia's expectations you said it was the best thing in the world for her."

"Oh, I know," Dolly conceded. "But I've been thinking of heredity, and she told me about Mrs. Pendleton. Poor soul, I never liked her particularly, but I'm beginning to feel dreadfully sorry for her. . . And Amelia is just the sort to let herself be imposed on; she, too, may be a martyr to her offspring."

Tom Winston's eyes grew round with bewilderment. "So old Mrs. Pendleton's a martyr to Ellen and Carlton, is she?" he finally commented dryly.

Something in his tone provoked Dolly's curiosity. "Don't you manage her business affairs, Tom?" she asked. "Well, you know her husband left her with a tiny income, and her children are always coming to stay with her. What do do you mean, anyway?"

But she could not get another word out of her close-mouthed lawyer husband. "Don't lose sleep over Mrs. Pendleton's troubles," was all he would say.

Several days later Dolly was surprised by a visit from Mrs. Pendleton. She was a small, pathetic-looking creature, dressed in black, and there was a tremulous note in her voice. "I came to see you," she began uncertainly, "because Mr. Winston's away, and they were rude to me at the office. I'm in—in financial difficulty, Mrs. Winston. I thought perhaps you might be willing to—to help me out and say nothing to anyone about it."

Dolly welcomed her in, and was touched at her confidence, but could not stifle a sense of misgiving. Ellen, her daughter, had stayed so long with the children during the holidays. Having to give them meat and fruit every day, had run up her bill at the grocery store. Now they—the people at the store—had refused to credit her any more unless she paid a little on account. Mr. Nettleton, Tom Winston's partner, had said when she called at the office of Winston & Nettleton that she would have to wait Mr. Winston's return for money.

"But I can't do that," Mrs. Pendleton cried hopelessly. "I must pay them something on account, or, they'll make trouble for me. And I could not bear that, with my boy coming to see me next week, bringing his bride!"

"Why don't you ask your son Carlton to help you?" Dolly inquired.

Mrs. Pendleton hesitated, then murmured in a low tone: "Poor boy, I know I've spoiled him. Mrs. Winston gave him $50 last month to tide him over Christmas. But for that I'd be able to get along all right. Don't say anything to Mr. Winston about that! Promise me you will not tell him I came here at all! If you would let me have just a small amount now, I could pay you back when I get my check in February, and no one would know."

Dolly was deeply touched and embarrassed at the profusion of poor Mrs. Pendleton's thanks. And she had only lent her $25! She wished she had offered her more, for she felt that she had been niggardly. She wanted to tell Tom about it, tell him just what she thought of the son and daughter. Then she remembered she could not do that, she had promised Mrs. Pendleton.

Tom Winston was not very good at figures, and the mental effort of adding a column made him savage. "Cut out that radio," he yelled. "I can't think!"

"Let me add it, Tom," Dolly offered.

He sighed gratefully as he shoved the pad across the lamp-lit table. "She gives me more trouble than a bunch of wild-cats," he observed.

"Of whom are you talking?" Dolly asked as she picked up the pencil.

"That fool Pendleton woman," Tom growled. "Those are her bills you're adding. It makes me sick," he added, noting Dolly's wide-eyed astonishment, "to hear you growling about her ungrateful children. So I've decided to give you a bit of very confidential information, for those ungrateful children are keen on guarding their mother against gossip and other unpleasant things. She's a shark for spending money, just throws it away on a lot of truck. She used simply to swamp Ellen and Carlton with bills. Finally they asked me to take charge of her affairs, made arrangements with the banks that hold the modest estate of their father in trust, to let her think I am collaborating with them; they augment her income twice a year to cover her debts. You see, for self-protection they make her think she cannot call on them, it puts a little restraint on her to feel she has to make her income do. Twice a year either Ellen or Carlton comes down to stay a few weeks with the old lady. We try to find out just how much she owes for sharps in town have gotten onto her and sent in bogus bills. We had a terrible time this year; Carleton's coming now to help where Ellen had to leave off. Ungrateful children!"

Dolly drew circles on the pad and looked exceedingly thoughtful. "Mighty lovay of them, and generous," she said. "I eat all my unjust comments."

But late that night as she stood before the mirror brushing out her gold ringlets she grinned at the image. "Hello, sucker!" she said to herself. "How does it feel to lose $25 that you're in honor bound not to mention to your husband, and wouldn't anyway? As for Amelia Judd, Jonas does bully her; I'll let her go on feeling sorry for Mrs. Pendleton. It—it might be a warning to Amelia to stick up for her rights."

"For goodness sake, Honey," Tom Winston exclaimed petulantly, "stop admiring yourself and put out the lights. I want to sleep."

NOTICE TO RIVER INTERESTS AND ALL NAVIGATORS.

The advertisement for the construction of the second cofferdam for Deadman Island Dam, Ohio River, which appeared in the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Louisville papers about January 23, 24 and 25, is hereby cancelled and revised as follows:

The construction of the second cofferdam known as Coffer "B" for Deadman Island Dam, will consist of the extension of the present cofferdam from the right bank or abutment side of the river toward the lock, a distance of approximately 260 feet. This construction will be started at once and navigators passing this point should proceed with sufficient caution to avoid running into the cofferdam. Regulation lights will be maintained at night, or during fog, on the end of this cofferdam at all practicable river stages. Our drawing E-1622 shows the location of this cofferdam and is on file at he United States Engineer's Office, Pittsburgh, Pa.

NO. 42.

AN ORDINANCE — Authorizing and directing the grading, paving and curbing of Welfer street, from Murray avenue to Windsor street, letting a contract therefor; and providing that the costs, damages and expenses of the same be assessed against and collected from property specially benefited thereby.

WHEREAS—It appears by the petition and affidavit on file in the office of the City Clerk that a majority of property owners in interest and number abutting upon the line of Welfer street, from Murray avenue to Windsor street, have petitioned the Council of the City of Pittsburgh to enact an ordinance for the grading, paving and curbing of the same. Therefore

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That Welfer street, from Murray avenue to Windsor street, be graded, paved and curbed.

SECTION 2. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to advertise, in accordance with the acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the ordinances of the said City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and regulating the same, for proposals for the grading, paving and curbing of said street between said points; the contract or contracts therefor to be let in the manner directed by the said acts of Assembly and ordinances; and the contract price or contract prices, if let in separate contracts, not to exceed the total sum of Ten Thousand Five Hundred ($10,500.00) Dollars, which is the estimate of the whole cost as furnished by the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby, in accordance with the provisions of the acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same, and the city's share of said work to be chargeable to and payable from Code Account No. ....., People's Bond Issue 1928.

SECTION 4. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

NO. 34.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh to enter into an agreement with The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, operating the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, for the removal, replacement and maintenance of the North Avenue, West and Irwin Avenue Bridges, over the tracks and right-of-way of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh be and they are hereby authorized and directed to make, execute and deliver, in the name of and for the City of Pittsburgh, the following Agreement with The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, operating the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, and affix thereto the corporate seal of the said City of Pittsburgh.

AGREEMENT.

THIS AGREEMENT, Between The PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD COMPANY, operating the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, party of the first part, hereinafter called the "Railroad Company," and the CITY OF PITTSBURGH, a municipal corporation, situate in the County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, party of the second part, hereinafter called the "City."

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS—Under Agreement entered into between the City of Allegheny, which by annexation proceedings has become and is now a part of the City of Pittsburgh, and The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, operating the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, which said Agreement was authorized by Ordinance of the City of Allegheny, approved the fourteenth day of October, 1901, and recorded in the City of Allegheny in Ordinance Book, Volume 11, Page 60, in connection with other improvements, the said Railroad Company constructed the North Avenue West and Irwin Avenue Bridges over and across its tracks at its own cost and expense, and assumed the maintenance of the abutments, necessary supports and superstructures of the said Bridges; and

WHEREAS—The City of Allegheny under said Agreement, at its own cost and expense, constructed and paved the approaches to said Bridges, paid property damages occasioned by the change of grade of the approach streets and the roadway surfacing of said bridges, and has maintained the paving of said roadway surfacing on said bridges; and

WHEREAS—The said Bridges are now deemed inadequate for the proper accommodation of vehicular traffic and foot passage, obsolescent in design and structure, and dangerous to life and property; and

WHEREAS—The parties hereto desire to enter into an Agreement providing for the removal of the present bridges and the building and maintenance of a new bridge in such manner that both parties may receive the special benefits by them desired, to-wit: That the City shall obtain more adequate intersection and greater width of roadway and shall secure the elimination of certain undesirable features in the present bridges, and the Railroad Company shall obtain additional clearance over its tracks, none of which is possible with the present construction;

NOW, THEREFORE IT IS MUTUALLY AGREED BETWEEN THE PARTIES HERETO AS FOLLOWS:

FIRST. The Railroad Company shall and will, at its own proper cost and expense, remove the present North Avenue West and Irwin Avenue bridges and shall and will erect a new structure to the lines and grades as shown on the plans and drawings prepared by and on file in the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, and described as follows, viz:

Plan showing intersection of Irwin avenue and North avenue West, identified as Exhibit "A," and approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the city on September 7, 1927, and further identified as Survey Plan No. 2091, said drawing requiring the elevation of the top of curb of said bridge to be 72.42 feet above city datum.

Profile No. 4253, Department of Public Works, identified as Exhibit "B," and approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the city on September 7, 1927.

Plan showing extent of proposed improvement and location and extent of new bridge, identified as Exhibit "C," "General Plan," and approved by the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the city on June 26, 1928.

SECOND. The present bridges shall be deemed and are hereby declared to be the property of the Railroad Company, and the city disclaims any ownership of property therein; and upon completion of the new bridge the same shall become and be the property of the Railroad Company, and the city hereby disclaims any ownership or property in the new bridge.

THIRD. The Railroad Company shall and will, at its own proper cost and expense, maintain perpetually the new bridge as hereinbefore described, excepting the roadway surfacing, in a safe and adequate manner, which said maintenance shall include any alteration or replacement.

FOURTH. It is expressly understood and agreed that this Agreement shall not be so construed as to abrogate in any particular the Agreement entered into between the Railroad Company and the City of Allegheny hereinbefore referred to.

FIFTH. Prior to the commencement of any work for the removal of the present bridges or the construction of the new bridge, the Railroad Company shall prepare and submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the city proper plans and specifications showing the method of removing the old structures and the erection and construction of the new bridge, for his approval, and no work shall be done until after said plans and specifications shall have been approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the city.

SIXTH. The Railroad Company further agrees that it shall and will pay to the city the sum of $14,000.00, within fifteen (15) days after this Agreement shall have been approved by the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, it being the intent and purpose of this Agreement that the said sum of $14,000.00, together with the removal of the old bridges and the erection and maintenance of the new bridge in the manner herein set forth, shall be the Railroad Company's share of the cost of the replacement of said bridges, and the city shall pay all costs, fees, damages and expenses incident to the change of grade for the approach streets, incident to the construction and maintenance of the roadway surfacing and the change of grade and grading, paving and curbing of said approach streets, including the elimination of the depressed sidewalk now extending from Beech avenue and Irwin avenue to Rope alley and North avenue West, as its full share of the cost of the erection and construction of said bridge and approaches.

SEVENTH. The Railroad Company hereby releases and waives any and all rights which it has or might have to demand compensation and/or damages from the City by reason of loss and/or damage to property and injury to or death to persons, caused or in any manner growing out of the removal of the present bridge structures and the construction of the new bridge by the said Railroad Company, and hereby agrees to indemnify, protect and keep harmless the said City from all claims, demands or damages caused by or arising out of the removal of the present bridge structures and the construction and erection of said new bridge in any way caused by or growing out of the work of the said Railroad Company.

EIGHTH. The City further agrees that the Railroad Company shall construct the new bridge in accordance with the approved plans as hereinbefore set forth, which show an elevation so as to provide one (1) foot additional clearance over the tracks of the Railroad Company, and the City will construct the approach streets to meet the said elevation of the bridge, as shown in the plans hereinbefore referred to.

NINTH. The Railroad Company agrees to commence work under this Agreement within sixty (60) days after the approval of the same by the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to diligently proceed to completion.

TENTH. The Railroad Company agrees to make provision for and to permit the City to install water lines on the new bridge, the extra expense involved therein to be paid for by the City; and the Railroad Company further agrees to make provision for and to permit Public Utility Companies, when so requested by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City, to place pipe lines, conduits or other utility facilities on said bridge at the risk of said Utility Companies and provided said Public Utility Companies pay the additional cost occasioned thereby, and provided further that all pipe lines or conduits or other utility facilities placed on said bridge by said City or Public Utility Companies, shall be maintained by and at the expense of the owners thereof.

ELEVENTH. This Agreement shall become effective only upon the approval thereof by the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and it is hereby understood and agreed that neither the purpose nor the intent nor the obligation of this Agreement, if and when approved by the Public Service Commission, is such as to impair or in anywise affect the exercise by said Commission of any of the powers vested in it by the Public Service Company Laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

NO. 37.

AN ORDINANCE—Providing for the observation of the tops of all boiler or furnace stacks, or smoke pipes connecting boilers or furnaces with such stacks, by the firemen in all power and heating plants within the City of Pittsburgh, excepting those in which the only fuel is gas, and excepting buildings used exclusively for private residence purposes and flats and apartment houses in which there are less than six apartments; providing for the issuance of permits in connection therewith and penalties for violation thereof.

WHEREAS—Ordinance No. 566, approved January 4, 1917, provides that "the production or emission within the city of smoke, the density or shade of which is equal to, or greater than Number three (3) of the Ringlemann Chart, from any stack, except that of a locomotive or steamboat, for a period, or for periods aggregating two (2) minutes or more in any period of fifteen (15) minutes, and the emission of such smoke from any locomotive or steamboat, for a period or periods aggregating one (1) minute or more in any period of eight (8) minutes, except for a period not to exceed twenty (20) consecutive minutes, not to exceed once a day, while a new fire is being built therein, is hereby prohibited," and,

WHEREAS—In most cases the top of the stack is not visible from the boiler or furnace room, and therefore the fireman is unable to see whether or not the operation of the boiler or furnace is within the prescribed limits, therefore, in the interest abatement and fuel economy,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That on and after September 1st, 1929, in each power and heating plant within the City of Pittsburgh, excepting those in which the only fuel is gas, and excepting buildings used exclusively for private residence purposes and flats and apartment houses in which there are less than six apartments, the owner or operator shall provide means whereby the firemen may be enabled to know, without leaving the boiler or furnace room, whether or not prohibited smoke is issuing from the stack, so that possible necessary correction may be made at the time.

SECTION 2. Such means of observation shall be either

(a) A window or other opening through which an unobstructed view of the top of the stack may be had from the boiler or furnace room;

(b) A mirror so placed as to reflect from the top of the stack and visible from the boiler or furnace room;

(c) A smoke indicator, approved by the Bureau of Smoke Regulation.

SECTION 3. Application shall be made to the Bureau of Smoke Regulation on a suitable form to be provided and accompanied by a sketch showing the location of the boiler or boilers, furnace or furnaces, smoke pipe and stack and the proposed location and arrangement of the smoke indicator or indicators. Upon approval by the Bureau Chief, Bureau of Smoke Regulation, permit shall be issued without charge, but installation shall not be made until such permit is received by the owner or operator.

SECTION 4. Where the provisions of this ordinance have not been complied with prior to September 1st, 1929, the Bureau Chief, Bureau of Smoke Regulation, upon being satisfied that the owner or operator of a power or heating plant coming within the terms of this ordinance has been unable to comply therewith by reasons beyond his control, the Bureau Chief, Bureau of Smoke Regulation, may grant an extension of time not to exceed sixty days for such compliance.

SECTION 5. If any person or corporation shall violate any one or more of the prohibitions or requirements of this ordinance, he or it, shall upon conviction before any police magistrate or alderman of the City of Pittsburgh, be subject to a fine or penalty not exceeding one hundred ($100.00) Dollars for each and every violation thereof, and each day's violation shall constitute a separate offense; or undergo an imprisonment in the Allegheny County Jail or Workhouse of not more than thirty (30) days or both, at the discretion of the committing magistrate or alderman.

SECTION 6. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE — Locating the East Street Bridge and Approaches in the Twenty-sixth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, on and over Quebec street, over and across Strum way, Hackney street, East street and tracks of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, over and across an unnamed way on, over and across Maguire street and an unnamed street to connect Charles street, north at its intersection with Hazleton avenue with Essen street at its intersection with Moschell street, laying out and opening the same as a public highway, fixing the width and position of the roadway and sidewalks and establishing the grade thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the East Street Bridge and Approaches in the Twenty-sixth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, be and the same are hereby located, laid out and opened as a public highway on and over Quebec street, over and across Strum way, Hackney street, East street and tracks of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, over and across private property and property of the City of Pittsburgh, over and across an unnamed way and on, over and across Maguire street and an unnamed street as said streets and ways are shown on Survey Plan No. 4289, entitled "Plan of East Street Bridge," on file in the Division of Surveys, Bureau of Engineering, Department of Public Works, to connect Charles street, north at its intersection with Hazleton avenue with Essen street at its intersection with Moschell street, along the following described lines, to-wit:

BEGINNING on the westerly 5.0 foot line of Perrysville avenue at a point distant south 14° 25' 20" east 21.05 feet along the westerly 5.0 foot line of Perrysville avenue from a stone monument at the northerly 5.0 foot line of Charles street, north, said point of beginning to be known as Station 9 + 0.0; thence extending north 79° 30' 20" east, parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 21.0 feet south of the northerly 5.0 foot line of Charles street, north, to an angle point at Station 4 + 27.02; thence north 63° 19' 20" east to an angle point at Station 18 + 20.27; thence south 89° 04' 00" east to the intersection of the center line of Essen street and the easterly 5.0 foot line of Gilchrist way at Station 18 + 88.01.

The northerly and southerly lines from Hazelton avenue to Station 16 + 30.58 on the above described survey line shall be parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 20.0 feet respectively north of and south of the above described survey line; thence to Station 16 + 66.49 shall be at a variable distance from the above described survey line increasing from 20.0 feet at Station 16 + 30.58 to 23.0 feet at Station 16 + 66.49 respectively north of and south of the above described survey line; thence to Moschell street shall be parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 23.0 feet respectively north of and south of the above described survey line.

The roadway, from Hazelton avenue to Station 16 + 30.58, shall have a general width of 21.0 feet, the center line of which shall coincide with the above described survey line, thence to Station 17 + 02.40 shall have a variable width ranging from 21.0 feet to 34.0 feet and shall be symmetrical with respect to the above described survey line; thence to Moschell street shall have a uniform width of 34.0 feet, the center line of which shall coincide with the above described survey line.

The sidewalks, from Hazelton avenue to Station 16 + 30.58 shall have a general width of 9.50 feet; thence to Station 17 + 02.40 shall have a variable width ranging from 9.50 feet to 6.0 feet; thence to Moschell street shall have a uniform width of 6.0 feet; they shall lie along and contiguous to the above described roadway throughout.

SECTION 2. The grade of the center line shall begin at the easterly line of Hazelton avenue at an elevation of 408.64 feet, thence falling at the rate of 1.0% for a distance of 1155.97 feet to a point of curve to an elevation of 397.08 feet; thence by a concave parabolic curve for a distance of 100.0 feet to a point of tangent to an elevation of 398.76 feet, thence arising at the rate of 4.37% for a distance of 27.72 feet to the westerly line of Moschell street to an elevation of 399.97 feet.

SECTION 3. The Director of the Department of Public Works shall be and he is hereby authorized, empowered and directed, to the extent that the same is required for the construction and maintenance of the said bridge and approaches, to take, enter upon, and appropriate the lands and properties necessary therefor, over and across which said bridge and approaches are to be erected, together with the ground and property necessary for the erection of retaining walls, abutments and piers therefor.

From the easterly line of Hackney street to Station 13 + 60.04 on the above described survey line the said bridge shall be so erected and maintained as to leave the ground underneath the same free and open for the use of the owners thereof and the elevation of the lowest portion of the superstructure of said bridge shall not be lower than 390.0 feet city datum.

SECTION 4.—That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

BUGS BAER Says

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr., is now building a one-family garage on Fifth avenue, New York.

He will pay $261,000,000 rent during the next 87 years.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When it comes to handing out long strings of ciphers, John is a cruller machine.

We are glad John took an 87-year lease.

We like to see a landlord wait.

Senior's junior claims that he is renting this property to build an opera house.

Looking over the wayside gasoline shrines in America we can state that John's idea of an opera house seems to be a filling station.

They all look like opera houses now.

The finest building in America is a gasoline trap on the Lincoln Highway.

We stopped there for a gallon of advice one day while detouring through Pennsylvania.

Thinking it was the executive mansion, we asked:

"Does the Governor live here?"

The man said, "Nope. But he would like to."

That man was the most sarcastic mechanic we ever saw. After we had fished around in our pockets to find something larger than a penny and smaller than a quarter, he took the coin and wiped it off with a dust cloth.

We do not know what kind of operas will be garaged in Junior's new theater.

But we do know that the chorus will be strictly limited to Standard Oil proxies.

The Standard Oil idea of grand opera may mean that Romeo will serenade Juliet on the balcony of a traffic tower.

We will also discover that Othello did not really smother Desdemona.

All he did was to choke her carbureter.

And when Hamlet picks that skull out of the repair kit, he will say:

"Alas, poor Yorick, his chassis is gone."

Theme Song: "Hello Hawaii, How Are You?"

NO UPRIGHT citizen should stop taking the paper because of the depressing effect of Mr. Cruikshank's pictorial sermons on "The Drunkard's Children." There are only two more plates after today's, which is No. 13 (new series), Map Book 149, Tract 437, Block A, Lot 4. This plate shows young Willebrandt late to choir practice again. People Should Have Say About Raising Salaries

The people, that is the people themselves, not their representatives in legislative bodies, ought to have something to say about the wage they pay their public servants.

Recently there was introduced in Council an ordinance providing for very substantial increases in salary for police magistrates.

A short time ago the county salary board raised the pay of the county solicitor from $7,500 to $10,000 a year, an increase of 33 per cent, at the same time raising some poorly paid employes of the county less than 50 cents a week.

Now we are told there is to be a bill introduced in the Legislature to make the pay of members of the Allegheny County Board of Viewers $10,000 a year, instead of $6,500, an increase of 53 per cent.

If the bill is passed, the people, who are the employers of these public servants, will have to pay whether they like it or not. That is true of many other things, of course, but the payer, in other matters, at least has an option. When you hire a bricklayer, for instance, you will pay what he asks or do without his service. On the other hand, he will accept what you offer or go without work. It becomes a matter of agreement.

Yet in the case of the public worker (put the quotation marks on ''worker'' if you want to), it seems that the employer has nothing to say. And the employer is inclined to be generous, too. He would give underpaid police and others, who really earn more money than they receive, ample salary within his limit to pay. But he doesn't like to be held up. He would like to know at least whether an employe is worth what is asked. Then he would like to have lie with him the decision whether he could afford to pay.

We do not contend that any worker is not worth all that he requests. But we do contend that he may not be worth his price to us in the present state of our finances. We do not see the salary of the people as a whole raised 54 per cent. We do see their tax bills constantly increasing and the tax-making powers racking their brains for means of additional revenue to take care of present burdens, without adding anything to them.

Eventually the people themselves will have to demand the right of fixing the pay of those who work for them if there be not a halt in the procession of those who think the public is Santa Claus.

Speed Up Public Work And Help Unemployed

Council, mindful of the fact that many workers can benefit through employment on city projects, notifies the Public Works Department that the legislative body has done its part and that preparation by the executive branch for a busy summer is in order.

In other words, Council desires that work on more than $8,000,000 in improvements authorized by ordinance, be begun as early in the spring as possible. Through a resolution introduced by President James F. Malone, and adopted, the Public Works Department has been advised of Council's wish to get an early start so that employment be increased and the big program completed on time.

The resolution cites that some contracts last year were not awarded until July, with the consequence that $500,000 in work remained uncompleted when bad weather arrived, thus carrying much of last year's improvement program into the present year.

It is hoped that there will be co-operation in this matter, since the spending of $8,000,000 will be of much benefit in the way of prosperity. Amounts allocated include $2,158,000 for 100 improvement projects covering unimproved streets; $3,000,000 for East street, North and Irwin avenue bridges; $600,000 for raising streets in the North Side flood area, and $1,250,000 for resurfacing and repaving paved streets, as well as smaller sums for numerous sewer works, retaining walls, etc.

The city needs these improvements, the workers need employment, the supply dealers need the business. If we get an early start we will not only be helping ourselves to things we find necessary, but we will be assuring more weeks of employment to many whose occupation is seasonal.

Money Is Power

Water Is Power.

Much money in the hands of American life insurance companies. Their assets in the last year increased by hundreds of millions. Once that would have frightened the foolish.

Now, even the foolish know that it is important to have CONCENTRATED power.

You can do a great deal with Niagara Falls, not much with 100,000 small brooks. Great accumulations of capital can accomplish great things. The business of the public and of governments is to watch and control power, in waterfalls, corporations and elsewhere.

Foolish Zogu

Never Disturb Mohammed.

King Zogu, self-established ruler of Albania, tells his Mohammedan subjects that Sunday, hereafter will be their holy day of rest. Mohammed selected Friday. Zogu wants to turn Christian and be ''in right'' with Mussolini and other Western neighbors. He even wanted to marry an Italian Princess.

Zogu might be warned by the fate of another King, Amanullah of Afghanistan. He ordered no veils for women, European clothing for everybody. They drove him out and his brother, Inyatullah, after him.

Mohammedans do not mind being taxed or killed, but you must not interfere with Mohammed.

Tales That Are Told

The Coward

A LITTLE man and his wife visited the Zoo. When they halted before the hippopotamus he remarked, admiringly: "Darned curious fish, ain't it?"

"That ain't a fish; that's a reptile."

So the argument began. It progressed to a point of such violence that she began hitting her husband with her umbrella. He dodged and ran, with his wife in pursuit.

A keeper had just opened the door of the lions' cage, and the little man popped in. He took refuge behind the largest lion and peered over its shoulder at his wife, who, on the other side of the bars, shook her umbrella furiously.

"Coward!" she shouted. "Coward!"

Letting Him Know

MRS. KINDEIGH was a very generous woman, and when she found out that the bachelor next door was to spend the holiday all by himself, she asked her husband whether they should ask him to join them.

The young man arrived for dinner and did lavish justice to the things put before him. By way of graceful apology he remarked, with a beaming smile directed towards his hostess:

"I hear that the highest compliment one can pay to the housekeeper is to eat heartily. You will observe I have been exceedingly polite."

"Thank you," returned the generous woman. "Indeed, I think you have carried politeness to the point of flattery."

Artful

LITTLE Barbara's eyesight was inclined to be weak, so her mother took her to a doctor, who, after an examination, announced that she would have to wear glasses for a time.

Some weeks later the doctor asked after his little patient.

"Oh, doctor," said the mother, tearfully, "I can't get her to wear those glasses during the day, but"—she brightened up a little—"when she's asleep I creep upstairs and—and slip them on!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was two Scotchmen that were brothers, and they got into an argument with an American about who wrote a book about the Wealth that Nations Ought to Have.

"It was J. P. Morgan who wrote the book," says the American.

"It was a Scotchman by the name of McDonough," says Sandy.

"Ye're both wrong," says Donald, "for it was a Jew by the name of Cohen."

So the American offered to back up his author with a bet of a dollar, and the two Scotch brothers said they'd bet the same.

"Now," says Sandy, "we're so far from anybody that could tell us, suppose we settle it by flipping the dollar."

"All right," says the American, "but there will be some difficulty about that."

"Nae, not at all," says Sandy. "I take heads and Donald takes tails."

"How about me?" says the American.

"Weel, you furnish the dollar, and you're wrong anyhow, but you can have the whole round circle of the dollar for your side, so that if it stands on edge you win."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

A "FAITHFUL READER" doesn't want to know much—Just "How to be perfectly happy?"—that's all!

And I suppose he expects a lot of twittery tips on the subject.

Well, he won't get them from me. I don't know how to be perfectly happy.

And I never met anyone who did.

As far as I know, 100 per cent happiness Just Ain't.

If most of us average 66⅔ per cent on the day's run, we're doing fine.

This world isn't lined up for Complete Bliss. If you've sense enough to wonder what it's all about, it's a cinch it's going to make you sad sometimes and mad often. So right from the jump there's a dent in this theory of perfect happiness.

That's why I can't advise anyone how to be happy—

But I can tell you the next best thing—

GROW A CUD.

GROW A CUD TO CHEW ON DURING THE OFF HOURS.

There are lots of off hours in life over which we have no control. Lots of times when things go flat and we just have to carry on. That's the time to chew your cud. And you're lucky if you have one to chew.

What's a cud?

It's a wad of philosophy, composed of common sense, humor, tolerance and grit. Sweetened with friendliness.

How can you grow a cud?

First, by realizing what you are—AND WHAT YOU AREN'T!

You're a lot to yourself, old dear, but you aren't such big pumpkins to the rest of the world. This information may come as a rude shock to you. It does to most of us. Nevertheless, it's decidedly healthy and it will save you a lot of grief if you'll assimilate it.

Next—sink your teeth in this. The other fellow is just as important as you are. His life means just as much to him as yours means to you.

He feels the same things you feel, though his feelings may function under a sweat-stained shirt and yours under tailored broadcloth. And a hundred years from now your grandchildren will be grinning at both of you.

Get those two facts firmly fixed in your mind and the rest will follow after. For when you once realize your own unimportance you'll be able to laugh and love and endure anything Fate hands you.

That's the cud on which many a man chews when his life goes flat.

And to me, it's a nobler thing to endure the empty hours bravely than it is to enjoy the full ones.

FOR ANY POOR SAP CAN BE HAPPY IF GOD PUTS ON A SHOW—

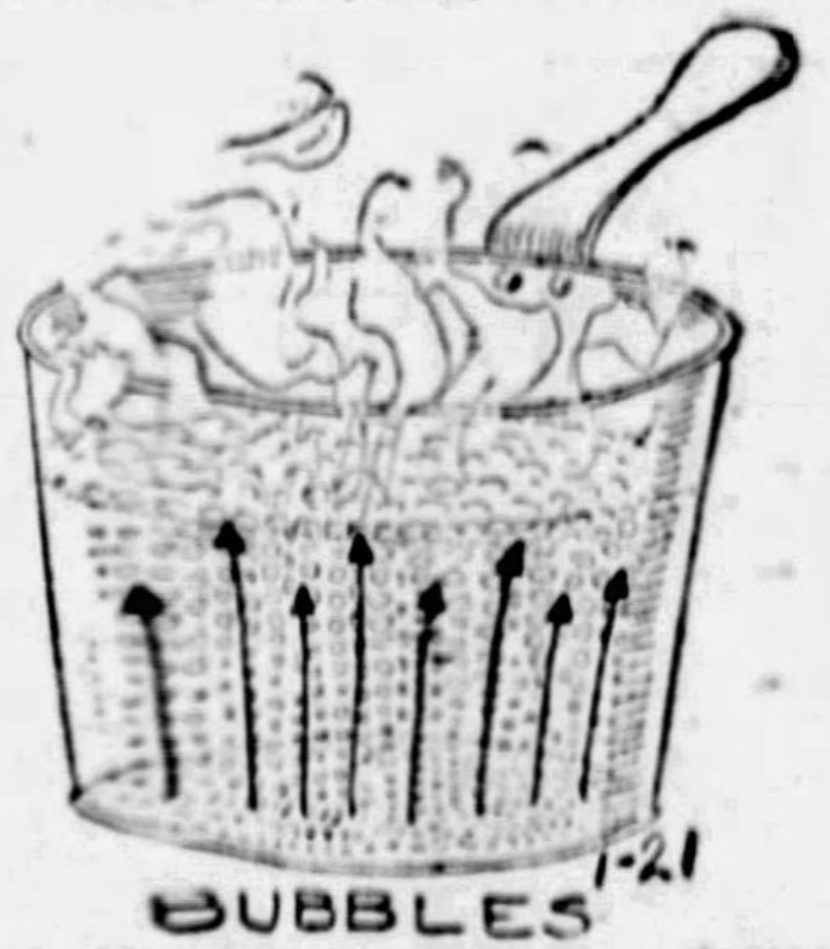
BUBBLES

By Garrett P. Serviss

TWO sharply opposed views of human life have been set forth coincident with the meeting of the American Association in New York. One of them is Dr. Fisk's idea that man does not live as long as he could, or, perhaps, as he should; the other is Sir Arthur Keith's dictum that we ought to be through with life at 50 years at the latest, and that man has been unduly prolonging his individual existence. Sir Arthur avers that men have done all their best work by the time they are 45 or 50. Sir Arthur himself has passed those ripe times of life, and, as he seems a promising example of human ability, perhaps in the future he may personally add to the abundant historical evidence that often the greatest things that men do are done after—sometimes long after—the first half century of life.

Human lives may be likened to steam bubbles. Men are more like bubbles than they suspect. You put a pot of water on the fire. If you could use a transparent vessel the phenomena to be mentioned would be more plainly seen.



As the bottom gets warm, a layer of fine shining little bubbles appears covering it. It is like nature preparing to people the earth with living inhabitants. The bubbles increase in number and size and begin to rise through the liquid. Let us liken each bubble to a human being just starting his life career.

The bubbles increase in number and in size, and when they arrive at the top of the water they disappear by bursting into steam. It is the end of their individual life. Nothing is left of them but some curls of vapor. Shall we liken that to the immaterial part of man, set free at the death of the body?

If the boiling is not violent, but only just sufficient to keep the water in the pot filled with rising bubbles, you may see that they generally increase in magnitude up to a certain general limit. I have seen this beautifully in a warm spring in Yellowstone Park, where huge bubbles, swelling as they emerge out of the depths and glittering like polished silver balls, come majestically to the surface and burst in the air—great souls exploding into immortality!

If the heat is moderate, the speed of ascension of the bubbles is moderate also, and so their life is prolonged, while, at the same time, the birth of new bubbles is less than where a greater degree of heat rapidly produces thronging masses which rise swiftly to the top and burst by wholesale into steam after very brief periods of individual existence.

Is this the state of affairs that would result from Sir Arthur Keith's proposed shortening of human life? Such shortening would surely be attended by an increase of aggregate numbers. Every physiological function would be accelerated in a short, hot life. But would that be to the advantage of the intellectual functions? The ancients who lived by the maxim, "a sound mind in a sound body," did not think that the mere physical disabilities of age should be regarded as setting a time limit for an active mind. Recall what Plato tells of Sophocles, who, when asked in his age how he felt about love, replied: "Hush, if you please. To my great delight I have escaped from it, and feel as if I had escaped a frantic and savage master." Sophocles lived to be 87. He was made a general at 55. He wrote more than a hundred dramas in the course of his life.

Bible Passages

Brotherly Love

(Hebrews 13; 1-8)

LET brotherly love continue.

Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares.

Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

Let your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me.

Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation.

Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever.

Lavender

SOME brought her gifts of costly things:
A shawl of India silk,
A writing-box that, opened, sings,
Rare lace, as white as milk.

It was her birthday and she reigned,
A queen with crown of snow;
Her joy in living had not waned
since day of long ago.

Though she had lived for eighty years
And read life's volume through,
Still was she quick with smiles or tears,
And still Earth's sweetness knew.

It was her birthday and they brought
Fine, lovely gifts to her,
The friends who came with tender thought;
But one brought lavender.

A bunch of lavender that woke
Dim memories which kept . . .
Her youth came back, hope reigned, love spoke,
Where that faint fragrance crept!

O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Among myriad provocative mysteries of Paris, the greatest to me is how its incessant swarms of taxis keep going. They scurry and flit with their honk, squeak, honk, like a giant plague of crickets. Step to the curb, raise a hand, and they almost fly on you.

Down the middle of every boulevard they wait four abreast, and in crowded centers are a foot apart along the curbs. In the most deserted street only wait a minute and an empty taxi is bound to zip by. Sometimes they seem to pop out of the sewers. And some smell as though they had.

One may forget in time the city's architectural grandeur, spreading arches and exquisite gardens, but never the flood of tiny taxis. They are cheaper here than any place else on the globe, starting mostly at a franc, less than four cents, and progressing at penny taximeter leaps. And leaps is the word.

An afternoon shopping expedition with all the waits and a pleasant drive through the Bois will not, including a generous tip, exceed 50 francs, less than $2. With few exceptions, all are tiny, ancient, broken down and nailed up contraptions, rented by drivers from agencies at 50 francs a day—gasoline extra.

Mostly they are driven by insolent, petty brigands—Russians with cold black eyes and dead-leaf faces, or typical tubby Frenchmen with peach-pink cheeks and eyebrows like feathers, resembling for all the world overgrown kewpies. All are old save for the occasional left-over American doughboy.

The Paris taxi driver is rarely a dangerous criminal. He serves the police somewhat as does our "stool-pigeons," and in exchange is permitted his minor gypping. He is befuddled with red wine most of the time, and despite the hilariously cock-eyed traffic rules is seldom in an accident.

He must work, when he works, like fury, to pay for the rent of his cab, yet he is the most independent of all extremely independent workers of Paris. Between the hours of 12 noon and 2 p. m. and 7 and 8 p. m. you cannot engage him. During those hours he is stoking up on garlic and cheese and swigging wine.

* * *

But France's best chuckle is still its telephones. The service annoys Americans most. They are accustomed to first-class service, while the British are accustomed to whatever they can get. Today, by actual clocking, an hour was required getting a number within a few blocks of the hotel. That gives you a sketchy idea.

* * *

Americans who go broke in Paris quite naturally hunt for the well-known expedient at home—the pawnshop. But there aren't any. The law against them is rigid. A private citizen may not even advance money on an article offered by another. All pawnshops are under municipal control—the Credit Municipal—and are open one day each month in the various arondissements. Then only one-tenth of the value of an article is offered.

Many years ago a London journalist pointed out a famous cocotte who nightly patrolled the Grands Boulevards—a one-legged slip of a girl weaving her way in and out the throngs gracefully on white enameled crutches. Since then I have always watched for her, and not until my last visit was she missed. But last night in front of Le Matin I saw her again—now stout with an unhealthy bloat, but still pursuing the oldest calling.

Paris has little to offer in plays. The New York stage is far more important, exciting and alive. The best liked revue is called "Charles Lindbergh," and it smacks of our Follies of 10 years ago, with the inevitable scenic view of Broadway at night. The youth who plays Lindbergh is such a close likeness the resemblance is startling and people often follow him on the boulevards.

A joint cable collect from Will Hogg and Irvin Cobb in Buenos Aires reads: "Restaurant named for you here—Cafe Coocoo." As though I'm not used to long distance insults. And what a youknow spot to pick out for a collect cable!

Also a postcard from the Swiss Family O'Malley—per Frank Ward—and their Alpine chamois hound, now at Vevay, Switzerland. A hearty welcome from Billy DeBeck, the Barney Google cartoonist, living far from Broadway at St. Raphael. And merry telephone buzzes from Ralph Barton, Michael Arlen, Erskine Gwynne and Henri Letellier.

This Congress is a bare-faced affair. There isn't a set of whiskers in the whole body capable of settling the farm relief question.

Uncle Sam has an iron man that calculates the influences of the sun and moon on the earth. That's one guy time and tide have to wait for.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

PERHAPS you belong to what is known as the middle class.

You pity those in the so-called lower class.

You have visited in their homes.

With their cheap and ordinary furnishings and generally shabby surroundings these people, you think, have little to live for.

But what do those next above you think of your outfit?

Yet you get a lot of comfort and joy out of what you have.

Perhaps those you pity may get as much or more happiness than you do out of your more expensive possessions.

At times you have been tempted to speak in a sympathizing way to those who have less than you.

Don't follow out any such idea.

You are pretty well satisfied with what you can afford.

How would you feel to know that some one is sorry for you because you cannot have certain expensive things he has?

Let others be happy and contented as you would like to be yourself.

Don't be the one who suggests that people should not be happy with what they possess.
